$50,000 SAUSALITO FIRE INJURES TWO

Sausalito Fireman Steve Osborn inspects charred kitchen debris on the deck of the Thomas T. Laufer residence, 624 Spencer Avenue. The top three stories of the four-story home and designer's shop were gutted by fast-spreading flames at 6:21 a.m. today. Police helped Laufer, 64, and his wife Eva, 58 escape the blaze; they were treated at Marin General Hospital for minor injuries. Firemen said the blaze's cause was unknown. Damage was estimated at more than $50,000, including a new auto; only Laufer's shop and drafting equipment in the lowest floor of the hillside home escaped major damage. Factory Plan Test Seen In Marin City

Night Hours Set At Civic Center

Marin's Civic Center Administration Building, sealed off at night after the bombings of a courtroom Oct. 8, will re-open for evening use on March 22.

County Administrator Alan Bruce announced yesterday that the county library on the fourth floor will remain open until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Night meetings will be allowed in the rest of the Administration Building until 10 p.m. on weekdays, but everyone must be out of the building by 10:30 p.m.

On weekends, the building will continue to be closed. Evening use will be allowed only in the administration unit, not in the Hall of Justice wing.

Four new sheriff's deputies will patrol the building for the evening hours, two at the entrance and two to watch the interior, balconies and the parking area.

On Oct. 13, the Marin County Board of Supervisors ordered a new 17-man security force, body searches at entrances and metal detector devices. The metal detectors and random search at the entrances will continue.

Fiber Housing Plan Runs Into Opposition

By PAT ANGLE

Despite objections from a Marin City group seeking exclusive development rights in the community, a corporation from Hawaii won tentative permission last night to test a plan to build a factory in the Southern Marin Community.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency gave preliminary approval to a proposal by Housing Corp. of Hawaii to construct a model glass fiber house in Marin City, with an eye on building a plant in the community to manufacture the homes.

The Hawaiian firm was one of three companies newly presenting community development plans to the agency board last night.

While making no final decision on the Hawaiian firm's proposal, the agency board directed its attorney to draw up agreements with the company for consideration at a special meeting March 23.

G. David Baldwin, president of the firm, said the company would build the prefabricated house, with the idea of testing it for practicality, safety and quality. If the building proves successful and marketable, Baldwin said, his company will agree to build a factory to manufacture it in Marin City. He said such an operation would employ up to 120 persons and promised community residents would receive top priority for employment.

In addition, Baldwin said, the firm would consider turning the factory over to local ownership by a Marin City group, but would continue to receive royalties from the operation.

He expressed confidence the glass fiber housing will prove practical, because it is stronger than dual wall frame buildings and much less expensive. According to the president, a four-bedroom, two-bath house made from the material would cost $14,000, or a total of $19,000 including lot expenses.

If the project proves a failure, he said, the company would remove the structure and foundation at no cost to the redevelopment agency.

The presentations by Baldwin and representatives of the two other development groups drew angry comments from representatives of the Marin Urban Development Association, which consists of seven Marin City residents. The group has received tentative approval as Marin City's official developer from the redevelopment agency, although no contract has been signed pending approval from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Housing consultant Ulysses Montgomery, who is working with the local group, said Baldwin's proposal would have to be evaluated "before there can be any discussion at all" and suggested Marin City consider many proposals before making a choice.

C. J. Williams, president of the local association, said the redevelopment agency had given the group nine months to prepare a development plan and should not allow another contractor to move into Marin City now.

"You are asking for legal action against you," Thelma McKinney, association secretary, warned the board.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the redevelopment agency, said the agency has only enough money left to operate for another 18 months and served notice he would continue to seek out individuals and firms interested in developing the community.

The redevelopment board seemed to agree. "I haven't heard too many people eager to start a business in Marin City," said board member Llewellyn A. White. "If the housing is a success, we might have something good in this community."

"We have an opportunity here and we should seize it," said board member Collie Gaines.

Another proposal came from Tim O'Donoghue of the O'Donoghue Investment Co. of Marin. He offered to buy all or part of the remaining land in Marin City to build single-family homes in the $25,000 to $35,000 price range.

"I don't have the perfect solution to Marin City's problems," O'Donoghue admitted, "but it's about time this community got an economic base. It needs better schools and a shopping center. To get these things, you have to bring in more people."

O'Donoghue said he is willing to buy the land immediately, then let the local group have an option on the property and a chance to develop it. "If MUDA's plan doesn't work out, then we'll build," he said. The developer also promised he would help pay costs of an access road from Marin City to Mill Valley if he is allowed to build homes in Marin City.

John Moore of Kaiser Aetna said his company wants to build approximately 100 units of apartment housing in the hill area at the community's north end and indicated the firm is willing to pay $1,200 per unit for the land it wants.

Montgomery questioned whether the redevelopment agency, which has been negotiating with the local associa-

San Anselmo Chops 'First Call' Service

By LARRY MOWELL

Unwilling to provide police protection to persons who don't pay for it, the San Anselmo City Council decided last night to end all "first call" service to Sleepy Hollow. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 10.)

Mayor James F. Reed noted that San Anselmo police answered 25 calls in unincorporated areas during 1970. Of those, only two were to assist sheriff's deputies. The remainder, he said, were emergency calls in which sheriff's units were not available.

Under last night's rulings, San Anselmo police will continue to assist deputies who call for help, but will not answer calls because deputies are not available.

(An action similar to San Anselmo's was proposed before the city council in neighboring Fairfax Monday night, but no action was taken. A motion directing both Fairfax police and firemen not to respond first to calls in the neighboring unincorporated area of Oak Manor was withdrawn before it was voted on.

(Both Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr and Fire Chief Charles F. Thornton expressed concern about neglecting residents' calls for assistance.

(On April 20, Sleepy Hollow residents will vote on creation of a community services district which, among other things, could provide police protection.)

"We do not have surplus police vehicles or men to respond," Reed said.

Councilman Warren R. Perry said he opposed "first call" service "in view of the position the county has taken." The Marin Board of Supervisors Feb. 23

Ex-General Denies PX Corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole denounced today as "unproved, untrue and slanderous" sworn charges that he allowed corruption at servicemen's clubs and post exchanges during his Army career.

Cole, who was reduced to colonel prior to his retirement last summer, protested that accusations against him at Senate Investigations Subcommittee hearings destroyed his career. He threatened to go to the Supreme Court if necessary to clear his name.

During the subcommittee's hearings on alleged bribery and corruption in PX and club systems around the world, Cole's activities while in charge of such operations in Vietnam, and later in Europe, have come under close scrutiny.

Taking the witness stand in his defense, Cole declared: "For the last 18 months, I have been the target of unprecedented, unproved, untrue and slanderous accusations which have destroyed my career and my very existence.

"I welcome this opportunity to tell the whole story, the whole truth before what I hope and expect to be a fair forum, and to dispose once and for all of these sensationalist accusations made against me by a few discontented subordinates and other persons of questionable motives who intend to destroy not only me, but through me, the world image of the American officer and fighting men."

Most of the recent charges made against Cole involved his actions as deputy chief of staff for personnel and administration at the U.S. Army's Vietnam headquarters at Long Binh from mid-1966 through 1967.

'Nuclear Balance Shifts To Soviets'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Adm. Thomas H. Moorer said today the nuclear balance of power "has shifted drastically" in favor of the Soviet Union.

Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the United States still maintains a slim strategic lead and must maintain it "at all costs" if we are to avoid becoming a second-rate power within five to six years.

The nation's highest ranking military man said that for this country to allow itself to slip behind Russia in overall nuclear capability would cost "a very high price in the effectiveness of our diplomacy."

Moorer testified before a closed hearing of the House Armed Services Committee. A heavily censored 31-page transcript of his prepared testimony was made public.

Moorer said there are three interrelated measures of strategic balance—numbers of missiles and bombers, total megatonage (power) of weapons, and total number of bombs or missile warheads.

Russia already leads in the number of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, with almost 1,500 to America's 1,054, and may be installing "an altogether new missile system," he said. Although the Russians trail in the number of bombers and submarine missiles, he said, they will "most likely" have more nuclear

Medina Denies Giving Calley 'Waste' Orders

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— Capt. Ernest L. Medina testified today that he specifically directed his troops not to kill women and children at My Lai and denied that he ordered Lt. William L. Calley Jr. to kill or "waste" Vietnamese civilians.

The 34-year-old Army veteran, his Silver and Bronze star medal ribbons showing on his tunic, testified calmly in direct refutation to many of the points Calley had made as his own star defense witness in the court-martial that could result in the death penalty with a guilty verdict.

Calley, 27, commanded a platoon in the infantry company that Medina led on a search-and-destroy sweep of the Vietnamese hamlet on the morning of March 16, 1968. Calley is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 men, women and children that day.

Calley testified earlier that in a briefing on the evening before the sweep Medina told his assembled infantrymen to kill everything alive in the village and in answer to a question from the ranks had said the order included women and children.

Holding a tiny microphone sometimes in one hand and sometimes between his clasped, twined fingers, the swarthy captain was led through a long narrative of events before My Lai and the assault proper.

The few questions asked were by Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the judge, on behalf of the six-officer jury which had called Medina as the first of three witnesses of its own who will end the military trial.

Medina told Kennedy he was asked questions at the briefing and one was: "Do we kill women and children?"

"My reply to that question was—no," Medina said. "I told them not to kill women and children, to use common sense. If they have a weapon and they are trying to engage you, you can shoot back, but you must use common sense."

Just before the luncheon recess, Kennedy asked: "At any time on March 15 or March 16, 1968, did you order or direct Lt. Calley to kill or waste any Vietnamese people?"

"No, sir," Medina replied.

Medina began by describing

Drugs For Learning Supported

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government made public today a report by a panel of private specialists saying there was strong evidence that school children with certain "behavior disorders" improved in learning aptitude when given pep pills.

The panel—including pediatricians, psychiatrists, education specialists, mental health experts and others—also said they found no evidence to show that amphetamine drugs, when properly administered to pupils, might lead to drug addiction in later life.

The Independent-Journal is currently presenting a series of six articles by Arnold Arnold on the editorial page on drugs in the classroom. Today's story can be found on page 20.)

"When the medication is effective, the child can modulate and organize his activities in the direction he wishes," the report said.

"The stimulant does not slow down or suppress the hyperkinetic (overactive) child in the exercise of his initiative. Nor does it pep him up, make him feel high, over stimulated or out of touch with his environment."

The group said its studies indicated that children given amphetamines showed improvement, from the standpoint of alertness, learning and social behavior.

The report was released by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, based on findings of a 15-member panel headed by Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, professor and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Chicago.

"Every member of the panel was carefully selected to represent a wide range of scientific interests," said Dr. Edward F. Zigler, director of HEW's Office of Child Development.

"The statement is the product of some of the finest expertise in the country, and I am confident that it will clarify issues which have been of concern to the public."

Hyperkinetic disturbance is said to affect about three in every 100 grade school children and is characterized among other things by poor attention in class, disordered behavior and intense physical and mental overactivity.

The panel said very little is known about the causes of such disorders.

Nixon Sees Possibility Of No More U.S. Wars

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon believes the Vietnam War may be the last ever faced by the country and said the war will not be a political issue in the 1972 presidential campaign, The New York Times said today.

"This war is ending," Nixon said in the interview. "In fact, I seriously doubt if we will ever have another war. This is probably the very last one."

Nixon was interviewed in his office by C. L. Sulzberger, the foreign affairs columnist of The Times. The interview was published in today's edition.

Nixon would not say precisely how many American troops were expected to be in South Vietnam by mid-1972 but he talked about the elections that year.

"Those who think Vietnam is going to be a good political issue next year are making a grave miscalculation," he said. "Now, I am not applying our policy there for political reasons but for reasons of national security.

"Nevertheless, those who are counting on Vietnam as a political issue in this country next year are going to have the rug jerked from under them."

Nixon said he was concerned that he should not be caught in a "vicious cross fire" between what he called the "superdoves" and the "superhawks" who would pull out immediately or escalate dangerously.

"I'd like to see us not end the Vietnamese War foolishly and find ourselves all alone in the world," he said. "I could have chosen that course my very first day in office.

"But I want the American people to be able to be led by me, or by my successor, along a course that allows us to do what is needed to help keep the peace in this world."

The President said he wanted an orderly withdrawal from Southeast Asia, but did want

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Paris Battle

PARIS (UPI) —A four-hour battle between police and thousands of young political extremists Tuesday night left 73 policemen injured and four demonstrators in jail, police said.

The rioters fought with Molotov cocktails, paving stones and lance-like poles. The police broke through street barricades with bulldozers and put down the fighting with teargas and water cannon. Several cars were burned and some store windows were smashed in the area, they said.

The violence broke out near the Porte de Versailles in southwestern Paris, where some 700 militants of the "New Order," an extreme right group, tried to hold a meeting.

The rioting climaxed lively campaigning for next Sunday's nationwide city council elections. The balloting will be the first showdown between the Gaullists of President Georges Pompidou and his opponents since Pompidou's election in 1969.

Ireland Shooting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A shooting incident north of Belfast wounded a policeman today and explosions damaged a Belfast bank and cigarette factory but caused no injuries, a police spokesman said.

The spokesman said the policeman was shot in the shoulder at Ballyclare but was not seriously hurt.

Tornado Death

KENNER, La. (UPI)—A tornado slashed through this New Orleans suburb before dawn today, killing one person, injuring five others and heavily damaging between 15 and 20 houses.

The Jefferson County sheriff's office said the Twister hit a mostly residential section. A deputy sheriff said the tornado ripped into the Mardi Gras Motel, but apparently caused no injuries there.

Israel Split

By U.P. International

The Israeli parliament defeated a motion to pull out of the Middle East peace negotiations today but there was evidence of a split developing over government policies.

The motion by the right-wing Gahal Party to pull out of the talks was defeated by a 40-25 vote with five abstentions. The party had also demanded an immediate debate on the political and military situation now that Egypt has refused to extend the cease-fire with Israel.

Gahal's motion and the support it won indicated the split in both the Israeli leadership and public over the continuation of the indirect negotiations under U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring in New York.

Indira Wins

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi won reelection to Parliament today in the violence-marked Indian general elections that have taken 94 lives. And her ruling Congress Party was piling up margins that promised her control of Parliament.

Election officials said Mrs. Gandhi had won with a margin of more than 100,000 votes in her home constituency of Rae Barelli in Uttar Pradesh state.

Order In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Premier Olof Palme's cabinet today approved an emergency law ordering an end to six weeks of crippling strikes and lockouts involving 47,000 government employes.

The cabinet, which met with King Gustaf VI Adolf in council, sent the unprecedented piece of legislation to the Riksdag (parliament) ,which met shortly after the cabinet meeting.

Government sources said the Riksdag was expected to pass the bill late today or early Thursday. It then will be signed into law by the king.

The move, announced Tuesday night, would prohibit the civil servants from going out on strike again for at least six weeks.

Government sources said the nation should return to normal again within a few days.

Indicted For Threat

SEATTLE (UPI)—A federal grand jury indicted a young California draftee Tuesday on charges of kidnaping, air piracy and threatening a flight crew in the hijacking of a jetliner carrying him to basic training.

Nixon Appointee Defeats Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —William J. Casey has convinced the Senate Banking Committee of his fitness to head the Securities and Exchange Commission despite an accusation that he engineered shady business deals and tried to mislead the Senate about his 1961 conviction on a plagiarism charge.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., in his effort to defeat Casey's nomination Tuesday even produced the judge who sat at Casey's trial and a court stenographer's record which indicated Casey had slapped at a "needling" lawyer.

Proxmire contended that Casey's business career showed he lacked the ethics required of the chairman of the agency which polices Wall Street and protects 31 million investors.

But the committee voted 9 to 3 to reaffirm its earlier approval of Casey. The nominee argued that only a faulty memory had led him to give incorrect testimony about the plagiarism case four weeks ago and to neglect to mention two other civil suits in which he was a defendant. Both suits charged him with violating the law the SEC is responsible for enforcing. Casey, 58, a nationally known tax lawyer. A millionaire and a substantial contributor to President Nixon's 1968 campaign, admitted his testimony before the committee had been wrong.

His admission came after Judge J. Braxton Craven Jr. of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals contradicted Casey's earlier testimony about the plagiarism suit. In that suit lawyer Harry Fields collected $20,500 in damages after convincing a jury that Casey's tax magazine had pirated from a manuscript he had submitted to Casey.

The stenographic record of the trial had been sealed. Casey testified Feb. 10 that the sealing was done at the judge's own suggestion and said the judge had told lawyers for both sides that the jury's guilty verdict "was not supported by the evidence."

Not so, testified, lanky, white-haired Judge Craven. "I thought the verdict was amply supported by the evidence," he said and "I had no intention in the world to seal that record." He said Casey wanted it hidden from public view to avoid "devastating" publicity.

Gas masks were developed in World War I.

Operation Set To Save A Giant

HOUSTON (UPI) —At age 6, Delores Pullard Johnson was 5 feet 2. By the time she reached the age of 14, she had grown to a full 7 feet.

It was also at the age of 14 she sustained a back injury while playing basketball that caused her to go to a New Orleans hospital. Doctors examined her and found a brain tumor in her pituitary gland that was causing an abnormally high secretion of the growth hormone.

Mrs. Johnson became concerned about the tumor a few months ago when she began having severe headaches and blurred vision because the tumor was pressing on the optic nerve.

Mrs. Johnson, now 24, 431 pounds and 8 feet 2, was to be operated on today to remove that tumor. Doctors hope the operation will prevent her from going blind.

Doctors said they will have to use three operating tables for the woman from DeQuincy, La. Two tables will be placed side by side and the third will be put at one end to accommodate her legs.

Mrs. Johnson, married to a 6-1 farmer, works in a carnival sideshow five months a year.

Doctors Hear How Amputees Recover

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A severed hand or arm sewn back on the body is "clearly superior" to any artificial limb, two surgeons reported Tuesday.

They cited the cases of a carpenter who is working at his trade after having his hand sewn back on four years ago and a youth who holds two jobs and drives a souped-up car with an arm grafted back on in 1962.

Drs. William H. Harris and Ronald Mault of Boston told the annual meeting of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons the cases showed "well-executed human replantation is clearly superior in functional results to any prosthetic device."

They said the 27-year-old carpenter "pinches well, grasps, holds a pen or a nail, picks up a glass or book and can carry a heavy load." They said he is able to perform well in his trade despite some fusion of joints in the fingers.

The doctors said the man accidentally sawed off the hand, then "shut off the saw and walked around it to pick up his hand out of scrap box." The carpenter then put his hand in his apron pocket and went to the foreman, "who promptly fainted."

After the victim revived the foreman and got taken to a hospital, the hand was sewn on in an eight-hour operation.

The doctors also cited Everett Knowles Jr., now 20, whose arm was amputated in a 1962 train accident and grafted back on. They said the young man now holds two jobs and drives a souped-up auto.

Another speaker told convention delegations "overprivileged kids" should learn to box.

Dr. Max M. Novich, a former boxer, said he teaches pugilism to youngsters who have "too much mother and too many sisters" and need the training to handle the bullies found on every schoolyard.

His boxing school in East Orange, N.J., is free for the affluent youngsters who attend it, and he's thinking of adding judo and other self-defense skills, the surgeon said.

Novich insisted learning to fight doesn't create bullies.

$1.1 Billion Rural Sharing Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon proposed today a $1.1 billion revenue-sharing program for rural America, saying it would provide orderly development of rural areas and help stem migration to the cities.

The program, outlined in a message to Congress, would combine 11 present agriculture grant and development programs worth $921 million with $179 million in additional funds.

The money would go in block grants to all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam for distribution to rural counties with a population density of less than 100 persons per square mile. There are more than 2,800 such counties.

The $1.1 billion would be parceled out according to a formula based on a stated rural population, rural income compared to the per capita national average income, and the relative migration of state's rural population to urban areas.

Nixon also pointed out that rural areas would receive a share of $5 billion in general revenue sharing funds he already has proposed. These funds would be distributed to states on a no-strings-attached basis.

The program outlined today was one of six special revenue sharing programs Nixon outlined in his State of the Union message in January. The funds must be earmarked to general purposes such as rural development, but the states make the decisions on specific programs.

The existing farm programs the President proposed to consolidate are Title 5 regional commissions, $38 million; the Appalachian Regional Commission, $278 million; the Economic Development Administration, $227 million; Resource Conservation and Development Program, $4 million; Cooperative Agricultural Extention Service, $149 million; Grants for Rural Water and Waste Disposal Facilities, $42 million; and Rural Environmental Improvement Programs of $183 million.

Hanoi Is Shifting Supply Line

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese commanders were reported shifting parts of the Ho Chi Minh supply trail deeper into Laos today and stepping up truck traffic in the face of advances by South Vietnamese troops. U.S. jets knocked out five Soviet-made tanks in the area.

As one South Vietnamese force continued to move against the trail in Laos, another Saigon army began a new phase of operations against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia and U.S. headquarters disclosed that B52 Stratofortresses were supporting it with saturation bomb raids.

A communique from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh said Cambodia's small army has suffered more than 13,000 men killed and wounded in almost a year of war. The figures—4,496 killed and 8,624 wounded dating back to March 18, 1970—did not include more than 6,000 soldiers listed as missing in action.

U.S. military sources said Communist truck traffic over the Ho Chi Minh Trail—actually a vast network of roads and jungle passages—was down only 20 per cent from a year ago despite the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese drive into Laos which has seized the key hub of Sepone, 27 miles from the Vietnamese border.

Saigon headquarters reported today that U.S. jet fighter-bombers knocked out the five Soviet-built T34 tanks in raids southeast of Sepone, a town which fell to the South Vietnamese last Saturday.

Board Gets Budget Of $253,850

A $253,850 preliminary operating budget for 1971-72 has been presented to the Bolinas-Stinson School District board for study.

Supt. Lester M. Horning, who presented the spending program Monday, said it will not increase the district's current total tax rate of $2.25 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget, down slightly from this year's $266,990 budget, includes expenditures of $126,870 for instruction, $14,850 for administration, $12,500 for transportation, $15,200 for plant operation, $9,250 for plant maintenance, $26,394 in fixed charges, $9,636 for capital outlay and $38,000 in undistributed reserves.

All the proposed expenses are subject to change as trustees review the spending program, according to the superintendent.

The Bolinas-Stinson School District board also:

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Christine Meltzer as a substitute noontime aide at $2.50 per hour.

SEWER SYSTEM — Asked the superintendent for more information on the cost and implications of including Bolinas School in a sewage disposal network being planned by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

Toyon Map Denied By Planners

San Rafael Planning Commission members last night denied approval of the tentative map for Toyon Terrace, a five-lot subdivision proposed off Makin Grade.

Neighbors voiced strong opposition to the proposal on grounds it would increase traffic and pose a drainage threat to residents below the development, according to Herbert G. Hotchner, city planning director.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

REZONING — Recommended rezoning from R-3-S high-rise apartments district to Planned Community District for the proposed apartment development at 100 Channing Way off Professional Center Parkway. Little discussion resulted from the developers' announced plans to decrease the number of proposed apartments by 80. The commission granted a use permit to Capital Programs, Inc. to build 245 clustered units on the site.

FLEA MARKET — Granted owner Abe Blumenfeld a three-months' permit to operate a flea market from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays at the Marin Motor Movie, 21 Bellam Boulevard. If no traffic or other problems develop, Hotchner may extend the permit another three months, the commission agreed.

ORCHID DRIVE — Despite neighborhood opposition, approved preliminary proposals of the Pell Development Co. for a 70-umit project on a 15.3-acre site off Orchid Drive. The commission requested further details before holding a formal hearing on the plans and necessary rezoning.

TIDELANDS — Postponed discussion of a proposed tidelands and waterways ordinance to the commission meeting March 23.

SIGN ORDINANCE — Recommended that the city council approve minor revisions of the city's sign ordinance.

tion for the past year, was acting in good faith by bringing in other developers at this time, just as contracts were about to be signed.

"Has MUDA come up with plans like these?" asked Mary Brooks, head of the Marin City Tenants Union. "I haven't seen them if they have. If these men want to come in and build, the more the merrier. We have to do something to get off the ground.

Montgomery said the local group is seeking federal funds to build federally subsidized rental units in Marin City and also wants to construct subsidized housing for sale and market-rate housing.

Shepherd replied he did not feel Marin City needs any more subsidized housing that the community "already has too much."

Daniel Winters, executive director of the Marin City Community Services District, said the community has no idea what the local association is planning. Williams said the development association will be happy to reveal its plans once the contracts naming the group developer are signed.

this to turn to new isolationism or a lessening of the national defense.

"We must not forget our alliances or our interests," he said. "Other nations must know that the United States has both the capability and the will to defend these allies and protect these interests....

"If I lived in another country that wanted to be sure and retain its right to self-determination, I would say: 'Thank God that the United States exists at this moment of history.'

"We are not bent on conquest or on threatening others. But we do have a nuclear umbrella that can protect others, above all the states to which we are allied or in which we have great national interest."

Nixon stressed the need for continued negotiations with the Communist world.

"For obviously pragmatic reasons, therefore, we can see peace slowly shaping up," he said. "First, as we are doing, we must end the war in Vietnam. We must continue our Soviet negotiations and open the door of cooperation to China.

"Was it real bad?" asked Kennedy.

"Yes," Medina replied. "Even though we were warned how bad it was, we had not moved from landing zone Dotti (the company location) more than 1,500 meters when the first individual detonated a booby trap."

Medina, commander of Charlie Company, the American infantry unit that swept through the Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai on March 16, 1968, was called by the Calley jury to tell his story of the alleged massacre of civilians there.

Calley sat facing his calm, self-possessed former commander as Medina testified.

Under the questioning of the judge, in behalf of the jury, Medina, who also faces court-martial in the My Lai incident, was allowed to go into a long recital of the formation of the company at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii.

Prior to bringing the six-officer jury in, Kennedy had said he would permit Medina's counsel, F. Lee Bailey, to inerrupt with at least one objection if he felt Medina was getting into an area where he might incriminate himself.

delivery vehicles than the United States by the mid-1970s.

Already the Soviets "are far superior to us in total strategic offensive megatons," Moorer said. He said a reduction in the number of U.S. heavy bombers and a transition to smaller yield bombs had widened the gap in the past four years, but gave no numbers or totals.

"Only in numbers of strategic offensive warheads is the United States likely to maintain its lead over the Soviet Union during the 1970s," he said.

Again, Moorer gave no figures. However, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, testifying before the same committee Tuesday, revealed for the first time that America's total number of warheads is increasing faster than Russia's. This is because the United States is switching to multi-warhead ICBMs and submarine missiles.

"I believe it is fair to say that the overall strategic balance, during the last five or six years, has shifted drastically in favor of the Soviet Union," Moorer said.

"Our comfortable lead has now all but vanished, and within the next five or six years we could actually find ourselves in a position of overall strategic inferiority. Soviet achievement of a clear-cut strategic superiority must be avoided at all costs.

"We will pay a very high price in the effectiveness of our diplomacy if we permit the Soviet Union to achieve a clearly evident overall strategic superiority, even were that superiority to have no practical effect on the outcome of an all-out nuclear exchange."

Moorer said the recent slowdown in construction of Russian missile sites, has made it hard to predict Soviet missile force plans past the middle of this year.

"This may simply represent a deliberate pause pending the availability for deployment of improved systems, or an altogether new missile," Moorer said. "Our most recent intelligence reveals the initiation by the Soviets of a new ICBM silo construction program.

"The new silos are unlike any others which the Soviets have previously constructed, and we do not know what these silos are intended for or how many will be built."

turned down a proposed police services district championed by the cities that would have required unincorporated areas exclusively to pay the cost of beefed-up police protection.

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart, the only dissenter, charged the decision was being made "not out of reason, but out of spite." He added, "All we are doing is creating ill will."

However, Perry and Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson said the unincorporated areas should be shown they will have to pay their own ways.

"As long as these people can sit outside the city limits and have their cake and eat it too, that is great for them," Anderson said.

A Sleepy Hollow resident questioned the motive of the council, but Reed said, "It is simply a matter of having to provide service to the area which pays for it."

He said serving unincorporated areas jeopardizes protection in the city.

Charge Filed After Collision

A Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of felony drunken driving following a head-on collision on the Ignacio Boulevard Bridge over High 101.

The California Highway Patrol said William Talmage Johnson, 56, of 64 Nova Lane, was eastbound on Ignacio Boulevard in the westbound lanes at 10:30 p.m. Monday when his car collided with one driven by Kristine K. Gubser, 23, of 1822 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Johnson was treated at Marin General Hospital for a nose injury, booked into jail and released on $1,200 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

Petaluma Staff Cuts Ordered

The Petaluma Board of Education, its bid to levy a tax increase rejected by voters, last night reluctantly authorized money-saving staff cuts, but said it hoped the action could be rescinded next month.

The cuts, affecting programs in both the elementary and high school districts, would eliminate a secondary reading teacher and a part-time music teacher and send a full and part-time elementary reading teacher back as classroom instructors.

The board, which joined district staff in opposing the cuts, said it hoped other sections of the proposed 1971-72 budget could be trimmed to permit full reinstatement of the affected programs.

Schools Supt. Lesley H. Meyer held similar hopes, saying other sections of the budget would be looked at for possible savings, but warned the board must cut 10 per cent of its proposed spending program because of defeat Feb. 23 of proposed tax rate boosts in the elementary and high schools districts.

Meyer said such areas of the budget as transportation, allocations for classified employees, capital outlay and overtime pay would be reviewed before a final decision is made on cuts affecting the reading and music programs.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

MEETING — Changed the date of the next regular meeting to March 26 at 12:15 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School and said a study session on budget cuts would be held March 23 at 8 p.m., the regular meeting date.

CAMPING — Approved an outdoor education contract that will permit sixth grade students at McDowell, McNear and Grant schools to spend a week at Camp Cazzadero. Costs will be paid by individual students and through fund-raising events.

Bruce Burglar Gets 6 Months

Jack Martin Green, 20, of San Anselmo, has been sentenced to six months in Marin County Jail for burglarizing the home of County Administrator Alan Bruce last Oct. 16.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on Monday also placed Green on probation for two years.

Green was arrested when a policeman saw him walking down the driveway of the Bruce residence in San Anselmo, carrying stereo equipment and an accordion.

Guilty Plea To Reduced Charge

Arthur Lee Ward, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing stolen property.

Ward is to be sentenced March 29.

He was arrested Jan. 26 when he was caught coming out of a Belvedere residence carrying $10,000 in furs.

Teachers Admit In Erring On Release

The joint action committee of two Tamalpais High School District teachers associations announced yesterday it erred in a release to the Independent-Journal setting dates next week for neighborhood coffees to discuss the district's reorganization plan.

The story, which appeared in yesterday's I-J, said coffees were set for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday when actually they were scheduled for yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Coffees scheduled for 8 p.m. today are at the homes of Russell Hill, 17 Oak Road, Fairfax; David Freed, 35 Harbor Drive, Corte Madera; Robert Wylie, 98 Coronet Avenue, Mill Valley; Jack Velte, 32 Mountain View Road, Fairfax, and Maurine Ballard and Elaine Young, 122 Marion Avenue, Mill Valley.

Coffees scheduled for 8 p.m. tomorrow are at the homes of Donal Brown, 410 Sausalito Street, Corte Madera; John Cunningham, 30 Elm Avenue, Larkspur; Dr. Thomas Newton, 200 South Ridgewood Road, Kentfield; Dr. Merall Roth, 14 Via Cheparro, Greenbrae; Mardys Whiteman, 111 Ridge Road, San Anselmo, and Russell Jones, 10 Winship Avenue, Ross.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Good Samaritan Hospital in Baltimore has switched its heating system from oil to natural gas to aid in the war on pollution. Oil produces sulphur dioxide, a bronchial irritant, but gas, when burned properly, produces none.

Perplexing Mystery: Invisible Bell Rings

STONE, England (UPI)—A bell rings twice every day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bentley. Trouble is, they can't find out where the bell is or what causes it to ring.

The fire brigade, post office engineers and council officials have searched for it to no avail. The rings come at 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. without fail. "It's really quite baffling," said a postal engineer.

Proposed Park Is A Possibility Now

The Novato City Council voted unamiously last night to offer developer Terrance V. McGuire $50,000 for 4.6 acres on San Marin Drive at San Mateo Way.

Although the area was designed as a park on the original San Marin plan, the city has never purchased it. When the original developers, Sunset International Corp. were in financial trouble, the park site was sold to McGuire who wanted to construct residences on it.

The council had authorized an appraisal of the land, but had not received it as of last night.

The council authorized City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to make the offer to McGuire. If accepted, the money would be taken from the reserve fund, according to council action.

The Novato City Council also:

RECREATION — Approved a $130,520 recreation program for fiscal 1972 so that recruiting summer help could start immediately. The council left $4,750 requested in additional playground expense and the Loma Verde School playground program to be decided later. The additional playground expense would be for expanding the program with two evenings after school as well as Saturdays. Last year the Loma Verde Parent-Teachers Association and homeowners Association paid 50 per cent of the approximately $4,000 playground program. The council was not sure that they would participate this year.

STOP SIGNS — Approved placing stop signs on Peach and Plum streets at Chase Street.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning nine acres at Wilson Avenue south of Vineyard Road from limited agriculture to planned residential with 20,000-square-foot lots. Dr. Lester Cranz of 648 Wilson Avenue opposed townhouse development there which had been proposed for the acreage.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved development plans for 90 single-family townhouses west of Highway 101, south of Rowland Boulevard for Western Oaks townhouse development.

NEWS — Received letters from KPIX and the Oakland Tribune complimenting Police Chief Allen V. Klemme and Sgt. Tony Stoutt on handling of the news during the recent kidnapping of two Novato women and two children.

ART GALLERY — Named Councilman George C. Quesada and Brown to work with students in setting up an art gallery in the city hall and exploring the possibility of forming a youth art commission.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned at 2:15 a.m. until 8 p.m. next Tuesday to complete the 27 items remaining on the agenda and hold a hearing on the downtown plan.

Development Argument Is Continuing

After devoting nearly two hours to discussion and argument, the Novato City Council last night asked the city's planning commission to take a look at a new map for Sono-Marin Builders' Marin Highlands development.

The firm's tentative map was rejected by the commission Jan. 25, leading to last night's appeal to the city council and presentation of the new map by Sono-Marin for the project south of Vineyard Road and west of Sutro Avenue.

The city council then put off further proceedings until after commission action. Also postponed were continuation of the legal arguments that consumed most of last night's review. Central point was whether the planning commission had met a legal deadline for denying the map.

The appeal was the latest round in a fight going on for more than a year. The master plan was approved by the Marin County Planning Commission in 1964. Subsequently, the area was annexed by the city and as development progressed residents objected to cutting of hills and filling of valleys.

At issue is a proposal for development of 80 lots on 37.5 acres, called Oaks Unit 2 (formerly Marin Highlands Unit 5).

Five-Year Park Plan Is Presented

The Novato City Council received for study last night a five-year $1 million capital park plan which would require 30 cents tax rate increase to finance it.

The council postponed discussion of the plan for 30 days until it could determine the future of the San Marin Club. It also asked for a joint meeting with the parks and recreation commission to discuss the plan, with date to be set later.

The plan as worked out by the commission called for spending approximately $200,000 in each of the five years.

The projects and costs included: Pioneer Memorial Park, $100,000; San Marin Club, $276,000; Novato Creek Park, $112,500; Marion School playground, $50,000; Olive School playground, $60,000; Lynwood School playground, $60,000; Pleasant Valley School playground, $50,000; San Jose Junior High School playground, $50,000; Hill Junior High School playground, $60,000; Marin Highlands Park, $2,500; Seventh Street tank site, $35,000, and San Marin Park, $190,000.

Mayor Douglas M. Merrill said that apparently the San Marin club was no longer available to the city. The council agreed to wait 30 days to see if the proposed sale was completed. The planning commission Monday night granted a use permit for a restaurant and bar in the closed club.

"We should tell the parks and recreation commission that we want to concentrate on buying land and making just a minimum development on it," said Councilman George C. Quesada.

The council then agreed it needed a joint meeting with the commission.

Ban Scheduled On Beer Cans

BARBERTON, Ohio (UPI)— Beer cans, no-deposit bottles and soft drinks in cans will be illegal in this northeastern Ohio city of 34,000 after April 1, 1972, according to an ordinance passed by the City Council Monday night.

The nine-man council voted unanimously for the ordinance which provides fines of $100 or 30 days in jail for those selling nonreturnable glass and metal drink containers after the effective date.

A group called Humans Organized to Preserve the Earth (HOPE) collected 1,700 signatures on petitions backing the ordinance.

Enrollment Up At Marin College

Enrollment at College of Marin this spring semester has increased 10 per cent over last spring, the college has announced.

There are now 5,428 students enrolled in day and evening credit courses compared to 4,829 last year.

The total includes 3,249 full-time students.

Of the total enrollment, 926 attend evening classes, 2,066 attend both evening and day classes and 2,436 attend only day classes.

The total spring enrollment, while higher than last spring's, is three per cent lower than the fall enrollment of 5,828, the college said.

British Mail Ban Being Lifted

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Postal Service today began to lift its embargo on all mail to Great Britain.

The embargo had been ordered because of the strike by postal workers in Great Britain. The strike ended yesterday after 47 days.

Airmail service was resumed today from the U.S., and all classes of mail will be handled by Friday. Surface parcel post service will resume tomorrow, and surface letter service on Thursday.

Marion Avenue Traffic Brings Clash on Safety

Parents of Marion School students and residents of Marion Avenue clashed at the Novato City Council meeting last night over closing Marion Avenue to through traffic.

At the request of the Marion School Parent-Teacher Association, the traffic safety committee proposed putting a barrier across Marion between Eighth Street and Benton Lane.

The council postponed action on the closure and ordered the staff to make a study of the cost of putting a bicycle-pedestrian path along the south side of the street. It also asked staff to work with parents in helping control traffic along the narrow hillside street.

Raymond Z. McPeak of 10 Driftwood Avenue presented a petition with 235 signatures asking the closure of the street. John F. Giari of 1871 Marion Avenue presented a petition with 10 signatures of residents of the street opposing closing it.

Clifford E. Temps, public works director, said that the Novato Fire Department opposed closing the street.

Temps said that the traffic hazard came from 150 students walking the half mile of narrow street daily while 400 cars used it.

Members of the audience suggested making it a one-way street, putting a path beside it, putting posts down the center to keep cars on their side of the street and placing asphalt burms (ridges) across the street to slow cars.

The council did not set a definite time for Temps to report on the cost of the path.

Farmer Escapes Tractor Mishap

The farmer, Lee Barnett of 2446 East Washington Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital.

Police said bystanders helped lift the tractor off Barnett. The accident happened at 1:45 p.m. Sunday.

No Show Brings A Tongue Lashing

Santa Venetia Middle School's principal and faculty took a tongue lashing in absentia last night from the San Rafael Board of Education for failing to show up to hear an architect explain plans for their school.

Chester Bowles of the Marshall and Bowles architectural firm described outdoor classrooms and other proposals to create what the board called "a full middle school" at Santa Venetia. Estimated cost is about $210,000, he said, on top of the $90,000 vocational arts building already in advanced planning stages.

Board member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. condemned the Santa Venetia administration's apparent "lack of enthusiasm" for the middle school plans, despite a parent's report that the faculty held a two-hour meeting on the idea this week.

"If you can't bring them here with a carrot, you can't bring them here with a stick," Kramer declared.

Lewis S. Pollock of the board's citizens' advisory committee; Don Wellington, board candidate, and others in the audience cautioned that the district may face a "selling" job to lure district pupils into the Santa Venetia Middle School rather than less innovative schools nearer their homes.

A parent warned that recent reports of juvenile problems in the Santa Venetia area might make other neighborhoods' parents reluctant to send their children to the future middle school.

After more than an hour of discussion, board members approved Bowles' contract to continue planning the improvements, but told him to come back with more detailed cost figures before refining the plans.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

CALENDAR — Approved a 1971-72 school calendar calling for both elementary and high school classes to begin Sept. 13 and end June 15, with a total of 176 school days in the elementary district and 177 in the high schools.

RETIREMENT — Granted San Rafael High School math teacher Ewing Bone permission to stay on one year past his mandatory retirement age, with board chairman Herman L. Childress and member John C. Pfeiffer voting no.

SAFETY — Heard from Dist. Supt. John F. Plank and Asst. Supt. Wayne Boone that work is nearly finished on Terra Linda High School gymnasium safety hazards that drew a blast from the board last month.

SPECIAL MEETING — Decided to meet at 6 p.m. Friday at Laurel Dell Primary School to inspect site problems with a proposed outdoor classroom, before approving a change in the construction contract.

UNIFICATION — Routinely approved plans of the Marin County School District Organization Committee to place a San Rafael district unification election on the June 1972 ballot, unless state law no longer requires the election by then.

COMPLAINT — Heard Terra Linda High senior Larry Padway report he had been denied access to "public records" in Dist. Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte's office. Padway was seeking information on upcoming social events at San Rafael High School, in hopes of obtaining a soft drink concession. The board instructed Plank to make the data available, but San Rafael High Principal Alan Ellsberg later told Padway the calendar was at the high school, not in Condrotte's office.

FLAG — Congratulated Terra Linda High's United Nations team on "top four" honors earned during its recent trip to New York, and granted the school permission to fly for a week the United Nations flag the team won.

HIRINGS — Approved hiring, at $881.60 each for the rest of the school year, bus drivers Mrs. Jean Deen, William Huffman, and Harold Sutherland; and at $8 per hour each as adult education eachers, Lea Anderson, Sheldon Brandenburger and Stanley Yates.

LOITERING — Discussed three letters from residents in the San Rafael High School neighborhood, complaining of smoking, littering and parking abuses by students on module or flexible scheduling. No action was taken after Ellsberg reported other former complainants now were satisfied with student cooperation.

Singapore Zoo

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Singapore will get its first zoo in 1972, says a Ceylonese expert, D. Alwis, who is supervising its construction. The zoo will be one of the best in Southeast Asia and will be located at Seletar, in the central area of the island.

6.6 Pct. Pay Hike Is Asked

Teachers last night asked the San Rafael Board of Education for a 6.6 per cent salary schedule increase for 1971-72, and changes in the steps of the schedule.

"The 6.6 per cent maintains the buying power, but does not raise the buying power of the 1970-71 salary schedule," Richard Poppe, co-chairman of the San Rafael Teachers Association finance committee, told the board members.

The board neither discussed nor took action on the request, referring it to Dist. Supt. John F. Plank for a negotiation procedure to be set up.

On Jan. 26, Plank and Charles L. Condrotte, district business manager, presented a preview of the 1971-72 budget predicting $5,544,856 in spending for the elementary district and $5,437,230 for the high school district. Condrotte said he had included an employee pay increase of 7 per cent and suggested step increases in the budgets, totalling $272,730 in the elementary district and $229,908 in the high school district.

Plank said last night he did not have figures immediately available on the dollar cost of the teachers' request, and Condrotte was not present.

The teachers asked that the present, 15-step salary schedule be compressed next year from a 22-year range to 15 years, bringing a teacher with a bachelor's degree and 75 additional units of education to a maximum of $19,831 after 15 years. Under the 1970-71 schedule, a teacher with a bachelor's degree plus 60 units, or with a master's degree, can reach the top only after 22 years.

Adult education instructors should get a raise from the present $8 per hour to $9 per hour effective June 1, and substitute teachers' pay should be $32 per day for assignments of less than 10 days, and $34.50 per day for longer assignments, the teachers urged.

The association also called for fringe benefits, including group life insurance and group vision care.

The teachers received a 6.8 per cent salary raise last year.

Marian Marsh Wins Critical Concert Claim

San Rafael soprano Marian Marsh sang to critical acclaim in three performances last weekend with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra at the Music Center in Los Angeles.

Martin Bernheimer, Los Angeles Times critic, said, "Miss Marsh sang with heroic precision and fine textural clarity."

Under the direction of Gerhard Samuel, the orchestra's new associate conductor who was formerly conductor of the Oakland Symphony, Miss Marsh sang in costume concert versions of Lulu's song "Comodo" and the Countess's valedictory in a symphonic suite from Berg's opera "Lulu."

Larkspur's Park Survey Report Due

A progress report on questionnaires being filled out by some Larkspur residents as a basis for developing a park master plan will be given the city's park and recreation commission tonight at 8 o'clock at city hall.

More than 1,000 of the 25-question forms are being circulated by a special committee of the city's park and recreation commission, Harlan Barry, recreation director, said yesterday.

The results will probably be forwarded to the city's park planners, Arbegast and Newton, sometime next month, he said, with a complete master plan expected by July.

Committee members are distributing the forms to various homeowners' associations, civic and business groups and school organizations.

The commission also will hear reports on the Baltimore Canyon hiking trail, the Corte Madera Creek bicycle trail and will begin consideration of a fiscal 1971-72 budget.

230 To Be Added To Food Program

The federally subsidized supplemental food program will be expanded to cover 350 low income families in Marin, instead of the present 120, at no cost to the county.

The expansion was approved by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Frances Dahl, public health nutritionist for Marin, explained that the United States Department of Agriculture provides food at 50 cents per case from its surplus food outlet in San Leandro. The cost per month for the 120 Marin families now in the program is slightly under $100 for $1,700 worth of food.

The cost is paid from a sum of $7,786 raised last year through a "Walk-On-Hunger."

The program is different from the food stamp program in that the only persons eligible are those vulnerable to malnutrition; specifically, pregnant women, infants, and children to age 6.

Mrs. Dahl said the Department of Agriculture formula allows a maximum of 350 families in Marin to participate in the supplemental food program.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also

CHANGES — Named Dr. Leo J. Becnel, Jack Kniveton and Thomas Nolan to the Novato Flood Control Advisory Board, replacing Frank Galli, E. D. King and James McCown. Although the incumbents' terms had not expired, Supervisor Arnold Baptiste of North Marin said the three had agreed to step down to give the advisory board broader geographical representation in the North Marin area and the benefit of new members with experience in environmental work.

BUDGET — Set June 14-25 for public hearings on the 1971-72 county budget. County Administrator Alan Bruce said he and his staff will go over budget requests with various department heads from March 15 through April 5.

EOC BOARD — Said the Novatans for Racial Equality could have a seat on the board of directors of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. The EOC board has 36 members, 12 representatives each from private organizations, public agencies, and the poor.

ENGLISH PUB — Approved a master plan for a two-story English pub to be built by Charles Felix at the entrance to Muir Beach. Felix agreed to a public hearing before the planning commission on final building design and landscaping.

INSURANCE — Accepted a settlement of $11,295 from the Independent Insurance Agents Association of Marin for fire damage Aug. 8 to a building at McNears Beach.

AIRPORT — Ordered the county counsel's office to amend the leases with Spectrum Air and Marin Aviation, who lease land at county-owned Gnoss Field, requiring the companies to insure all their operations for claims up to $1 million to protect the county against suits. Richard Duste, arguing for coverage of the leased area only, said the cost of the proposed insurance requirement would be prohibitive.

RADIO TOWER — Approved a request by the National Park Service to place a 20-foot radio tower atop Mount Barnabe near the Marin County Fire Department fire tower.

NO PARKING — Established a no parking zone on North San Pedro Road in front of the Valley Baptist Church.

PUBLIC HEARINGS — Set March 23 for Public hearings on a use permit for the planned Marin City Fire Station and a use permit for a private church school at the Lutheran Church in Terra Linda.

BONDS — Authorized the sale of $650,000 in bonds for the Novato Unified School District, with bids to be opened April 13.

Jail Weekends For Having Pot

Alfred Carl Ensminger, 29, of Larkspur, has been sentenced to three weekends in Marin County Jail for conviction on a charge of possessing marijuana. Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court Monday also placed Ensminger on probation for one year.

Sentencing of a codefendant, Ralph Dennis Snow, 24, of San Rafael, was continued until next Monday.

The two were arrested when police went to Ensminger's home last Dec. 11 to get a list of articles he had lost in a burglary. Police said they found the pair smoking pot cigarettes.

New French Look?

PARIS (UPI)—Jean Jacques Servan-Schreiber, millionaire publisher and politician, told a news conference today he will ask the government to buy a nude bust of actress Brigitte Bardot as a symbol of France to be placed in each of the nation's 38,000 town halls.

Worker To Continue His Duties

A Marin County Social worker, who has been ordered fired for poor work performance, may continue on the job but still faces the threat of a quick dismissal, the county personnel commission ruled yesterday.

The commission upheld a bid by Winifred Dushkind to stay on the job, but also affirmed a provision in the county's employee grievance procedures that gives the county the right to dismiss within two weeks or less a worker who previously has been warned about poor work.

Mrs. Dushkind was given a 60-day dismissal notice last Dec. 14, but has since been performing her work satisfactorily, Chuck Egbert, field representative for Social Services Union Local 535, told the commission. Mrs. Duskhind said she received a poor work rating last year because of a record-keeping misunderstanding.

$75,000 Suit Against County

A San Anselmo woman, who slipped and fell at the Marin Civic Center last December, has filed a $75,000 damage claim for injuries suffered in the fall.

Dr. Esther B. Frankel of 450 Laurel Avenue said she was walking along the second floor corridor on Dec. 16 when she slipped "on the highly polished floor."

The damage claim against the county, filed Monday by San Francisco attorney Jack H. Werchick, alleges that she suffered injuries to her back, legs and other parts of the body.

Supervisors Ask Curbs On Use Of Motorcycles

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, disturbed over indiscriminate use of motorcycles, yesterday suggested banning their use except on streets and in specially designated areas in the unincorporated reaches of the county.

The board asked County Administrator Alan Bruce and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to study a zoning ordinance that would halt widespread use of the machines.

Maloney said he was uncertain such a measure would withstand a court test but added, "We would give it a try."

Maloney pointed out the county already has an ordinance forbidding the use of motorcycles on fire trails in the unincorporated area, but the supervisors agreed it had not solved the problem of the noisy machines.

The board heard yesterday from a Santa Venetia man who complained that he and his neighbors were being disturbed by cycle-riding youths who overrun Santa Venetia Island at the end of Meadow Drive.

"Kids are swinging from the trees and motorcycles are running all over the place and chasing away the birds and wildlife," said William S. Thompson of 57 Vendola Drive. A gate on a new bridge to the island is designed to keep trespassers off, but it has been pried open, said Thompson.

The board said it would notify the owners of the island to see if the gate can be kept locked and also asked for a report on what steps can be taken to reduce trespassing.

Motorcycle riding is a problem elsewhere in the county, especially in the area between Terra Linda and Sleepy Hollow, said Supervisor John F. McInnis. Dune buggies as well as motorcycles are being driven up and down the hills, he reported. "It's a tremendous nuisance problem and the people are simply desperate."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste suggested setting aside outlying areas for riding, thus, relieving pressure from populated areas of the county.

Palo Alto Vote Set On The War

PALO ALTO (UPI)—By a 10-1 vote, the Palo Alto City Council decided Monday night to submit a proposition on the Southeast Asia conflict to citywide voters May 11.

The referendum measure, altered at the last moment by the council, will allow voters a chance to decide whether they approve of the present policy of the Nixon Administration in Southeast Asia or whether they favor complete withdrawal of U.S. troops by the end of this year.

John V. Bears was the lone councilman to oppose the referendum.

The city council chamber was filled with spectators interested in the proposal but there was virtually no discussion by councilmen of the matter. There were no incidents.

Another Houseboat Solution

The dilapidated houseboats of Richardson Bay won't be dumped in the lap of the Army Corps of Engineers after all, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

Warned by the Army that creating a navigation hazard with arks, thus forcing the Army to dispose of them, would be illegal, the supervisors chose a different approach.

Abated boats will be towed to the edge of the houseboat community, impounded for 48 hours while owners recover their belongings, then removed by a contractor.

Richard L. Larson, Marin County's marine inspector, said towing would cost $35 each; disposal, $200 each. Anyone wishing to reclaim an ark to remove it from Marin waters would have to pay all costs, Larson said.

This alternate proposal was presented after Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer of the corps, warned that the disposal method endorsed by the board last week is illegal.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph E. Forest said that despite Roberts's warning, he believed the action would be legal since the Army has the duty to clear navigable waters of hulks and wrecks.

Another Richardson Bay issue — compliance with county codes by the houseboats on the property of Mimi Tellis — was also partially resolved by the supervisors.

The supervisors agreed to allow her to post a $35,000 performance bond on required improvements that remain.

Biggest remaining problems are sewage connection, parking and timely completion of a partially built pier, Frost said. He said these can not be done immediately and urged the supervisors to let her post a performance bond, then proceed with the work.

A formal agreement is to be presented to the board next week.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said that if one harbor can be brought up to code, others at Waldo Point might fall in line.

A New Trend

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nearly one half of the people who buy atlases have never owned one before, but a new trend is that more people are buying them for their own use. Earlier surveys had found that atlases were mainly purchased for Christmas, back-to-school or graduation gifts, says Hammond Incorporated, producer of maps and atlases.

San Anselmo Police Arrest Pot Suspect

A 22-year-old San Rafael man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale, possessing narcotics paraphernalia and resisting arrest in San Anselmo.

Officers said Roger Blair Griffith of 220 Canal Street was arrested at 6:15 p.m. after a San Anselmo man reported Griffith offered to sell him marijuana and opium.

The man said he picked up Griffith hitchhiking in San Rafael and en route to San Anselmo the offer was made.

Officers said they located Griffith later in Fairfax and when arresting him he shoved one officer and ran. Caught moments later, Griffith was searched and a film can of suspected hashish and a pipe used for smoking the drug were found in a jacket pocket.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where he remained in lieu of $1,250 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Recycling Adopted Despite Arguments

Despite the economic arguments of an attorney, the San Anselmo City Council hopped aboard the ecology bandwagon last night. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1.)

Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing San Anselmo Garbage Disposal, said "Our knowledge tells us you can't do anything profitably, but bury (garbage)."

Therefore, he said, any company that enters the recycling business will eventually go bankrupt, dumping the whole mess in the lap of government.

Nevertheless, the council adopted almost completely an ecology action program suggested by Val Schaaf of 32 Crest Road.

The council made it city policy that wastes be recycled when means become available to do so and directed San Anselmo Garbage Disposal to report back June 8 on ways it can help in recycling.

The council also ordered that city departments begin recycling their wastes and established a committee to make recommendations on recycling.

Schaaf was appointed as interim head and Councilman Lewis W. Stewart as a member. Other members are to be appointed March 23.

Stewart had recycling placed on the agenda so Neill Smith of Whole Systems of Mill Valley could explain that firm's recycling program.

Smith said the Mill Valley City Council Monday approved an agreement whereby the company charges homeowners $1 a month for collection of sorted recycleable materials.

Smith said the group is trying to show that recycling is financially feasible. Myers claimed not only is it not feasible, but nobody will be interested in paying to have to sort their garbage.

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson also wondered whether housewives can be persuaded to squash cans, wash out bottles and stack newspapers, but six persons from the audience argued they can be.

Mrs. Schaaf pointed out that housewives were asked to do the same thing during World War II and responded to the challenge.

Stewart agreed. "It really gets to be a religion," he said. "I almost feel compelled to buy a six-pack of Coors beer so I can squash the aluminum cans."

The San Anselmo City Council also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed John Girton to replace John Colteaux on the Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing and named Robert Gicker, Rev. Vernon Cox and James Klein as alternates.

SPRING CLEANUP — Put over to March 23 discussion of a possible spring cleanup.

BUSINESS LICENSE — Denied a request for waiver of a business license for Youth Incentive of San Francisco, a non-profit corporation raising funds from door-to-door sales, saying such waivers will be restricted to San Anselmo businesses.

COASTLINE PLANNING — Recommended to the Association of Bay Area Governments that the cost of funding a coastline plan be spread among the counties by population, the least expensive alternative to Marin at $1,367. The total plan will cost $100,000.

STAR HALL — Appointed Reed to negotiate price and terms for 3.08 acres of land plus a meeting hall formerly used by the Marin County Peace Officers Association. Two real estate firms are asking $75,000 for the land near Sorich Park on Sacramento Street.

MEETING — Agreed to host the April 28 meeting of the Council of Mayors and Councilmen at the Robson mansion.

NON-RESIDENT FEE — Reminded the park and recreation commission to set a recreation fee for non-residents equal to the cost of having a person in the program.

PLANNERS — Asked the planning commission to consider rezoning three lots on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Oak Knoll Road from commercial to apartment zoning. The commission had previously failed to agree on rezoning the parcels.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a closed negotiation session with its wage negotiators Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall.

Pair Arraigned On Pot Charge

James Hugh Haughton, 19, and Mark William Daigle, 18, both of Palos Verdes, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing marijuana.

Haughton is to return to court to enter a plea Thursday and Daigle is to plead March 22.

They were arrested Sunday after a Marin County drug abuse agent observed Daigle rolling cigarettes in a car on Highway 101 near Waldo Grade. When the agent stopped the car in Novato, pot was allegedly found in the glove compartment.

Population Of 5,000 Seen By '80

Planning consultants last night advised the Cotati Planning Commission to prepare for a population of 5,000 by 1980.

Representatives of Herman D. Ruth and Associates of Berkeley said the present population of 1,500 could possibly grow to 10,000 by 1990 if development at Sonoma State College continues and if subdivisions continue to grow.

In order to cope with the growth, planners recommended that traffic patterns be carefully studied with special thought given to making East Cotati Avenue the main thoroughfare rather than Old Redwood Highway.

The planners also recommended that traffic be routed around Plaza Park rather than through its center so that it could become the true hub of the community. They said the business district would also benefit from the plan.

The planning commission also heard the planners urge that an additional northbound entrance be built at Highway 101 for better freeway access.

The last of the preliminary planning sessions on the proposed general plan will be held March 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cotati Fire Station.

Beach Search Fails To Find Missing Man

A search of the McClure's Beach area has failed to find a Los Angeles county man who may have drowned at the beach Friday, Marin County sheriff's office reported today.

Deputies said William S. Taylor, 21, of Sylmar, has been missing since Friday morning when he left the San Francisco motel where he was staying with his wife, saying he was going to the beach.

Taylor's car and shoes and socks were found at the beach Saturday, deputies said.

Deputies, National Park Service rangers and a Coast Guard cutter and helicopter searched the surf and nearby cliffs Saturday and Sunday without success.

SFO To Continue At Same Location

SFO Helicopters Inc. will continue to operate out of the county heliport just south of Richardson Bay Bridge.

That assurance was given last night by Richard Lovron, general manager of SFO Helicopters, to the Marin Aviation Commission, which met at the Marin Municipal Water District office in Corte Madera.

Last week, Mario Balestrieri, deputy public works director for Marin, reported that the heliport was threatened with a shutdown because of disagreement over a lease.

Balestrieri announced last night he believes the disagreement can be ironed out.

D. McCoy Co. leases the heliport land from a property owners' group. The county new collects 25 cents per passenger from SFO and pays 15 cents of that to McCoy for use of the heliport. The county is proposing that SFO pay 33 cents per passenger so that 23 cents can be paid to McCoy.

Lovron told the aviation commissioners that SFO wants improvements made at the heliport before the rate is raised to 33 cents per passenger. He wants improvements to the entrance road, parking area, painting and cleanup, and perhaps some diking to keep waters away from the heliport during high tides. Lovron said SFO is willing to contribute something to these capital improvements if the county will also help out.

The commissioners asked SFO to submit a list of improvements it wants. Balestrieri said he would contact McCoy and try to work out a solution.

Marin Aviation commissioners also:

GOLDEN WEST — Heard from Capt. Kerney L. Sigler, general manager of the northern division of Golden West Airlines, that his company will submit another application for use of Hamilton Air Force Base for civilian flights.

WORKSHOP — Assigned commissioners to prepare for a workshop discussion with the Marin County Board of Supervisors on March 30.

NEXT MEETING — Decided to move back to the Civic Center for regular meetings beginning next month. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. April 6.

Miller Avenue Housing Development Approved

The Mill Valley Planning Commission has approved a housing development on Miller Avenue but has sent another back to the drawing board for revisions.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the panel Monday approved architectural drawings for 18 garden cottage condiminiums at 230 Miller Avenue.

The cottages will be built by Marinways, Inc., and will serve as models for a 104-unit garden cottage development planned for a 27.5-acre site in Alto Bowl.

Rejected were plans for 203 apartments on Shelter Bay near Sabella's restaurant. McGill said commissioners previously had asked applicant S. N. Diller to return with revised plans showing less ground coverage and more public access to the shoreline, but the developer failed to do so.

The planners told Diller to make the changes and return at the March 22 meeting.

The commission also recommended city council approval of an amendment to the city zoning ordinance that would require a use permit for any restaurant featuring live entertainment. Under existing practices a permit is needed only if the restaurant lies within 200 feet of a residential zone.

Pair Sentenced For Having Pot

A San Rafael couple has been sentenced by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court for possessing marijuana.

Patricia Maryann O'Neill, 22, was fined $50 and placed on probation for one year.

Lawrence David Johnson, also 22, was ordered to jail for 20 days and placed on probation for one year.

They were arrested Oct. 9 in a narcotics raid on a house at 82 Southern Heights Boulevard.

Burglars Hit 4 Targets In Big Haul

A church, a union office, a business and a school in San Rafael were broken into and burglarized sometime Monday night or early yesterday morning, San Rafael police reported today.

Biggest loss was at Tone-Tex Specialities at 65 Jacoby Street, where $2,700 worth of equipment was taken. Missing were two calculators and a paint sprayer.

Police said that someone removed a screen to get into the office of the Machinists Union at 1292 Lincoln Avenue and $200 was taken from a safe. An inside door of the safe had been pried open, but the outside door had apparently been opened by using the combination.

Taken from the ransacked office of Faith Lutheran Church at 355 Los Ranchitos Road was a $300 dictaphone and $7 in cash.

A burglar who kicked in an office door and forced a window at Don Timoteo School at 39 Trellis Avenue took $4.50 from a soft drink machine, $1.50 from a desk as well as a $60 dictaphone and a $5 microphone.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

O'Brien, Eickhof Plead Innocent To Speed Charge

Don Edward O'Brien, 32, of Novato, and Lt. William Chris Eickhof III, 24, of Travis Air Force Base, Solano County, pleaded innocent yesterday in Mairn Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of reckless driving and engaging in a speed contest.

A jury trial was set for Aug. 16.

The men were arrested Friday when California Highway Patrol officers saw them allegedly racing on Highway 101.

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that O'Brien had pleaded innocent Friday to a charge of drunken driving. It was Glendon Gene O'Brien, 44, of San Rafael, who pleaded to that charge, which stemmed from his arrest March 1 near the Marin County Civic Center.

Hot Pants Deal

MARIN: 411 Town & Country Village

New Status For Club Is Approved

The Novato Planning Commission has approved changing the San Marin Club from a private to a semiprivate club, enabling addition of a restaurant and cocktail lounge.

The change in the club's use permit, voted by the commission Monday night, will enable the club to serve drinks and cater outside parties, said Gary Holloway, assistant planning director.

Benjamin Morris of San Francisco is in the process of buying the club from G and R Associates of Los Angeles. The club was originally started by Sunset International Petroleum Corp. which went bankrupt.

Morris must apply to the California Alcoholic Beverage Control Board for a license for the bar, Holloway said.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

WESTERN OAKS —Approved addition of three units to the 87-unit townhouse development of Western Oaks Village, west of Highway 101 and south of Rowland Boulevard. Western Hosts Inc., developers, had asked for addition of four units. The developer also was granted a variance for cutbanks in excess of 20 feet.

SPECIAL — Set 8 p.m. March 29 for a special meeting to consider an ordinance requiring dedication of land or payment of fees for park and recreation purposes.

Low Bidder On Dump Road Is Announced

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Alves Construction Co. of Pittsburg yesterday submitted the apparent low bid of $69,287 for construction of a road to the new Sonoma County sanitary landfill facility northwest of Petaluma.

Donald B. Head, department of public works, told the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors that he was pleased with the 14 bids and that many had fallen well below the estimated cost of $125,000. Second in the bid opening was Ghilotti Brothers of Santa Rosa with $69,923.

The work will include a section of Meacham Road and an entrance road to the new dump site.

The board also approved the appointment of Dick Gray, a Petaluma rancher, to the Sonoma County Fair board. He will join fellow Petalumans Arthur Weller, Aubrey Sanderson and Albert E. Nissen.

Richardson Bay Issue Due Study

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District board will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Trestle Glen Treatment Plant to discuss the effects of proposed new requirements on waste discharge in the district.

Secretary Beverly Wheeler said the board will confer with developers and contractors on how requirements being considered by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control board will affect new sewer hookups in the district.

The discharge requirements, if adopted, would force the Richardson Bay District to treat its sewage more thoroughly.

The regional board also may issue a cease and disist order prohibiting new sewer connections in the district.

Base Brass Denies Food Mishandling

The flyer, claiming to be the work of "concerned airmen" and the underground press, charged that "food going out the back door" was resulting in hungry airmen being denied second helpings.

Lt. Col. Robert E. Fromm, chief of the base services division, countered that the refusal of second helpings had been limited to meat only, and was due to the dining hall expenses going $600 a month over the allotment of $1.40 per day per airman dining there.

On Monday, base officials reported "unidentified individuals" urged airmen to boycott the dining hall and distributed fliers charging that food ' 'disappears out the back door of the chow hall while we're refused second helpings."

Fromm explained that food, indeed, did "go out the back door," but only under a rigid accounting and repayment procedure, to three other meal programs at Hamilton.

The dining hall served 151 meals at noon Monday; normal patronage is about 300 airmen, the base said.

Meter Binders Ward Off Dogs

CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—The nation's utility company meter readers have found a way to protect themselves from a daily hazard, the family watchdog.

The meter readers are using their meter binders to ward off that nip in the pants, reports the American Loose Leaf Division of Dictaphone Corporation. For that reason, the firm says, its meter binders are finished with a hard bakelite enamel.

$3 Million For Orange Juice

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Agriculture Department announced today it has purchased 11.5 million 46-ounce cans of processed orange juice to donate to needy families.

Officials said the juice, bought as part of an effort to strengthen farm prices in the face of a record orange crop, cost nearly $3 million. Earlier the department had bought 2.7 million gallons of frozen concentrated orange juice to donate to schools.

Orange prices to growers had dipped to 67 cents a box in mid-January but revived to $1.12 in mid-February, compared with $1.41 a year ago.

Prezoning 71 Acres Is Sought

The Corte Madera Planning Commission has recommended that 71 acres of county land in the eastern portion of town — slated for a large residential development — be prezoned for medium density residential use.

According to Betty S. Behel, town clerk, the commission unanimously recommended Monday that the Boyd property between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, northeast of the Koch property, be prezoned R-2.

Developers of the property, who have asked that it be annexed to the town have proposed a 642-unit residential development.

Developers E. C. Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda have shown preliminary plans calling for two four-story apartment buildings and clusters of townhouses.

However, development of the property hinges on acquisition of the abandoned railroad right-of-way so access can be provided to the property from Paradise Drive.

Another Round On Ferry Site

Selection of a Central Marin ferry terminal site and a $331.5-million start on a bus rapid transit and ferry system will be considered by Golden Gate Bridge District directors at 9 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

Both matters were tackled by directors last Thursday, but decisions on each were postponed. This week's session also will be of the "committee of the whole," and its recommendations could go to the full board for final action when it meets at 10 a.m. Friday.

The two proposed ferry terminal sites are the Hutchinson Quarry property in Larkspur and the Dominic Muzzi property at the south end of Corte Madera's marshy waterfront.

The $331.5-million start on transit came in a staff recommendation for a long-range transit plan due to be submitted to the Legislature by April 3.

The district's finance-auditing committee will meet prior to the full board at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Zone, Housing Panel To Meet

The San Anselmo citizens' committee on zoning and housing will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Robson House, Robson-Harrington Park.

The 15-member committee was formed following the city council flap over Gay Kagy's apartment in a single family residential area.

It is now making a survey of such nonconforming uses and how they affect the neighborhoods in which they are located. No goals have been set by the committee past the survey but it is expected they will recommend ordinance changes to the city council.

Sure To Be Cookin' The Irish Way

Irish cooking is very wholesome, but plain and unimaginative, according to two native-born Irish parishioners of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley who are preparing trifle for dessert on Saturday night, when the school's parent-teacher group will hold a "Blarney Blast" dinner dance in the school's auditorium.

"There's nothing like Irish butter, the mushroom that pop up at dawn to be picked and the spring lamb," recalls Mrs. Patrick Roche, who spoke Gaelic at home in Ireland because her father, Ireland's Collector of Customs, wished to revive the almost extinct language.

An internationally-known actress, Mrs. Jack Aranson recalls, "Irish bread is the best I have ever tasted anywhere." Mary Rose McMaster Aranson toured the world as a child with her father's Shakespearean acting company.

"During World War II we toured only in Ireland and that's why I know every village."

The two say that serving good piping hot is a problem in that cold country, where the kitchen is usually far away from the dining room. Serving dishes have covers, dinner plates are heated and food is served at the last minute by "girls from the country" who trudge upstairs carrying trays, they explain.

St. Patrick's Day is a dignified holiday in Dublin to honor political prisoners and dead patriots, not a Mardi Gras, they say. It is the day of the important football and hurling games, the Ball and a military parade of beautiful horses, coast guardsmen, a boys' school band and girls in school uniforms doing the Irish reel on floats.

These recipes will be used for the Irish dinner dance:

A "Little Bit of Heaven"

Mulligan Stew

(Laughter is gayest where the food is best.)

- 3 lbs of lean stewing beef or lamb stew
- 3 cups water
- 1 cup Mountain Red wine
- 2 bouillon cubes
- 2 yellow onions, quartered
- 4 stalks sliced celery and tops
- 1 No. 2 can of whole tomatoes
- 1 bunch sliced carrots
- 1 bunch sliced parsnips
- ½ lb. suated mushrooms
- 1½ lbs. whole new potatoes

Cut lean beef stew meat in 1½ inch cubes. Heat fat in heavy kettle, very hot. Pat beef cubes dry, dredge in flour seasoned well with garlic powder, pepper and salt. Brown in fat, browning only as many as will fit comfortably in one layer. Stir frequently with wooden spoon. When all the meat is well browned on all sides, pour excess fat out of pan. Add water, wine, bouillon, onions, celery and tops, tomatoes, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer two to four hours until meat is tender. Taste gravy for strength. Add more wine or bouillon if needed.

Then add carrots, parsnips and potatoes. Cook until done. Add sauted mushrooms. Stew may be prepared one or two days in advance. Let cool uncovered. Then cover and refrigerate. Heat and serve dinner for eight with soda bread and Cabernet Sauvignon.

"Wild Irish" Soda Bread

(Don't priase the bread until it is baked.)

- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- 2 Tbls. Caraway seeds
- ¼ cup butter
- 2 cups seedless raisins
- 1⅓ cups buttermilk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tsp. baking soda

Stir together into a large bowl the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder; stir in Caraway seeds. Cut in butter, add raisins. Combine buttermilk, egg and soda and add to dry mixture, stir until just moistened. Turn dough onto lightly floured board and knead gently into a ball. Place in greased two-quart casserole and with sharp scissors make a cross cut on the top. Brush with cream and bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour and 10 minutes or until done. Cool slightly before cutting.

"TRALEE" TRIFLE

Ubh gan salann, pog gan croimbeal.

- 3 pkgs. lady fingers
- 1 jar strawberry jam
- 2½ cups sherry, brandy or Irish whiskey
- 2 large cans of small fruit cocktail
- 2 pkgs. strawberry Jello
- 2 pkgs. gelatin pudding-and-pie mix, vanilla flavor
- 4 cups milk
- 1 pint whipping cream

One day before serving, in an extra large bowl:

1. Split ladyfingers, spread with strawberry jam and place in bottom of bowl. Add 2½ cups of brandy, sherry or Irish whiskey.
2. Drain fruit cocktail, pour fruit over lady fingers, saving liquid.
3. Make gelatin pudding as directed, adding fruit cocktail juice to water to make up to two pints liquid. Pour immediately over lady fingers, etc.
4. Cook vanilla pudding over low heat, do not boil. When thick, pour over contents in bowl. Refrigerate overnight.
5. Top with whipped cream before serving to eight. Enough for second helpings.

Ham, Bacon, Sausage And Chops Perk Up Breakfasts

Put spark into your morning menus with pork and you'll have the whole family at the breakfast table. You can count on ham, bacon, sausage links and patties and pork chops to charge up sleepy appetites.

The family will benefit from these breakfasts that start off days with ¼ to ⅓ of the day's calorie needs plus plenty of high-quality protein, iron and vitamins. Pork is an especially good source of thiamin.

In planning the menu make sure that a vitamin C source such as a citrus fruit, milk and some grain product are included in the morning meal.

BREAKFAST PORK CHOPS

- 12 breakfast pork chops, cut ¼ to ½ inch thick
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings

Brown pork chops in lard or dripping in frying-pan or griddle at moderate temperature. Turn occasionlly until browned on both sides, 10 to 15 minutes. 6 servings.

SAUSAGE EGG RINGS

- 1 pound fresh bulk pork sausage
- 4 eggs
- ¼ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons drippings
- Salt and pepper

Shape sausage into 4 doughnut-shaped rings about 4½ inches in diameter. Place in a shallow baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes or until done. Pour off and reserve drippings. Combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper in a mixing bowl. Beat with a fork until blended. Heat 2 tablespoons of the drippings in a frying-pan. Pour in egg mixture and cook slowly. When mixture starts to set on bottom, lift cooked portions and turn gently to cook all portions evenly. Spoon scrambled eggs into sausage "rings." 4 servings.

SAUCY LUNCHEON MEAT

- 2 cans (12 ounces each) luncheon meat, cut in ½-inch slices.
- 2 cans (16 ounces each) applesauce
- ½ cup brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- ¼ cup chopped onion
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- ⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine

Combine applesauce, brown sugar, vinegar and onion. Pour into an 8x12-inch baking dish. Arrange luncheon meat slices in an overlapping row on top of applesauce. Combine bread crumbs, cinnamon and melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) 30 to 35 minutes. 6 servings.

CUSTOMARY GAZPACHO ingredients go into a sour cream layer for this Iberian salad mold. It's a good one to have as an opener at a buffet supper at home.

A Molded Gelatin Salad That's Different For A Buffet Supper

It's not surprising to see the Spanish specialty gazpacho served as an "opener" for lunch or dinner, but as a molded gelatin salad — well, that's different.

The customary gazpacho ingredients —tomato, cucumber and onion — are folded into the dairy sour cream layer of this gala mold along with canned fruit cocktail. Fruit cocktail and tomato also lend their flavor appeal to the dark, clear consomme layer of the party-pretty concoction.

With Iberian Salad Mold on the menu, a buffet supper is off to an auspicious start.

IBERIAN SALAD MOLD

- 1 can (17 ounces) fruit cocktail
- 2 envelopes plain gelatin
- 1 cup cold water
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed consomme, undiluted
- ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 3 drops Tabasco
- ¼ cup vinegar
- ⅓ cup cherry tomato wedges or diced tomato
- 1½ cups dairy sour cream
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped cucumber

Drain fruit cocktail, saving ½ cup syrup. Soften gelatin in cold water. In a saucepan heat consomme to boiling; remove from heat. Add softened gelatin; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in garlic powder, ½ teaspoon salt, Tabasco, vinegar and fruit cocktail syrup. Pour 1 cup gelatin mixture into 6-cup mold; chill until gelatin is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Arrange 4 or 5 tomato wedges in thickened gelatin; chill until set. Blend sour cream with remaining salt and gelatin mixture; chill until mixture mounds on spoon. Fold drained fruit cocktail into cream gelatin mixture with remaining tomato, onion and cucumber. Turn into mold over first layer; chill until firm. Unmold and serve with salad greens if desired.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Malnutrition Widespread

Only 50 to 60 per cent of American households have diets which meet recommended nutrition standards. Ironically, low income is not the only reason for malnutrition in this country. Much malnutrition results simply because food choices are determined by personal preferences or dislikes and because people do not know kinds of food they should eat to maintain good health.

The Bettmann Archive, Inc.

His woman put everything but dynamite in his bread.

And we're using her recipe today.

It was a hundred and fifty years ago and he wanted a bread that'd really stick to his ribs.

So his wife tried something. She mixed up a batch of dough from wheat flour, cornmeal, barley flour, oatmeal, lots of sugar and shortening, yeasts, even a touch of molasses.

The result was the richest, heartiest bread anybody'd ever tasted.

We make our Sheepherder bread the same way today. No preservatives. No artificial things. Nothing but the great combination of good ingredients she first used so long ago.

And you know something? It's still the richest, heartiest bread anybody's ever tasted.

VOLUNTEER EFFORT

Permanent Homes For Teen-Agers

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Youngsters living in three group homes in Larkspur and Kentfield are given a better chance to succeed in the adult community because of a group of volunteers devoted to helping them.

Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, began the program in 1964 when a group home for six teen-age girls was provided in San Rafael. Working with the county welfare and probation departments, the foundation has now expanded to two group homes that can house six girls each in Larkspur and a home for six boys in Kentfield supported by Marin County.

Residents of the homes, aged 13 through 18, must be old enough to register as high school freshmen to be eligible for referral by the courts to the group homes. The foundation provides a permanent home through high school years for adolescents whose age, experience and problems make it impossible for them to stay in their own home or to use a foster home placement successfully.

It is only appropriate however, for adolescents who are emotionally and socially able to use the support of the professional staff to live in the community and to attend the local public high school full time.

The young residents attend Redwood High School, and three of the residents attend San Andreas High School, an opportunity school, which is not as regimented as a regular high school but offers a full curriculum.

THERE IS a professional director for each group home, and two house-parents are under their supervision. The professional staff helps to choose, train and supervise volunteers who are in contact or working directly with the young residents.

The volunteers not only have personal contact with the youngsters, a program started by Mrs. William Witt when they reorganized the volunteer program, but they also help subsidize the rental program and furnish material things such as furniture at the group homes.

Volunteers are an intrinsic part of the total program at the group homes, Mrs. Anna Marie Long Gurich, executive director of the group homes, said. The volunteers come in and out of the group home on various duties and activities, and the young people welcome their interest and understanding as soon as they have had some experience with them.

ONE YOUNGSTER remarked to a new volunteer who was driving her to an appointment, "They told me to be nice to you as this was your first time."

A youngster who is a new resident in the home may also "test" the adult volunteer by trying to shock her with foul language or tell her of a personal experience, real or imaginary.

All the volunteers do not have personal contact with the young people, but they work in other capacities, Mrs. James Meenaghan, chairman of the volunteers, said.

However, those working personally with the girls will pick up a teen-ager who needs a ride to the doctor or take a new resident of the group home out shopping to pick out a wardrobe.

Mrs. Burich was high in her praise of the volunteers. She said some of the residents who "graduate" and go out into the community continue to keep in contact with the home. As an example, one girl who is now married and living in Oregon often corresponds with the home, she said.

WHEN DRIVING youngsters to appointments the volunteers get to know and form relationships with the youngsters that sometimes lead to the volunteer assuming the role of sponsor as they reach their senior year in high school and need more individual attention in planning for graduation and future work.

The group homes in Larkspur are in an apartment complex leased by the foundation. In a lovely setting of trees, the homes are furnished with furniture that the volunteers have provided.

The boys home, a private residence, is also well furnished, even to the extent of having a pool table.

The volunteer women from the nine foundation units have birthday parties for the youngsters as well as parties on the holidays. Some of the teenagers are taken on camp-outs in the summer, and camping gear is needed for some of them. Many of the girls sew. Materials are needed as well as needles and yarn for knitting and crocheting, they say.

The Marin Foundation underwrites $10,000 for the support of the homes. To raise this money, the various chapters have individual fund-raising events and an all-unit function will be held later this month.

Annual events for the chapters are a fizz party by Driftwood Unit; wine tasting, dinner and dance and silent auction, and brunch, Green Oaks; game day and luncheon, Toyon; tea and Christmas card sale, Madrone; barn dance and dinner, Millwood; bridge luncheon, Sycamore; dinner dance and rummage sale, Baywood; bridge luncheon, Acacia; and Mai Tai party, Oleander.

On March 27 the annual "Country Auction" will be held at the Corte Madera Recreation Center beginning at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Joseph Christopher is president of the Marin Foundation.

The women volunteers' financial, social and active support demonstrate to the youngsters the community's acceptance of them as part of the community even though they have problems in adapting, it was stated by members of the staff at the group homes.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

Teen Diet

In the active world of teenagers adequate diets often are forgotten. Six out of ten teenage girls and four out of ten teenage boys have poor diets because of their eating habits. Among the reasons for these improper diets are: skipping breakfast, eating nutritionally poor snacks, believing that eating makes one fat and considering outside activities more important than eating.

Snack Generation

One-fourth of the average teenager's calories come from snacks. Most of these adolescents are reported to consume one to three snacks a day. The quality of these snacks could be improved. Meat, fruit and vegetables are delicious and wholesome snacks for teens.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Boyfriend And Dog Growl And Bicker — One Has To Go

DEAR HELEN:

I am a woman living alone. I have a dog and a boy friend. I like them both, but they don't like each other. When the three of us are alone, all they do is growl and bicker and this makes me miserable.

One has got to go. Which should I get rid of and which should I keep? My dog was here first. — H. A. P.

DEAR H:

This relationship needn't "go to the dog." Why not consign him to the garage or back yard and get on with your romance? After all, a dog doesn't expect the run of the house every minute, does he? (And if you answer "Yes" — goodbye boy friend — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have written the script for a sex movie — very "X." Where could I market it? — FLORRIE

DEAR FLORRIE:

Movie scripts generally sell through agents, and reputable agents seldom accept unknown writers.

Moreover, very X movies don't rely on plot, and use more strip than script. Sorry I can't be more encouraging. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I found a nickel in the road and I used it for a stamp to send this letter. The extra penny was about all we had in the house.

My wife and I have been married 40 years and have shared our poverties together, but now we may have to part because we only have $122.50 a month to live on and it isn't enough. We love each other too much for that.

Bills have piled up because of sickness and we can't work for the same reason. I'm disabled. I lost my church, and haven't been able to support us for a long time. But circumstances don't break love.

How can we stay together and not have to go into "homes"? — REV. J.C.

DEAR REV. C.:

I've sent your letter to an agency in your North Carolina city. Let's hope enough odd jobs can be found for you and your wife so that you may stay together. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband insists that the children go to bed right on the dot of 10 p.m.; be in no later than 11 on date nights, even though a dance lasts until 12; talk on the telephone seven minutes or less — any more and it gets banged down by him.

I try to show him that a little "give" makes children easier to manage, but he says "Give 'em an inch . . ."

Is it right to be so rigid? — SOFTIE, or ANYWAY SOFTER

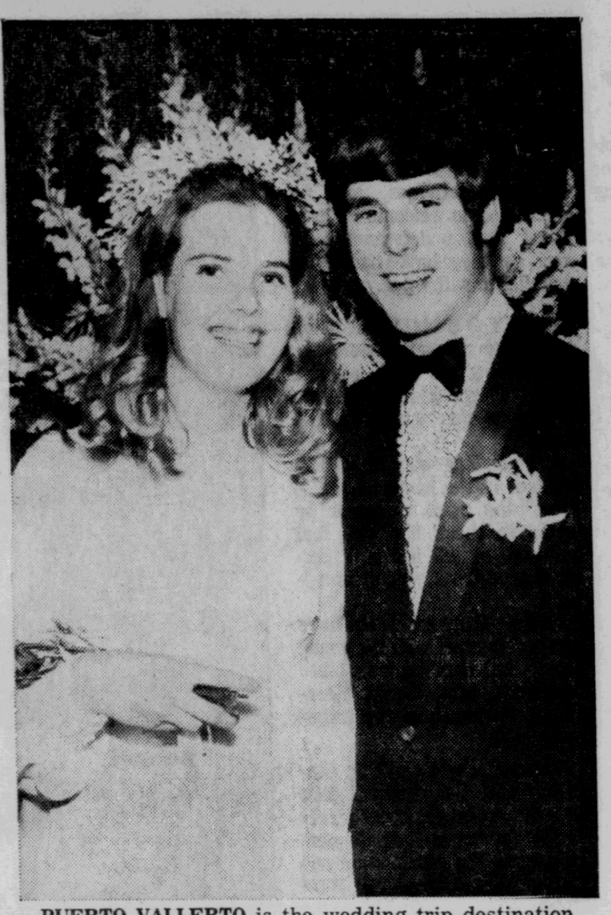
DEAR S:

Your husband is so tied up in "nots" that he's lost track of real discipline, which is: Teaching responsibility through wise decisions. "Timeclock parents" take the easy way — but it's definitely not the best. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.



PUERTO VALLERTO is the wedding trip destination of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Andre Lahargoue (Nanci Jean Nelson), who were married at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. Camp Safety Laws Are Needed

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Like many other parents, Mitch Kurman of Westport, Conn., assumed that the camp he chose for his son would observe simple safety rules and take proper precautions for the youngsters there.

He chose a camp in upstate New York which specialized in canoe trips into New England and Canada. A few weeks after the start of camp, he got word that his son had drowned in a canoe accident in Maine.

At first, he assumed that it had been merely a matter of fate that can fall anywhere regardless of what precautions are taken. Then he decided to look further.

His investigation disclosed that the accident had happened on one of the wildest stretches of the Penobscot River and that the young counselor in charge had had a previous narrow escape on the same river. In addition, the counselor had been warned by a Forest Ranger not to challenge the Penobscot again without special safety equipment such as ropes and life preservers. The counselor had ignored these warnings.

SINCE THEN, Kurman has become a crusader for greater camp safety. And he has interested Senator Abe Ribicoff (D-Conn.) in introducing a bill which would establish a joint federal-state camp safety program. It would grant a certificate to camps that meet certain standards.

At present, there are no uniform standards, and state laws vary considerably. Nineteen states have no regulations governing any aspect of summer camps, and 46 states have no regulation governing the condition of vehicles or qualifications of drivers of camp vehicles.

That does not mean there are no standards or that most camps are not as safe as they can be. Efforts to improve safety have been made by the American Camping Association, which has some 3,400 member camps, and other groups such as scouting and church groups.

But there is no way for these groups to enforce voluntary standards. When the ACA surveyed some member camps in 1967, it found that one out of every eight failed to meet basic minimums.

THE ONLY comprehensive survey of camp safety was completed 42 years ago. It concluded that 65 percent of all camp accidents could have been prevented by better supervision or higher standards of camp maintenance and administration.

Only one-quarter of the accidents were attributed to the camper's own negligence, and half of these could have been prevented with better supervision of activities, according to the report. Many injuries were due to faulty structures, dangerous pathways and poor camp location.

It is not possible, of course, to make anything completely safe, especially anything like a summer camp for carefree youngsters. Most camps probably take as many precautions as they can under the circumstances. Camping associations are also emphasizing safety more than they have.

But there are now some 12,000 summer camps in this country serving an estimated 7 million youngsters, and the numbers are growing at an ever-increasing rate. Resident camps have tripled in ten years.

WHAT RIBICOFF and Kurman want is a set of minimum safety standards which could either be accepted or rejected by individual states. Participating states would conduct inspections to ensure compliance and then award certificates indicating that a camp meets the standards.

Although Ribicoff's bill has little chance of passage, its timing may do some good. At the very least, it may stir some parents into checking safety aspects as they prepare to choose a camp for the approaching summer.

Save The Tag

NEW YORK (UPI) — Proper laundering can increase the life of garments. One decorative way to keep care information handy is to make a hang tag bulletin board for the laundry room.

Cover a piece of fiberboard with burlap, adhesive-backed paper or some attractive material from a sewing project. Bind the edges with colored masking tape. Use a marking pen to identify each hang tag with its garment and tack to board.

Milk Taster Learns The Hard Way Not To Swallow

By JAMES M. EVANS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— Ever take a sip of milk and think to yourself, "that tastes funny?"

A lot of people have, and to reduce their number there are professional milk-tasters employed to weed out bad-tasting milk.

One such is Bill Randle of Starkville, Miss, a student at Mississippi State University and still a novice taster getting his practical experience at a local dairy.

ACCORDING TO Randle, the biggest task is to make sure that only the taste and not the substance is added to the taster's diet. In other words, don't swallow.

"After all, you don't know what you're drinking," said Randle. "That's why you test it in the first place and why it's best not to swallow.

"One day I grabbed the first two or three bottles off the line, took a big swallow and, well, swallowed. It was full of chlorine that hadn't been flushed out of the lines." I learned my lession," he said.

Bill Lloyd, head of quality control at the plant where Randle is training, said Randle, the son of a Mississippi dairy farmer, is "pretty good."

"The most important thing Bill will learn here is how to taste," said Lloyd.

HE EXPLAINED that the milk should be taken into the mouth, rolled around the tongue so that it touches all the taste buds — particularly those at the back that detect bitterness — and spit out.

He said the taster searches for the presence of wild onion and bitterweeds which include ragweed, horseweed, sneezeweed and bitter rubberweed.

"There's a slight difference in taste from season to season that we notice here but the customer never tastes," said Lloyd. "It gets to the point where you can tell what a cow's eaten on the day she was milked."

While he talked, he picked up an unlabeled sample bottle and handed it to Randle.

"Ooh, that's awful," Randle said, spitting the substance in a nearby sink. Lloyd explained that it was a quinine mixture, designed solely to test the taster.

Eggs Come In Standard Sizes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Whether you realize it or not, you buy eggs by weight, not volume. The grade and the size determine prices. The U.S. Department of Agriculture sets standards for sizing: A dozen large eggs must weigh at least 24 ounces; mediums, at least 21 ounces, and smalls, at least 18 ounces.

If the price spread per dozen eggs is less than seven cents between one size and the next smaller size of the same grade, your best value is the larger size. For instance—Grade A large eggs 60 cents a dozen give you more egg for the money than Grade A mediums at 54 cents.

Electric Aids

NEW YORK (UPI) — Keeping hair pretty between shampoos is no longer such a big problem, thanks to the electric beauty aids which curl, style and fluff hair. The electrically-heated curlers can set hair in seven to 15 minutes. Authorities report curlers which use dry heat work best on oily hair; curlers which set with steam are better for dry hair; some units also offer products for conditioning the hair as it is set.

Don't Throw Out Those Recipes

By SANDI GOULD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Homemakers will be able to keep their favorite family recipes and kitchen utensils if the United States adopts the metric system of weights and measures.

A member of Ohio State University's Home Economics Department says the homemaker should have little trouble adjusting to the new system.

"They will only have to deal with one simple system based on tens rather than our present complicated one of pounds-ounces and feet-inches," she said.

"Figuring of quantities and costs in the marketplace for consumers should be simplified on a system of tens in comparison to the mental exercise currently necessary to convert pounds to ounces and figure costs per unit."

DIFFICULTIES AROSE, she said, in the standardization of tools and gauges, interchangeability of machine parts, simplification of international exchange and clerks learning new sizes.

"But actually, the consumer may have it the easiest," she decided.

Dr. Fern Hunt, an associate professor at the school, did some of her own weighing and measuring on the proposal before deciding the consumer would have the easiest part of all — if a change were made.

The Metric Study Bill in 1968 authorized the secretary of commerce to conduct a study on the feasibility of using it in the United States.

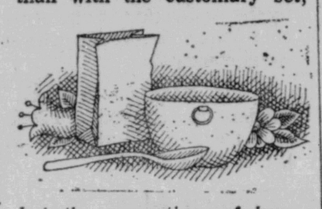
During her research, Dr. Hunt discovered a standard measuring cup has a capacity of 236.6 milliliters, equivalent to one-fourth of a quart. The "liter" under the metric system would be 250 milliliters.

"THIS WOULD mean an increase in size by just under one tablespoon and the new capacity would be one-fourth of a liter instead of one-fourth of a cup," she said.

She recommended retaining the current size relationship between the cup and the measuring spoons.

"Women wanting to continue to use presently owned recipe books and measuring equipment could do so with no problem," she said. "They could use old favorite recipes with new measuring devices if both measuring cups and spoons were in the new sizes."

She said that with the new sizes, the yield from the recipes would be just slightly larger than with the customary set,



but the proportions of ingredients would remain unchanged.

"Accuracy in measurements is still important in successful preparation of certain foods," she said, "but the precision implied by weighing ingredients is rarely necessary in the types of home cooking currently done or likely to be done in the future, particularly with the trends in popularity of packaged food mixes and other convenience food items."

Product Proliferation

A recent survey showed that 52 per cent of the food products currently on supermarket shelves were not there ten years ago; they are new products.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

A New Concept In Fire Safety

The Sausalito City Council last night approved in concept a recommendation that fire alarms and added means of escape from blazes be required in new homes.

Fire Chief Charles E. Masten told the council the requirements are needed since some homes newly built on Sausalito's hills provide only one route of escape — usually over a wooden carport.

Should fire engulf the carport, he said, residents would be trapped.

He suggested requiring such homes to have aluminum or rope ladders from outboard decks or other points of exit.

Hynes, in a memorandum to the council, said alarms would add to "runaway costs" of construction and would discourage new building in the city.

However, he wrote, if the council approved such alarms, it should also set a price ceiling of about $50.

Masten, who estimated the cost of alarms at about $300, said he didn't think the cost was excessive.

"People don't have fire alarm systems in their homes, but they all have color TV's," he said, adding Sausalito suffered three fire fatalities during 1969-70.

The council, in endorsing the proposals, referred them to the city attorney, who will determine whether they should be drafted as part of the building code, as an ordinance or as a resolution.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

FIRE STATION — Heard a report from Elizabeth Phillips of the Sausalito Women's Club on plans for rededication of the remodeled fire station May 8.

PARKING — Approved a request that five perpendicular parking spaces at El Portal and Park Street be changed to four parallel spaces to provide a safer traffic flow. The spaces, like most others in the city, will be metered. Approval came on a 3 to 1 vote, Councilman Stephen A. Fraser against and Mayor Alexander R. Imlay absent.

BUILDING PLAN — Approved unanimously a resolution prohibiting further building along upper Santa Rosa Avenue until an adequate water line for firefighting is constructed.

RESTROOMS — Tabled discussion on a planning commission recommendation that restrooms be constructed at city parking lot 1, pending further discussion with the Golden Gate Bridge District on plans for a central ferry terminal.

RECYCLING — Authorized a letter to Whole Systems Inc., currently under contract with the City of Mill Valley to provide collection services for materials for recycling, expressing interest for such service in Sausalito.

NOISE REDUCTION — Agreed to discuss at its March 16 meeting the planting of trees, either by the state or city, along Highway 101, to act as a noise buffer for highway sounds.

Nine Marinites Enlist In Army

They are Donald J. Staples of 4 Warrens Way, Tiburon; John L. Morris of 40 Strawberry Circle, Mill Valley; Wesley H. Lewis of 586 Bolling Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base; Herbert G. Lyttle of Inverness, and John N. Creighton of 123 Larkspur Street, Derrick M. Dobson of 5 Lincoln Avenue, Gregory J. Ghilotti of 32 Ridgewood Drive, David F. Mohlman of 270 Arias Street and Lee E. Warner of 107 Las Flores Avenue, all of San Rafael.

Puffing Away

THE HAGUE (UPI)—Despite an increasing anti-smoking campaign, the Dutch smoked more cigarettes and cigars than ever last year. Cigarette consumption was nearly 18.7 billion, compared with 16.3 billion in 1969. The number of cigars smoked totalled 1.5 billion, against 1.29 billion the previous year.

Annexation Of Yard Is Sought

Novato Sanitary District directors approved an application to the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission for approval of the proposed annexation of the City of Novato corporation yard to the sanitary district.

The property adjoins the district sewage treatment plant, according to Charles Joseph, district engineer-manager.

The board, which met Monday, also approved a state Water Resources Control Board contract with the district for an $85,000 study of Northern Marin and Southern Sonoma sewage planning.

The Novato district will be contracting agency for the survey involving seven public agencies, and will contribute $19,500 of the cost. The state will pay $30,000, Joseph said.

It also voted to hire consultants Jenks and Adamson for an $850 study of treatment plant expansion needed if the district decides to serve developers in the San Antonio Creek watershed on the Marin-Sonoma County line.

New City Quarters Urged In Tiburon

Tiburon has outgrown its leased city hall and should begin looking for new quarters immediately, the city council has decided.

Acting City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the council learned Monday that the city's lease on the building at 80 Main Street, owned by Frederick G. Zelinsky, expires July 1 and the landlord must be notified by May 1 if the city wishes to renew the agreement.

"There is no question that the city has outgrown" the building, Kleinert said, but there is no time to find new quarters. He recommended that the lease be renewed for three years and a search be made for another building.

The council, however, decided that Mayor Denis T. Rice and Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood should investigate the matter and return at the council's March 22 meeting with a recommendation.

If the lease on Zelinsky's building is renewed, Kleinert said, the rent will go up from $575 to $700 a month.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

PLAN — Recommended, at the request of the Association of Bay Area Governments, that the nine Bay Area counties be assessed to pay for a proposed regional ocean coastline plan.

CABLE TV — Reduced a performance bond required of Cable TV of Marin from $20,000 to $5,000 because the firm serves only a small portion of the city.

LANES — Accepted deeds for two lanes, one between Hilary Drive and Del Mar School and the other near Marinero Circle, which the city acquired in a tax sale.

CARS — Heard on first reading an ordinance to make technical changes in the ordinance providing for removal of abandoned vehicles. The changes are required by the Legislature.

PLANNER — Took no action on a proposal to hire an interim planning director to replace Wayne E. Moody, who has resigned.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to a meeting with the Belvedere city council Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Reed School to consider a report by the joint balanced transportation committee on future alignment of Tiburon Boulevard.

Minority Group Hits Majority First Time

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The number of minority group students in the Los Angeles City School District has surpassed the 50 per cent mark for the first time in the district's history.

A survey by the state Department of Education shows minority group students totaled 50.2 per cent. This compares with 48.4 per cent last year.

Rapid Recovery Of Economy Is Doubted In Poll

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Businessmen are beginning to feel that the economy is coming out of a slump but the results of a government survey of spending plans to not point to a very rapid recovery.

The Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission said Monday the business community plans to increase its investment in plant and equipment by 4.3 per cent this year. The planned expansion was substantially more than the 1.5 per cent increase for the year projected in a similar survey three months earlier, but it still would be the smallest growth in plant and equipment spending since 1968.

The 1970 increase was 5.5 per cent and the 1969 figure was 11.5 per cent.

Quentin Stabbings Force General Inmate Lockup

Most of San Quentin's 3,250 inmates were locked in their cells today after Warden Louis S. Nelson ordered a "cooling off period" to halt the wave of stabbings that injured five prisoners in 24 hours.

A search of men lined up for dinner last night produced seven knives carried by six inmates, Assoc. Warden James W. L. Park reported today. Five other knives were discovered on the ground nearby, apparently thrown away by convicts when they learned they would be searched, Park said.

Warden Nelson ordered the general lockup at 2:10 p.m. yesterday, 10 minutes after inmate Robert Sconyers was stabbed in the chest, arm and back in the prison's education area. Three other inmates, whom Park would not name, were held as suspects in the stabbing.

At 12:10 p.m., inmate Arthur J. Golia, 27, was stabbed in the stomach and back. He was reported in "good" condition today after extensive surgery. Park said one suspect was in custody.

Earlier yesterday, two former motorcycle gang members, Frank D. Tubach, 28, and Douglas R. Spencer, 26, were treated for cuts suffered at 7:40 a.m. after breakfast, in the South cell block. No weapon was found, nor was any suspect in custody.

Park said the wave of stabbings was launched at 4 p.m. Monday when Wayne Dennis Early, 24, was stabbed in the back three times in the east cell block.

Monday's stabbing "was not a racial thing," Park declared, even though the victim was black and the suspect a Chicano. However, the associate warden explained, "hotbloods made it a racial thing" in the later stabbings.

He denied that Sunday's stabbing of Death Row inmate Millon L. McShane had any connection with the wave of knifings in the main sections of the prison. The fact that the weapon believed used against McShane had been found in the cell of another Death Row inmate, Leo Estrada Robles, was discounted by Park. "What Leo Robles does really isn't reflected in the mainline, nor does what happens in Death Row" connect with the trouble in the rest of the prison, Park held.

Park said he felt Warden Nelson's lock-up order was essential to provide "an information and cooling off period" for the inmates. He explained the convicts had been disturbed "by rumors and confusion." The prison's uncensored inmate radio station KSQ carried messages from inmate leaders and news of the stabbings for several hours last night, Park reported.

The lock-up will continue "only a few more days," Park said. Guards will conduct a thorough search for weapons during the confinement, he said.

He said the prisoner's restiveness was increased by seeing another inmate wheeled across the yard on a stretcher just before the last stabbing. The man had been hurt in an industrial accident, Park said, but he had no details on name or condition of the injured man.

The prison's west block, housing "stable" inmates "operated normally last night" and inmates with essential jobs were performing their tasks outside the cellblocks today, Park reported.

Judge Rejects Angela's Motion

By MARY LEYDECKER

Angela Y. Davis lost a bid yesterday to move her court proceedings from a 104-seat Hall of Justice courtroom to the larger Board of Supervisors chambers.

In denying the request by Miss Davis's lawyers, Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court said that he doubted there existed "some sort of a numerical standard that guarantees a public trial."

The defense attorneys had argued that since 60 seats in the courtroom have been set aside for press and more for plain clothesmen, there were very few left for friends and supporters of the black militant woman.

The judge noted that there were about 20 empty seats in the courtroom yesterday but said he thought there would probably be more interest in the case as it progressed.

The judge also said he had "a deep conviction that this is a court proceeding and ought to be held in a courtroom."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., who is prosecuting Miss Davis and San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy stemming from the August shoot-out at the Hall of Justice, argued that the present setup protects Miss Davis.

In a written answer to the defense motion, Harris said that leading her from the jail to the courtroom through a private corridor "assures her she will not share the fate of Lee Harvey Oswald."

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that "no one had stopped to think that the Board of Supervisors might want to use their own chambers" next Tuesday when the next court date for Miss Davis and Magee is set.

(Tuesday is the supervisors' regular meeting day.)

He also said that to get Miss Davis to the supervisors' chambers in the administration wing of the Civic Center would involve taking her "through 900 linear feet of public corridors" and using public elevators. He also pointed out that the largest wall of the supervisors' chambers is "sheer glass and has eight doors."

Convict Magee, heavily chained, was brought over from San Quentin for yesterday's court appearance and his two newest court-appointed attorneys asked to withdraw from the case.

Judge Wilson refused the request of Robert D. Carrow and Robert Y. Bell but said they could renew their motion next Tuesday before visiting Judge William McMurray, a retired Inyo County Judge who has been assigned to the case.

Magee, who has insisted from the outset that he wants to be his own attorney, was removed from the courtroom yesterday when he loudly asked to be, saying he didn't want to listen to "all this sickness" while Judge Wilson was talking.

Although he was removed from the courtroom, he still had to listen to the remaining proceedings which were broadcast into an adjoining holding cell.

At the close of yesterday's hearing, which was attended mainly by reporters and a few of Miss Davis's supporters, there were cries of "Free Angela" to which Miss Davis shouted back, "Free Ruchell Magee."

Her supporters said they are recruiting persons from all over the state to attend next Tuesday's session.

Lab Equipment Is Recovered

Laboratory and photographic equipment valued at $150 was taken between 4 p.m. Friday and 9:40 a.m. yesterday from the San Rafael Military Academy, but was recovered at a nearby church, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Two unidentified girls reported a possible bomb in a cardboard box at the Church of Christ Science at 1618 Fifth Avenue to John Lincoln Shepherd of the Church. He reported finding a box full of equipment to police.

Board To Seek Legal Advice

The Laguna School District board has decided to consult an attorney in an effort to end a squabble with the Laguna Parent-Teacher Association.

Board clerk Donald Moreda said the P-TA has demanded the return of a long list of school items it claims to have donated.

Moreda said there has been friction between the association and the school because those who control the P-TA have moved from the tiny district. "It is just plain orneriness," he said.

Items in dispute include tables, chairs and other school equipment, Moreda said.

Bales Picks Peter Evans For Staff

Peter W. Evans, 26, of San Anselmo, has been appointed to the staff of Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, Bales announced yesterday.

Evans was sworn in as a deputy district attorney, succeeding Gary Ragghianti who resigned last month to enter private practice.

The new deputy is a native of Pennsylvania. He received a Bachelor's degree from Lehigh University in Pennsylvania and a law degree last June from the University of Southern California.

Marin College Board Meeting Is Cancelled

The workshop session to continue planning education programs at the proposed north campus has been reset for March 23 at 8 p.m. at the College of Marin testing office.

Approval For Plan On Shopping Center

Final plans for a $2 million shopping center at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue in Larskpur won 4-to-0 endorsement last night from the city's planning commission.

Proposed by SDC Inc. of Corona Del Mar, San Diego County, the controversial project, which includes a 23,000-square-foot Alpha Beta supermarket, will be considered in April by the city council.

According to John W. Appleton, planning director, developers last night told the commission the supermarket is planned for a November opening.

SDC has been fighting for more than a year for city approval of its proposal which also includes five to eight satellite shops and stores and a service station.

The service station, however, is not planned for construction until after city improvements to the Doherty Drive-Magnolia Avenue intersection. Those improvements are expected during fiscal 1971-72 Appleton said.

Commission Chairman Robert H. Lee, who has opposed the project because it will be located on land slated for residential use in the general plan, was absent last night.

In granting final design review to the Larkspur Square, the proposed name for the center, the commission directed final landscape and sign plans be submitted for consideration.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

ORDINANCE — Recommended the city council approve an ordinance amendment limiting uses in C-2, general commerical zones. The proposed amendment permit uses such as retail shops and stores, offices and public services, but would require use permits for such uses as gas stations, car lots, theaters and drive-in restaurants, currently not requiring use permits.

TIME CHANGE — Introduced an ordinance amendment to change the time in which the commission is required to act on plans submitted for architectural review. The commission currently must act within 40 days of submission, but the proposed amendment would begin the time limit from the date of the first hearing.

LOT SPLIT — Approved the concept of a lot split for property owned by A. V. Girot, 62 Briar Road, prior to the property's annexation to the city.

AGENDA — Requested the staff to begin allocating blocks of time for matters on meeting agendas.

Another Foe To Petaluma Sewer Vote

The proposed $2 million Petaluma Sewer bond election gained another foe last night when the directors of the East Petaluma Civic Association agreed to oppose it.

President Marvin Hale said the directors felt that Petaluma needs more planning before permitting more growth that the sewer plant expansion would bring.

The Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association Monday night went on record as opposing the sewer bonds and also called for better planning.

Brothers Hurt In Cycle Crash

Two Corte Madera brothers were treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for injuries sustained when the motorcycle they were riding collided with an auto near the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

The hospital said Frank Zonsa, 19, of 32 Edison Avenue, was treated for a cut scalp while his brother Gary, 18, driver of the cycle, was treated for a bruised right thigh.

Officers said the two were injured at 3:15 p.m. while traveling west on Tamalpais Avenue. Their bike collided with an eastbound auto turning left at Madera Boulevard. Driver of the auto, Bruce Otto Jackson, 35, of 1075 Acme Court, Novato, was not injured, officers said.

Reed Issue On 'Sounding Board'

The proposed recall of chairman Gordon C. Wright of the Reed School District board will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Panel members will be Wright; Robert D. Hayes, member of the Committee for Quality Education, which supports Wright, and Richard L. Goff and Kenneth Rosenthal, two members of a committee seeking Wright's recall.

Listeners may phone in questions during the live broadcast tomorrow. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

DRUGS IN THE CLASSROOM: Is Dyslexia A Disease?

By ARNOLD ARNOLD
(Third of six articles)

A 1968 committee of medical and reading experts was appointed by the then secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to study the problem of dyslexia, a supposedly common disorder among children that causes severe reading difficulties.

The committee met for one whole year, at a cost of $145,000, but was unable to agree even on a definition of the word dyslexia. Members could not agree on a diagnosis, on causes or cures, but they did agree that children's reading failures were mostly due to poor teacher training and to inadequate schools, proposing $54 million of further research into these and related problems.

However, Drs. Sam D. Clements and John E. Peters, among others, have few doubts about the causes and cure of dyslexia. They head the children's clinic at the University of Arkansas Medical School and attribute dyslexia to minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) and associate it with hyperkinesis, disruptive, overly aggressive and inattentive behavior in children. These doctors don't hesitate to prescribe Ritalin and amphetamines to treat this disorder. They suggest, in a lengthy article in one of the American Medical Association's journals, that these drugs enable primary grades children to overcome dyslexia and to learn to read.

DYSLEXIA HAS a nice, scientific ring to it. It has served to gloss over many reasons for the reading failures of children. On the basis of existing research it is highly unlikely that more than two to five percent of the total child population suffers physiological disorders that make reading difficult to learn. Still, some of the advocates of the MBD diagnosis and amphetamine treatment of pre-adolescent children claim that about 30 per cent of poverty children are so afflicted and that a large but unstated number of others suffer similar disabilities.

Doctors Clements and Peters define the child who suffers MBD and dyslexia as one who 'seems bright; he is quiet and obedient, but daydreams and can't read. (Or) he is high-strung and nervous; his attention is hard to hold. (Or) he has frequent temper outbursts, sometimes for no apparent reason. He won't concentrate for more than a few minutes at a time... He lacks self-control... He does not work to capacity; he is not learning to read or to work with numbers, but has a good vocabulary and uses words correctly."

These catch-all diagnoses and treatment, the vague but precise-sounding terminology, and the certainty with which dangerous drugs are dispensed on the basis of inadequate evidence, is farily typical of the general approach to drug-medicated behavior control and drug-assisted learning.

MANY OF OUR children, schools, parents and the various governmental agencies that deal with education are faced with complex and difficult problems. It is easy to be seduced into treating individual symptoms, while ignoring all others, to believe in wholesale cures for social, psychological or physical disorders, using methods or drugs that are unproved or inadequately tested. In the case of MBD, hyperkinesis and dyslexia, the use of amphetamines and similar drugs may appear to alleviate superficial symptoms. But neither the drug company, nor the medical literature has pointed out that the great majority of pre-adolescent children react identically as adults to these drugs. On the contrary, much of the literature claims a "paradoxical" effect — that children below the ages of 12 or 13 are calmed, rather than "pepped-up" by these pills. This is simply untrue, except for a few of the children who really suffer from minimal brain damage.

Indiscriminate drug use, by adults, children and teen-agers, has become a major threat to health. The Congressional Select Committee on Crime held hearings last Nov. 18 on the problem of amphetamine use in the U.S. More than three billion dosages of these drugs are manufactured each year, while the scientific research shows that legitimate prescriptions would call for fewer than 100,000 doses. In all except very rare cases there is no sound medical reason for prescribing them. Their use for weight reduction, for keeping awake, for the majority of instances where they are used for behavior control, or for kicks, are considered extremely hazardous and addictive.

The "Right to Privacy" hearings of the Congressional Subcommittee on Government Operations of Sept. 29, 1970, uncovered some of the abuses of the MBD and hyperkinesis diagnosis and behavior modification in the classroom through drug use.

Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., in his opening statement, said that he had found evidence that "creatively gifted children" are given amphetamines in schools in order to control them, and because of a lack of facilities to keep them interested in the classroom. The myth of the "paradoxical effect" of amphetamines on pre-puberty children has encouraged their being turned on so that they sit quietly enjoying their euphoria, listening to a different drummer, while the teacher drones on.

The National Institute of Mental Health supports nine different studies concerning MBD, hyperkinesis and amphetamine treatment. But only one, at Harvard University, concerns the long-range effects of these drugs.

MANY CAUSES can contribute to reading failure in children. But perhaps the most important ones, overlooked by many who investigate such problems, are the general climate at home and in school that turns many children away from activity, speech, participation, communication, and interaction. These are the prerequisites for a curiosity about books and for wanting to learn to read. No drug, no TV program, and no amount of pseudoscience are going to make up for predominantly social and cultural deficits. On the contrary, they tend to perpetuate these very failures by obstructing the required intervention by parents and teachers.

Unquestionably, as science probes deeper into the biochemical and physiological workings of the human brain, it will be able to explain better how children learn. Some of these findings may eventually help in the development of new teaching and learning. But none of these discoveries is likely to replace support from a healthy, activity and curiosity provoking environment.

Simple Approach Helps Curb Truancy Problem

Truancy — along with drugs and vandalism — has become a major problem in high schools.

It is not new, of course. Almost any old-timer can (if he wishes) recall some times when he cut classes to go fishing, watch a ball game, or just "goof off." But its incidence has increased markedly in recent years, causing much concern among school people, as well as parents.

AN INDICATION of that concern is the fact that class-cutting is among the topics scheduled for discussion at a "town meeting" tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael High School cafeteria, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

The problem has increased this year at San Rafael High because of adoption of "modular scheduling" which gives students free time in chunks of assorted sizes. It is difficult for the faculty to keep track of the students who are on free time — and next to impossible to determine whether students loafing around the campus or in the neighborhood are supposed to be in class or are having a "free module."

It is a problem, however, by no means unique to San Rafael. Other Marin high schools report high incidence of class cutting, as do those in other counties and other states.

IN SACRAMENTO, it got so bad that the police department inaugurated a pickup drive under the euphemism of "Sacramento Truancy Education Project."

As described in the Sacramento Bee, the program is simplicity itself:

"Three squad cars with two policemen in each are assigned to a specific area to check juveniles seen away from schools between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on week days... Juveniles picked up for truancy are taken to a field office... for counseling by a juvenile division officer and a school official. No juvenile is to be arrested, a spokesman said, unless there is no other alternative."

THE CAMPAIGN started March 1. On the first day, police picked up 20 youngsters. Five were found to be legitimately on the streets; the other 15 were truants from school. And of those 15, eight had misdemeanor records and five had felony records.

This high percentage of delinquents with crime records bore out the police belief that truants were responsible for many daylight burglaries and thefts.

The Sacramento experiment might well be applied in Marin. It would need the cooperation of schools with the police. Since the truancy problem is of concern to both, this should not be hard to get.

"Yeah! Just let a man do a little honest mining and somebody's sure to dig up the dirt"

Russian Regime Needs Jews As Objects Of Discrimination

WASHINGTON — There is little prospect that the Soviet Russian regime is going to stop persecuting the three million Jews it holds in its viselike grip.

The anger and pain of world Jewry have been mounting, the Jews within Russia have dared to engage in sit-ins in Soviet passport offices, and much of the free world has joined the protest.

But there is no evidence to suggest that there will be any significant change.

ONE REASON is that the Russian leaders have always shown a disdain for world opinion whenever they wanted to flout it. Stalin's callous quip is a case in point: "How many divisions has the Pope?" It was on the eve of the world conference of neutralist nations, which Moscow was cultivating for propaganda purposes, that the Kremlin openly violated its own pledge not to test nuclear weapons in the atmosphere. And the Russians did not hesitate to alienate most of the Communist parties and leaders outside the USSR by invading Czechoslovakia in 1968.

There is a more powerful reason why persecution of the Jews is so persistent and so pervasive in Russia. Persecution is indigenous to dictatorships. It is the automatic response of dictatorships to any evidence of fearless individualism. Dictatorial government is always fearful and the Soviet dictatorship is terribly afraid of the Jews — afraid to yield them cultural and religious liberty and simultaneously afraid to let them leave the USSR.

The Berlin wall is the very symbol of Communism's fear of its own people.

IT IS NOT surprising that the Nazi invaders of Russian territory in World War II soon found faithful followers in the occupied areas, especially among the Ukrainians, who helped them carry out their crimes against the Jews.

The Nazy anti-Semitic creed fell on fertile Russian soil.

IN RUSSIA TODAY the Jews are not even allowed equal discrimination. There is special discrimination against them which does not apply similarly to other minorities.

Other religions in Russia are allowed a national organization. Not the Jewish religion. Training of rabbis is kept at an inadequate level, and except for the show-window of Moscow, not more than one synagogue is allowed in the cities with large Jewish populations. There are few Jewish books and newspapers.

The heroic role of the Jews as soldiers fighting against the Nazis is wiped from the face of official literature and when individual Jews proudly wear their military decorations they are taunted by such remarks as, "Where did you buy them?"

ARIE L. ELIAV, who was born in Russia and is now a member of the Israeli parliament and deputy minister of immigrant affairs, points out in his revealing book, "Between Hammer and Sickle," that the central thrust of Soviet repression is to prevent Russian Jews from "acting in unison." They must continue to live, he writes, as "isolated, scattered individuals in a state of total disorganization and disintegration." And now, he concludes, the regime is setting out "to eliminate the final remnant — religion."

Why? Why are the Russian Communists so fearful of the three million Russian Jews? Why doesn't the regime spew out the Jews and thus rid itself of what it deems a dangerous poison.

Can there be any doubt that, despite a few token visas to try to hush up the Jews, the answer is: Fear — fear that if they let the Jews leave Russia, the pressure by others to leave will become irresistible? The Jews are needed by the Soviet regime because of their talents. They are hated but useful. The Kremlin would prefer to be rid of them but doesn't dare open the dike of immigration more than the merest crack.

Mississippi May Be Next To Elect Moderate Governor

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

JACKSON, Miss. — Early predictions are that this year even Mississippi will join the procession of southern states which have newly elected moderate Democrats as governors. The prospect is certain to make George Wallace of next-door Alabama feel more and more lonely as he considers another presidential outing in 1972.

If today's expectations are fulfilled and Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan moves up to governor, the state will be taking a clear step away from the racially regressive administration of Gov. John Bell Williams.

Seven months, a court ruling on Mississippi's new free-for-all primary system, and the emergence of other major candidates all lie between now and the first voting. However, individual politicians of every stripe and more objective political authorities in the Delta, the capital and south Mississippi agree that as of now Sullivan is the probable next governor.

THE HATCHET-FACED voluble lieutenant governor, a lawyer from the Delta town of Clarksdale, has metamorphosed in more than a decade of Mississippi politics from an earlier attitude of defiance toward the national Democratic Party.

He was involved in at least one bolt by the Mississippi delegation from a national party convention.

In 1960 he chastised Sen. James O. Eastland for supporting the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, and this is part of the reason for a widely alleged enmity between the two Mississippians which may become of critical importance to Sullivan's current ambitions.

But since then Sullivan has run twice for statewide office. He was out-bigoted for governor by Paul B. Johnson in 1963, but then beat Johnson for lieutenant governor in 1967. In 1964 he lay low rather than come out for Barry Goldwater as so many other Deep South politicians did. He had conversations with the emerging Mississippi Republican Party, but decided to remain a Democrat.

He lay low again in 1968, although this part of the world was afire for Wallace. In fact, when Hubert Humphrey visited the University of Mississippi early that year, Sullivan was the only state officeholder to show up and welcome him.

Beyond that, he has made it clear that he believes public schools must survive despite court-ordered desegregation and that he thinks the private white "academies" founded to avoid integrated public schools are a temporary phenomenon.

IT IS ASSUMED he will be opposed by at least one right-wing segregationist and quite possibly on the other flank by Charles Evers, the black mayor of Fayette. In such a division, Sullivan would pull a few black votes plus the broad middle of the white vote and win.

But a law passed by the state legislature last year causes analysts here to hedge their forecasts and other candidates to hang back.

That law provides that all cancidates runon a single "primary" ballot in October. The first-and-second place finishers, regardless of party, would then oppose each other in the November general election.

Evers and others have challenged this law as discriminatory and are awaiting a ruling on it. So are all the rest of Mississippi's politicians.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Phosphates Not The Sole Villains

The goal of clean water is essential, but the proposed methods of achieving it are conflicting and often misunderstood.

1. Phosphates are not toxic to people, plants or fish.

2. Phosphorus is one of 19 nutrient elements essential to the growth of algae and aquatic plants.

3. Over 50 per cent of phosphates come into lakes and streams from human and industrial wastes, a great per cent from agricultural drainage, less than 17 per cent from soaps and detergents.

4. Even if phosphates were removed from detergents, there would still be more phosphorus to support excessive algae grwoth.

With public pressure on detergent manufacturers to remove phosphates from laundry compounds, are we aware of the substitutes being used? There are some no phosphate products on the market today with 60 per cent washing soda in them. This could cause increased alkalinity in the waters upsetting the ecological balance by killing the micro-organisms upon which the higher forms of life depend for food. Other substitutes are up to 40 per cent table salt, it has no detergent action it is merely an inert additive or bulk fiber. This could also cause corrosion of washing machines. I know of only a few products using better substitutes for phosphates, mainly because they are costly and hard to get.

Go back to soap?

1. A complete conversion to soap for household and commercial cleaning would be impossible because the soap industry animal-fat requirement would exceed the world supply.

2. Soap has a major drawback, it reacts with the hardness minerals in water to form lime soap or soap curd . . .

The only real solution to controlling nutrients going into our waters is advanced sewage treatment facilities that can remove all household, municipal and industrial sources of all nutrients. Citizens must be made aware that advanced waste treatment facilities, although expensive are essential.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 10, 1961

For the second successive month, the San Rafael office of the California Department of Employment reported a record number of unemployment compensation claims.

Carl H. Gronquist of the New York engineering firm of Steinman, Boynton, Gronquist and London told the Golden Gate Bridge District board that tests proved the bridge could carry the extra weight of a rapid transit system.

20 YEARS AGO

March 10, 1951

State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, urged Golden Gate Bridge District directors to borrow $5 million from the state to widen and improve the Marin approach to the bridge.

Legislature Distorts Meaning Of Democracy

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It might be profitable to consult your dictionary once and awhile to get some indication as to whether the passage of the years has bought major changes to the meaning of certain words in every-day usage.

"Democracy — The political system in which government is directly exercised or controlled by the people, collectively."

This is the definition in the Funk & Wagnalls published in 1913, or 58 years ago, which I happen to own as an heirloom handed down by my grandfather.

"Democracy — Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is lodged in the hands of the people collectively."

It can, therefore, be seen readily that the meaning of cemocracy has not changed in substance in the past half century, even if the California Legislature has changed it in practice by denying some of the people the right to a forum.

On the flimsy excuse that discussion of the crucial subject of welfare would provide Gov. Ronald Reagan with the backdrop for a political show, the Democrats, ruling legislature party, refused to allow the chief executive of the state the privilege of addressing a joint session of the legislature on welfare reform.

As a result, the governor sought and obtained access to the people that elected him to high office through the medium of a speech to a private club in Los Angeles, which was brought to the people by the communications media.

Thus, nothing was lost by the legislature's picayunish harassment of the governor as far as getting information to the people is concerned, but on the other hand, much was lost in the integrity of the legislature and its responsibility to the people in the maintenance of a democratic government, by the people collectively.

One excuse used for denying the governor the right of expression was that the welfare reform bills were not before the legislature, and therefore, discussion was not in order.

It might be pointed out that the subject of welfare is probably the number one subject before the people at present, and whether specific bills are before the legislature or not makes no difference in attempt to solve the problem now threatening to send California into a state of bankruptcy.

Novato Hospital Gets Good Marks For Friendly Service

Recently I spent some time in Novato General Hospital. This was my second stay in the same hospital in the past 10 years. The changes were quite noticeable.

In the intervening years, the hospital has about doubled in number of beds. It has also added such things as an intensive care unit, more operating and X-ray facilities, and a new emergency room.

This is all very good because it is the only hospital so equipped in North Marin.

There is a difference in hospitals. Marin General is tax-supported. Kaiser Foundation Hospital is supported by the Kaiser Health Plan. Novato General Hospital is completely private.

MILTON SCOTT, the hospital's manager, said, "If we don't serve the community and get the business, we don't exist."

In the years between my two visits, some of the help had changed, of course. But there were many familiar faces there.

The aim of the nurses, nurses aides and volunteers is to make a person's stay as comfortable and friendly as possible. They all take a personal interest in the patients. I am not familiar with too many other hospitals, but Novato's is the most friendly that I have been in.

I am not alone in this viewpoint. After I was out of the hospital, I was talking with a San Anselmo woman who had been rushed to Novato General Hospital in an emergency.

"I didn't know that there were that many nurses in Novato," she said describing her first impression of the hospital. She went on to say that it was the friendliest and most efficient hospital she had ever been in.

"Whenever I wanted or needed anything, the nurses were right there with scarcely any waiting," she said.

IT MAY BE DUE partly to my advancing age, but it did seem that the nurses were prettier this time than last. Even those who had been there when I was there before, seemed younger. The new nurses I know were picked from beauty contestants.

Scott should be a Hollywood casting director, and not a hospital manager.

Laying the jokes aside, it is good to go to a hospital when one needs it, and it is equally as good to leave it when one no longer needs it. I can heartily recommend Novato General Hospital because the employees there seem to try a little harder. They not only want to make the patient feel better, but want to make the only hospital in North Marin a going concern.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Costs Inflated By Arson, Vandalism

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Insurance premiums for California school districts last year were almost double those of five years earlier, yet the insurance they got did not cover many smaller losses that were covered in 1965 policies.

This year, the school districts are paying still more for insurance, and getting a great deal less coverage.

Until this year, San Diego Unified School District had complete, no-deductible fire and property damage coverage. But for this year its insurers would write only a policy with $50,000 deductible. In other words, any fire or other damage below $50,000 must be paid for by the taxpayers.

In San Francisco Unified School District, the deductible has risen from $1,000 in 1967 to $100,000 for this year. In Pasadena Unified School District, it went from $1,000 last year to $100,000 this year. Similar increases have hit most of the big districts, and less-sensational but still very large ones have hit smaller California districts. And the premiums have been increased at the same time coverage has been decreased.

THE REASONS: arson, vandalism, burglary.

Gordon Trigg, administrative consultant to the Los Angeles Unified School District, told a state Senate education sub-committee last December that his district lost $2.1 million to these causes last school year. This, he said, was in spite of an increase from 15 to 104 in its security staff and installation of more burglar alarms.

Figures collected by Warren, McVeigh and Associates, risk management consultants, for a report just submitted to the legislature's budget committee showed that California school districts had physical losses (insured and uninsured) of $5,858,000 in the 1965-66 school year, and of $10,908,000 in the 1969-70 school year. In the same period, their insurance premiums went up from $5,711,000 to $10,833,000 — and more of the losses became uninsurable.

During this five-year period, fire losses approximately doubled, as did window breakage and other vandalism, according to the firm's figures. Theft losses nearly tripled. But wind losses — insurable but caused by nature rather than man — increased less than 40 per cent, or about equal to the inflation in replacement costs.

WARREN, McVEIGH and Associates proposed that the state set up its own insurance pool to insure the schools, requiring full coverage — which the insurance companies now refuse — as a way to force the districts into it. Experience in other states has shown this would reduce the cost to the school districts (i.e., their taxpayers), the consultant firm said.

It would not, however, reduce the damage.

Various explanations have been put forward for the alarming increase in thefts, arson and vandalism at the schools. They range from blaming the whole thing on the Vietnam War, with the rationale that violence there breeds violence here, to blaming it all on weak-spined school administrators (the Los Angeles schools expelled only 59 of their more than 400,000 students in the 1969-70 school year, that same Senate subcommittee was told).

ONE WAY to reduce vandalism was discovered more-or-less accidentally at Banneker School in Gary, Ind., after its operation was taken over on a performance contract by Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto.

BRL dismissed about a third of the teachers, but brought in more than that many parents from the neighborhood as "learning supervisors" to assist the certificated personnel.

An immediate fringe benefit, according to Allen Calvin, chairman of the board of BRL, was a dramatic drop in vandalism. His explanation was simple:

"A kid isn't going to throw a rock through a window of the school where his mother works."

The $5 million increase in California school districts' annual insurance costs that has come about in the last five years, plus the additional millions spent because of damage that no longer is insurable, would pay a lot of "learning supervisors."

Trial Set For Burglary Pair

William Frederick O'Bayley, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary and possessing stolen property.

Trial was set for the week of March 29.

Two Senators For D.C. Being Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia two senators and as many House members as its population warrants.

His proposal was offered as a rider to another amendment which would drop the voting age to 18 in all state and local elections. The district currently is allowed a nonvoting delegate to the House, the first one of which will be elected this month.

Priest Urges Pot Law Reform

BOSTON (UPI)—Rep. Mimie B. Pitaro, D-Boston, the first Roman Catholic priest elected to the Massachusetts legislature, thinks laws governing the use of marijuana should be liberalized.

"There's a great deal of discussion going on and research into the effects of marijuana," he said, "But it doesn't appear to be as dangerous as hard narcotics. Young people who use it shouldn't be treated like seasoned criminals."

Pitaro has filed a bill to make possession of marijuana a misdemeanor and repeal the law making it a crime to be present where marijuana is found.

"Why should someone be guilty of a crime because of what someone else did," he asked. "It just isn't logical."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Victory Over TB Is Within Reach But Still Battle Lines

Victory over tuberculosis is within our reach but we are far from the end of the battle. Many excellent drugs and surgical procedures have hastened recovery and shortened the duration of treatment. Most tuberculosis sanatoria have many empty beds and some smaller institutions could close their doors or offer another type of service to save the taxpayer's money.

BUT THE FINEST advances are for naught unless the disease is detected early and treated promptly and vigorously. Dr. Mahfouz H. Zaki of Brooklyn made an extensive study of tuberculosis and found that today, 70 per cent of all cases are discovered in the moderately- or far-advanced stage. These individuals do not see a physician until they lose weight or develop respiratory symptoms, such as a productive cough.

The outlook is much better when TB is detected before symptoms develop. This is more likely to occur when the condition is identified via routine examinations in the hospital or physician's office, community X-ray units and other screening programs. Skin testing also is an important method of detecting early tuberculosis, especially in children.

THE DECLINE in admissions to our sanatoria stems from a fewer number of new cases. In some parts of the country isoniazid tablets are given to children and adults who have been in contact with a person with active tuberculosis. The anti-tuberculosis drug is continued for a year especially in highly susceptible groups, such as children, pregnant women, and diabetics. BCG vaccine is also used as a preventive for youngsters in high risk groups.

Better housing has played a major role in the decline of tuberculosis in this country. The disease is contagious and it is not difficult to imagine what happens in a crowded tenement when one man or woman becomes infected and exposes all the others to the malady. Improved diets also deserve some of the credit.

MOTION SICKNESS FROM TV

Mr. E. L. writes: Whenever I look at a horse race or other fast moving objects on TV, my stomach feels as tho it has jumped into my mouth. What causes this sensation?

REPLY

This is a form of motion sickness some people develop when riding on the subway, plane, or on board ship. One of the motion sickness remedies, such as Marezine or Dramamine, may be helpful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on motion sickness.

INDOOR HUMIDITY

K.A. writes: Is it necessary to keep a pan of water on the radiators of a steam heated apartment?

REPLY

Only when indoor air is so dry the membranes of the nose, throat, and bronchi lose their resistance to colds. A well-known sign of dryness in the air is the static electricity that develops after walking over the rug, causing a spark when turning on a light.

LUMP ON EYELID

C. D. writes: What could be the cause of a hard little lump on an eyelid? I've had it for two months.

REPLY

The lump may be a tumor or a blocked gland. Conditions of these types cannot be diagnosed by mail. May I suggest that you see the ophthalmologist? There is a good chance that the lesion is innocent and can be corrected in a jiffy.

Reagan, Hitch Fuss Over UC's Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan says University of California President Charles Hitch is attempting to "propagandize" the public into supporting increased taxes for UC.

The governor denied his hold-the-line budget for higher education is a "pattern set for the future" and demanded that university officials make a greater stab at cutting bureaucratic "fat" and spending "excesses."

Reagan insisted at a news conference Tuesday that the nine-campus university system had "not reached the economy pinch where it hurts everybody."

Meantime, Hitch and UC officials testified before legislative budget-writing committees that Reagan's austere budget "will do basic harm to the University of California and to the people of our state."

Hitch criticized Reagan's proposed UC budget appropriation of $337 million "by far the worst budget yet" while high-level state college representatives issued similar appeals to the leislature for more funds.

The UC regents asked for an appropriation of at least $375 million. Hitch has embarked on a statewide "campaign" to recruit public and legislative support for a vastly expanded UC budget.

But Reagan told newsmen Hitch was trying to "propagandize the public into insisting on taxing itself higher to maintain the university. I don't believe that we are going to hurt the university."

The governor, who maintains his budget can be balanced without new taxes, said, "There is only one area or one way in which they can get money and that is from the people in increased taxation."

Reagan said if UC administrators "spent half as much time, effort and energy in trimming excesses in university spending ... and fat in their own bureaucracy instead of campaigning just ceaselessly for more money, I think they might be able to solve some of their problems."

"When the university can continue to worry about whether it is going to admit students while it goes ahead with a several hundred thousand dollar home for a vice president, things of this kind, it would seem that they have not yet reached the economy pinch where it hurts everybody."

The governor apparently referred to purchase of what a UC spokesman described as a $100,000 home in Berkeley for use as an "official residence" by the university senior vice president. The spokesman said the funds were contributed by private donors.

Hitch later said he was "astonished" that Reagan would criticize the purchase after raising no objection in several sessions of the board of regents" which authorized the transaction. He said the donors were commended by the board last month "without dissent" from Reagan, himself a regent.

The UC president voiced concern about the budget's potential impact on fledgling medical schools at Davis, San Diego and Irvine. Reagan noted the voters last June defeated a bond issue to provide about $250,000 for construction of medical school facilities.

Legislation proposing a similar $294 million bond issue has been introduced in the Senate and Reagan said he believed "we still have to go that route and have a bond issue on the ballot and get that money."

Fatality Free Quake Period

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Feb. 9 earthquake which killed 64 persons in Southern California ended the longest period in the past 25 years in which quakes had claimed no Americans.

According to the National Earthquake Information Center, 1970 was the fifth successive year without quake fatalities in this country despite the fact that 238 shocks were recorded in 14 states.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Unusual on television tonight:

KGO (7), 6 p.m. — Elizabeth Taylor, Spencer Tracy and Joan Bennett star in the comedy movie, "Father of the Bride."

KPIX (5), KXTV (10), 7:30 p.m. — "Dr. Seuss' The Cat in the Hat" is a half-hour animated special based on the famed children's book. Allen Sherman is the voice of the cat. Other roles are voiced by Dawes Butler, Pam Ferdin, Tony Frazier and Gloria Camacho.

KPIX (5) KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — "Robert Young and the Family" is a one-hour comedy special starring Robert Young as host and narrator of a satiric yet fond look at American marriage and togetherness in the 1970s. Beau Bridges, Lee Grant, Julie Sommars, Lurene Tuttle, Jack Warden, William Windom and Dick Van Dyke are the featured guests.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — "Timex Presents Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Jack Benney — But Were Afraid to Ask" is a one-hour musical-comedy special separating Benny the man from Benny the myth with humorous sketches presenting answers to various questions about America's ageless entertainer. Lucille Ball, George Burns, Phil Harris, John Wayne and Dr. David Reuben appear among others.

School Tax Hike Seen In Cotati

The Cotati School Board said last night that two teachers will have to be cut from next year's budget and that a June 1 tax rate increase election may be necessary to halt further staff reductions.

The board said the combination of a static enrollment rate and lower income would require the elimination of the two teachers. Schools Supt. Duncan A. Coleman said that a lottery may not be necessary since two teachers were hired at mid year and are definitely lowest in seniority.

The board, urged on by the Citizens Advisory Committee and teachers, asked that preparation be made for the June 1 tax rate increase election. They said a 50 cent increase over the present rate of $2.63 per $100 assessed valuation would probably be asked.

Redwood Cagers Want More Than Consolation Prize

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Redwood High School basketball teams have won four of six games the last two years in the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum, but all the 1971 Giants need is a victory over Castlemont tomorrow night to outshine their ancestors.

Significantly, the games the Larkspur team lost in 1969 and 1970 were opening round affairs. Thus they played out their destiny in the losers' bracket, and came away both times with the consolation trophy. That has become a role all too familiar to Marin County Athletic League fans; in 1968 Tamalpais copped the consolation prize, so MCAL teams have monopolized the consolation honor three years running.

There is a certain mystique about the TOC, and especially about East Bay competition, that in the past has rattled MCAL teams into poor opening game performances. Last year against Bishop O'Dowd, of the Catholic Athletic League, the Giants played way beneath their capabilities and lost, 73-61. The year before it was the same Oakland Athletic League team they face Thursday that dished out the defeat. In that one, the score was tied with three minutes to go before Castlemont pulled it out.

Redwood coach Dick Hart doesn't see the consolation trend as a jinx. On the contrary, he says, "I just feel we can reverse the tables. We've been over there a couple of times now, and we won't be in awe.

No Marin team has ever won the TOC. In fact, only one, Drake, has ever won an opening game in the event. But Redwood, ranked No. 7 among Bay Area teams by a poll of coaches, has to be given a good chance to win the title this year. The Giants have already made their strength known to one prestigious team, TOC defending champion Berkeley, whom they beat decisively in the preseason.

At the very least, Hart's crew is even money to take Castlemont, the Bay Area's No. 6 team. "I think we have a better chance this year against them than we did two years ago," says Hart. Stalistically, Redwood has the edge with a 19-5 overall record compared to Castlemont's 13-7.

And while the Knights are markedly weaker than they were in 1969, the Giants, physically at least, are stronger. They have height they didn't have then in 6-foot-6 stars Steve McGee and Scott Trobbe and 6-foot-5 Dave Tikker. That height also means muscle, an indispensible ingredient in a tournament such as this.

Redwood asserted its strength in the MCAL with a 14-0 season, and has kept the sharp edge during the two-week layoff since the final game by practicing daily and running scrimmages. Last Friday the Giants scrimmaged Livermore High, and yesterday they took on the freshman team from the City College of San Francisco.

Should the Giants get by Castlemont, they will, in Hart's opinion, be in a good position. "I think we're in the better bracket," he says. In the Giants' bracket are, besides Castlemont,Amador, representing the East Bay Athletic League, and Hayward of the Hayward Athletic League. They are ranked 12th and fourth respectively.

The other bracket consists of Berkeley, ranked fifth and representing the Alameda Athletic League, eighth ranked St. Joseph of the Catholic Athletic League, 14th ranked Washington of San Francisco's AAA, and Lincoln of Stockton, from the Valley Oak Athletic League.

Redwood and Castlemont go at 7:30 p.m., in the third of four opening round games. St. Joseph's meets Washington at 4:30, Berkeley plays Lincoln at 6 and Amador and Hayward clash at 9.

JIM GILMARTIN

There's Always A Local Angle

A quarter-century ago, when I was a "cub" on this Monarch of Marin's Dailies, I was constantly reminded by my boss to "always look for the local angle, son."

Well, I learned my lesson. With "local angle" stories like these: "Ted Williams, whose mother once visited a friend in Woodacre, has won the American League batting championship."

Or, "Dwight D. Eisenhower, who last year flew over Marin County en route to Hawaii, today was elected president of the United States."

Well, anyway, you get the idea that we ace reporters dig, dig, dig for the almighty local angle.

And today, my friends, to prove I haven't forgotten that lesson first implanted in my head eons ago, I have come up with another local angle to a major event, to wit: "Joe Frazier, who once trained in Marin County, retained his world heavyweight championship Monday night with a unanimous 15-round decision over Cassius Clay, otherwise known as that Ali Cat."

And it's true. In 1964 Frazier was with the U.S. team that trained for a couple of weeks at Hamilton Air Force Base for the Olympic games in Tokyo. Our Bounty County atmosphere must have agreed with Smokey Joe because he went on to win the heavyweight crown in the Olympics.

AND HERE'S another local angle for those of you who paid upwards of $10 to see the closed circuit telecast of Monday's heavyweight donnybrook: Radio KTIM sports director Bob Dinsmore was bemoaning the fact that a business trip to Seoul, Korea would deprive him of seeing the long-awaited fistic classic on closed-circuit television. "Darn it," he darned, "there's not a chance that they'll televise it to a country like Korea. I hate to miss it, but business calls."

Well, a United Press International story yesterday told us that the bout indeed was piped into Korea and that tickets to the telecast sold for 16 to 32 cents each.

Hmmm! Poor Dinsmore. Next time you see him, show him your $10 ticket stub, ask him how he liked his 16-cent seat, and punch him in the teeth for me, too!

WHAT YOUNG San Rafael businessman hit the jackpot at Golden Gate Fields last week, laying out $100 on a longshot that paid $89.20 and rewarded our mystery man with more than $4,000?

Mr. Lucky, as we shall identify the big bettor, was given a tip on this longshot and after it made him a little wealthier than he already is, he rewarded the tipster with an $850 tip.

Note to the Internal Revenue Service: I do not know the young man's identity. Really.

Marin '9' Rallies For Win

First baseman Scott Cozza singled twice to ignite and then climax a thunderous last inning rally that brought the Marin Catholic High School Wildcats five runs and a 5-4 victory over Terra Nova yesterday in a preseason baseball game in Kentfield.

In other non-league games involving Marin County Athletic League teams, the Redwood Giants opened their season with a 9-3 loss to Berkeley, Terra Linda dropped a 4-1 decision to Montgomery at Santa Rosa, San Marin was defeated by Rancho Cotate, 5-3, at the Cougars' home field in Rohnert Park, and Tamalpais was walloped by Sonoma, 8-2.

The Wildcats, who dropped their first three games of the season last week, looked like goners again as they collected no runs and only four hits through six innings, while staking Terra Nova to four unearned tallies. But they exploded for six hits in the bottom of the seventh, including a three-run double by Rich Lopez, to pull victory from the jaws of defeat.

Cozza started things off with a single, and was imitated by Dominic Pomilia and Mickey Simmons to load the bases.. Lopez then ripped his two-base blow off the centerfield wall, and moments later scored on a sacrifice fly to tie the score.

Again the Wildcats loaded the bases, on a pair of walks and an infield single by Steve Sherry, and Cozza followed with a line single to center that drove in Don Bianchini with the clincher.

Rightfielder Bob Gorman highlighted Redwood's season-opening effort with a solo home run in the fourth inning, but by that time Berkeley had scored seven times to take command. John Bass went all the way on the mound for the Yellowjackets, limiting the Giants to just three hits —Gorman's blast and singles by Steve Laden and Ray Judah.

Terra Linda didn't hit often but hit for power, as Rick Trono and Bill Berry pounded a double and triple, respectively, to account for the only two Trojan base knocks. Mike Sanderson went all the way for Terra Linda, allowing five Viking hits.

San Marin of Novato also hit poorly, managing only three hits against Rancho Cotate, and got two of its three runs by way of Cougar errors. Right fielder Ty Mayfield smashed a double

THE FIGHT

Government Big Winner

NEW YORK (UPI) —Joe Frazier, boxing's man of the hour, contemplated his future today while Muhammad Ali talked of another crack at the heavyweight title and the promoters of Monday night's bout counted the returns from closed circuit television.

Frazier, 27, was under heavy pressure from his manager and handlers to retire but already has promised Ali a return bout "at any time."

Ali, stripped of the aura of invincibility that once surrounded him but with no reason to be ashamed of his 15-round defeat at the hands of Frazier, blamed his loss on his own "clowning" in the middle rounds and predicted, "next time it will be different."

Jerry Perenchio and Chartwell Artists, the promoters of the bout, said returns from the closed circuit telecasts had passed $10-million and that they might top $20-million. Last-minute rushes for tickets were reported in many areas where closed circuit ticket sales had lagged during the fight buildup.

Even Frazier's manager and handlers would be surprised if the heavyweight champion took their advice to retire. He is believed to be receptive to a return bout in early 1972 at Jack Kent Cooke's Forum in Inglewood, Calif. It was Cooke who put up $4.5 million of the $5 million guarantee to be split between Frazier and Ali for Monday night's bout.

The thinking in Frazier's camp is (1) that a second bout with Ali this year would be unrealistic because of tax bites and (2) that Ali is the logical next opponent for Joe because George Foreman, the fast-rising former Olympic champion, is 18 months to two years away from challenging for the title.

One cloud hanging over the thinking is that Ali could be forced to serve a five-year jail sentence if he loses his Supreme Court appeal to overturn his draft evasion conviction.

Ali popped up, alive and well Tuesday afternoon in a midtown hotel, and said he thought he won "at least nine rounds." At the same time, he praised Frazier as a great slugger and offered no alibis for his defeat.

"He's (Frazier) not skillful, but he's good in his style," said Ali. "He keeps comin' at you. Boy! Joe Frazier's tough. He hits harder than anyone I ever fought. That was a helluva punch he knocked me down with. When you see me on my behind, you know that the punch must have had somethin' behind it."

Ali's right jaw was swollen but he actually looked better than Frazier, who had cuts around both eyes, inside his mouth and a swollen left cheekbone.

Reports from closed circuit television exhibitors indicated that the promotion sold well and that there were only six mechanical failures in the 350-odd theaters, auditoriums, etc., in which the telecast was viewed. All previous financial records already have been surpassed with the only question remaining, "how high is up?"

Both Frazier and Ali seemed to agree on one thing —their

Warriors' Playoff Battle Gets Tight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If the San Francisco Warriors make it to the National Basketball Association playoffs, they won't do it the easy way.

The Warriors lost Tuesday night, 134-112, to the hot-shooting Boston Celtics. With six games left to play, the Warriors hold a narrow 2 1-2 game lead over the Seattle Sonics and San Diego Rockets, who both won Tuesday night.

If the Warriors fall from their second place spot in the Pacific Division, the season will be over for them.

San Francisco will be idle today and Thursday. Then Friday night they meet the Sonics at the Cow Palace in what now turns out to be a must game.

John Havlicek and Jo Jo White spelled defeat for the Warriors Tuesday night. Havlicek dropped in 37 and White added 32 as each went 15-for-25 from the floor.

Nate Thurmond played a strong game for San Francisco, hitting 35 points and grabbing 13 rebounds. Jerry Lucas led the Warrior rebounders with 16 and scored 21 points.

Hapless Seals To Face Bruins

OAKLAND (UPI)—The top four scorers in the National Hockey League all play for the Boston Bruins, and they will all be in the Oakland Coliseum arena tonight.

It's not a comfortable position for the California Seals as they face the powerful Boston scorers—Phil Esposito, John Bucyk, Bobby Orr, and Ken Hodge.

If it will be of any help against the Bruins, the Seals will have a new defenseman tonight. Dick Redmond, 21, will join the club from the Minnesota North Stars.

Redmond turned out to be the "unnamed" player in a deal last month when the Seals got centerman Tommy Williams for Ted Hampson.

49ers Name New Coach For Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers have named a former teammate of coach Dick Nolan to the staff as defensive backfield coach.

Don Heinrich, 47, who played with Nolan with the New York Giants, was appointed Tuesday to replace Burnie Miller, who resigned to take a job with the Houston Oilers.

Heinrich, a University of Washington All-American, has been an assistant with the New Orleans Saints for the past two seasons. He began his coaching career in 1960 as a player-coach for Dallas and has been with the Giants, Rams and Steelers before going to the Saints.

Frazier-Ali Fight Films In San Rafael

The film will be shown at 7 and 9:45 p.m. each night, at the theater's regular ticket prices. Joe Frazier retained his title with a 15-round unanimous decision over Muhammad Ali.

PREP SWIMMING

San Marin Keeps Pace With Powerful Trojans

Paced by a pair of sophomores who each scored a double win and then combined to lead a victorious relay, the San Marin High School Mustangs kept pace with the powerful Terra Linda Trojans yesterday by winning their second straight Marin County Athletic League swimming meet, 71-24 over Tamalpais High in Novato.

Terra Linda, which swept past Redwood last Friday in a league-opening meet, easily outmuscled Drake, 84-11 in San Anselmo, and in the other league contest, Redwood got by Novato, 53-42 in Larkspur.

San Marin, which won only a single meet in two years before defeating Drake last Friday, dealt Tam its second defeat in grand style as sophomore Steve Gregorite took both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races, and another soph. Dan O'Connell, won the 200 individual medley and the 400 free. They also contributed to a Mustang victory in the day's final event, the 400 free relay.

The Terra Linda Trojans had things their own way — in fact didn't lose a race, in beating Drake. Coach Bob Pollitt spread his talent around evenly, so that only one swimmer, Bruce Fromberg, emerged a double winner. He took the 50 free and the 100 free. Thom Guthrie and sophomore sensation Rick DeMont, who customarily win two events apiece, each won only one event. DeMont took the 200 I.M., and Guthrie romped in the 200 free.

Redwood got double wins from Paul Cane in the 100 fly and the 200 I.M. and Brian Hennessy in the 50 and 400 free events to offset a pair of victories by Novato's Roger Rechsteiner and the fabulous diving of John Summerfield.

Rechsteiner placed first in the 200 free and the 100 back, and Summerfield ran away from the field as he won the springboard competition with 260.35 points.

A Tennis Tie

NHL MEETINGS

Finley Makes Presence Felt

You can tell by the pained expression on the faces of the sport's traditionalists.

Finley has set the world of major league baseball agog ever since he assumed ownership of the Kansas City A's in 1961. Baseball purists watched with dismay a long parade of Finley's promotional gimmicks: sheep, their wool dyed various colors, grazing in a mini-pasture beyond the right field wall; the infamous Pennant Porch in right field, an idea prompted by Finley's assertion that a short right field had helped the New York Yankees win all those pennants; Charlie O., the mule adopted as team mascot; and the gaudy gold and green team uniforms of the A's, complete with white leather spikes.

It wasn't long after Finley moved the A's to Oakland in 1968 that he decided to dabble in hockey. He purchased the Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League in May of 1969 for $4.5 million and promised the club would soon be an "artistic and commercial success."

To assure that end, Finley was soon up to his old tricks. The club adopted the now-familiar Kelly green and gold uniforms, skates made from albino kangaroos, live seals as mascots and a new name: The California Golden Seals.

"There'll be a lot of entertainment between periods," Finley promised.

But that's part of the trouble that the team finds itself in. Seals' games have been noted more for the entertainment between periods than for action during them. So far, the Seals have been an artistic and commercial bust. They're mired in the West Division cellar, having won only 17 of 67 games.

"Attendance in Oakland is certainly not sufficient to sustain a club there," said Clarence Campbell, NHL president, at Tuesday's meeting of club owners and general managers who gathered prior to the Lester Patrick Memorial dinner Tuesday night.

"Finley has the best of intentions, but he just is not knowledgeable enough in hockey as he is in baseball," Campbell said.

The controversial owner of the Seals is reportedly scouting the San Francisco area with an eye to relocating the Seals. Campbell dismissed the possibility, however, saying that Finley had signed a long-term lease in Oakland.

"Besides, San Francisco is as tight as New York as far as new franchises working their way in," Campbell added.

Other items on the agenda of league business Tuesday included a resolution to vote within 15 days on a new plan to purchase the financially-troubled Pittsburgh Penguins; a suggestion to spread first-round playoff action over a longer period of time and a three-point plan for achieving more effective parity between the newer teams of the West and the established clubs in the Eastern Division.

The plan includes an embargo to be placed on the trading of draft choices in the amateur draft, a reduction in the number of players clubs are allowed to protect in the intra-league draft and making talent available for cash rather than through player trades.

IT WAS A GREAT FIGHT

While millions of people around the world were watching Monday night's heavyweight championship fight between Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier on closed circuit television, 7,000 fans were busy busting up Chicago's Coliseum because technical difficulties forced cancellation of the telecast there. The outraged fans broke windows, threw chairs, and destroyed a $40,000 projector, but nobody was injured.

Amazing Tennis Streak

Redwood High School's tennis team made it 50 wins in a row yesterday by defeating Napa High, 7-2, in a season opening, non-league match at Napa, while the Tamalpais Indians, runnersup to the Giants last year in the Marin County Athletic League, defeated San Rafael, 5½-1½ in a preseason contest at San Rafael.

With Jerry Suyderhoud and the team of Gregg and Gary Gieson contributing perfect victories, the Drake High School Pirates (1-1) shutout Vallejo High, 7-0 yesterday in a preseason tennis match at Vallejo.

Redwood lost the first singles match and the final doubles event but won everything in between to romp past the Chiefs. David Raney had the Larkspur team's finest win, taking his match by a 6-0, 6-0 count. Freshman Dan Tierney, Andy Walker and Steve DeMartini also posted convincing victories.

Tam lost only one match and suffered a tie in another enroute to a decisive win over San Rafael. Mark Altamarino, the Bulldogs' No. 1 man, went three sets to beat Tam's Bob Goldfien, but Marcus Robinson, Craig Douglas and John Vanderwerff all won for the Indians.

Jennings is credited with being most responsible for the expansion of the NHL to seven additional U.S. cities in the last five years.

May s Lanier Pace Giants' Victory

The San Francisco Giants did just that Tuesday to defeat San Diego, 7-3, and manager Charley Fox should be a happy man today when his club meets the California Angels here.

The hitting came from two veterans — superstar Willie Mays and shortstop Hal Lanier. Mays slammed a single, double and a triple while driving in four runs.

The Padres couldn't keep Lanier off the bases as he collected four hits in four trips. In addition, Ken Henderson cleared the rightfield fence for the second homer of the spring season.

On the pitching side, Frank Reberger and Jim Moyer blanked the Padres over the first six innings. After San Diego scored two runs off Don McMahon in the seventh, Fox brought in young Steve Kokor to pitch the eighth, and he allowed one run.

The Giants now have a 3-2 exhibition season record.

Odom Told To Slow Down; To Miss Most Of Season

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—As the Oakland Athletics were moaning over the bad news about pitcher John Odom, they got what appears to be some good news about another starter.

In his first outing of the exhibition season, Catfish Hunter tossed three scoreless innings Tuesday after being troubled by a stiff shoulder.

And for more good news, rookie infielder Dwain Anderson homered as the A's improved their Cactus League mark to 3-2 by blasting the Chicago Cubs, 11-5.

The bad news came Wednesday when the A's learned Odom may not be able to appear in a game until after the July 13th All-Star game break.

Odom had some bone chips removed from his pitching elbow in an operation last December. The surgeon who performed the operation has ordered a slowdown in Odom's recovery program.

"The doctor wants me to lay off batting practice," Odom said, "throw 20 to 30 minutes on the sidelines at 30 to 40 per cent speed until April 15."

Rod Laver Upset; Sharon Walsh Wins

SYDNEY (UPI)—England's Mark Cox, who made a name for himself in 1968 when he became the first amateur to defeat a professional in open tournament play, shocked the tennis world again today when he defeated top-seeded Rod Laver, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 in the third round of the $56,000 Australian Open tennis championships.

The loss deprived Laver of a chance to win another Grand Slam championship. Three times he has won the Australian, French, Wimbledon and Forest Hills titles in a single year.

San Rafael's 19-year-old Sharon Walsh yesterday defeated Australian Pat Edwards 6-3, 6-1 in the second round of women's division play.

Basketball

CHICAGO (UPI) — Contrary to rumor, the Milwaukee Bucks really are human. The Bucks have been playing the superhuman role the last month, setting a national basketball association record with 20 consecutive victories. But the Chicago Bulls brought them back to earth Tuesday night, outscoring Milwaukee 11-4 in an overtime session to record a 110-103 victory.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arnold "Red" Auerbach, the power behind the Boston Celtics dynasty, was named today as the National Basketball Association's Silver Anniversary coach.

Auerbach, now president and general manager of the Celtics, coached Boston to nine consecutive Eastern Division titles between 1957 and 1965 and eight straight league championships between 1959-66.

The 24 living nominees to the NBA's Silver Anniversary team and a special 10-man committee which selected the nominees gave Auerbach 19 votes in the balloting.

Football

CLEVELAND, (UPI) — All 26 National Football League teams have been ordered to show a federal grand jury any records which may indicate the "stacking, boycotting, detainment or blacklisting" of football players, it was learned Tuesday.

The grand jury has been convened since late last year to investigate possible anti-trust violations by the NFL or alleged "blackballing" of players.

Bowling

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Dick Weber, who pocketed $7,000 for winning last weekend's Buckeye open bowling tournament at Toledo, Ohio, has vaulted to fourth in the list of leading money winners on the professional bowlers association tour.

The Buckeye win, Weber's 22nd career victory, boosted his 1971 winnings to $19,880 and all-time earnings to near $360,000.

FIGHT

actual return from the multi-million-dollar fight will be about $370,000. Ali, who said he was speaking for both fighters, said the Federal Government would get $1.5-million off the top, New York State would get $384,000 and that the training expenses for each totaled about $255,000.

He stopped short, however, of asking to borrow a dime from a reporter when he wanted to make a telephone call.

Overprivileged Kids And Boxing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An orthopedic surgeon who runs a gym in East Orange, N.J., says "overprivileged kids" should learn to box.

Dr. Max M. Novich said he teaches boxing to youngsters who have "too much mother and too many sisters."

He insisted that learning to fight does not create bullies.

"You never become a bully once you can take care of yourself," he said.

A former boxer himself, Novich said most youngsters in his social class do not get enough training to handle bullies who are found on every school yard.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boating Facts For Fishermen

Surveys taken at the New York and several other boat shows this year indicate that fishing is still a very powerful reason for buying a boat.

It's not the prime reason any more, but it's big enough for all the boat and motor manufacturers to make many models pitched entirely to the angler.

This year there are at least half a dozen aluminum models light enough (well under 100 pounds) for one man to put up on top of his car, and at least twice as many trailer models, big and roomy, yet still easily wrestled into and out of the water by one man without danger of a heart attack.

All these anglers' boats are sturdy, well-braced craft with a minimum of thwarts, stiffeners and braces inside, painted with a non-slip interior paint so that in the exictement of landing a fish the angler won't slip and fall overboard.

Some of the outboard motors are so light (under 35 pounds) that even your wife can juggle them into and out of the car trunk along with the picnic lunch.

Now what makes a good fishing boat for the relatively quiet lakes and coastal waters we mentioned?

No matter how you explain it, it boils down to one thing . . . stability. Fishing is an exciting business . . . when you land a big fish . . . and in the excitement a tippy, unstable boat may be fatal.

To get stability a boat must have BEAM, that means width. Beam gives an angler a better chance to move around in it without tipping over. It's important because despite all the hysterical publicity given in the past few years to our reckless youth . . . the water cowboys . . . it's still the sane, mature angler, just out for a quiet day's fishing who shows up most frequently in the boating fatality statistics.

That there are many angles to angling, and a lot of fishermen are plagued by doubts, is shown by some of these questions I've been asked:

Q. I have a 16-foot aluminum canoe, very light, also a boat a little heavier. Which do you recommend for fishing?

A. I hate to knock canoes, I was brought up with them. But unless he's been to camp as a boy and learned to handle a canoe, I would say the modern day city slicker does better with a boat, and the beamier the better.

Q. My 9-foot boat doesn't steer well when I'm fishing. It's because I have to sit at the back which puts the bow up in the air. What can I do?

A. You could put a wheel on a pedestal with remote controls up forward. this will let you sit amidship so that the boat is trimmed properly. A gadget is also available which is a sort of extension of the steering handle. This lets you sit amidship and still control the motor.

Q. Why is a small motor better for trolling?

A. See answer above. The outboard is most efficient at a fairly large throttle opening, so if you do a lot of trolling, try to get the smallest motor possible which will still have enough power to push the boat.

Q. I fish in a very weedy lake in New York state. Is there any way to stop the prop from getting tangled up in weeds?

A. Some motors are equipped with "weed-cutter" propellers. I've tried them, they really work. You might trade in your present motor for one of them.

Q. Do weeds hurt an outboard motor when trolling?

A. If they throw the prop out of balance and cause it to vibrate, they are harmful. Reverse and throw them off.

Q. Can I rent a boat and put on my own motor? I hate to carry a boat on top of the car.

A. If they rent boats where you are going to fish, this is a good idea. I've never run into a boat rental livery that wouldn't let you put a motor on one of their boats as long as motors were permitted in the area. There's just one thing. Take along a lifejacket for each person. Once you put a motor on a rowboat, the law says you have to carry lifejackets. Many anglers forget.

Q. Which outboard scares the fish the least?

A. The outboard motor manufacturers have been saying for years that a gently running motor attracts fish. Skeptic that I was, I didn't believe this until one day I was scuba diving and saw it with my own eyes.

Twins Putting Emphasis On 'Old Folks' At Camp

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Rookies are big news in most spring training camps but at Orlando, Fla., where the Minnesota twins are working out, the emphasis is on the "old folks."

No rookie is being counted upon to make a significant contribution to the Twins' bid for a third straight west division title in the American league this year so manager Bill Rigney's primary concern is that his veteran regulars work themselves into shape.

Harmon Killebrew and Jim Perry, each 34, are two of the twins' key "old folks" and both starred Tuesday as the Twins unleashed an 11-hit attack and downed the Kansas City Royals, 6-1.

Killebrew, who hit 41 homers and drove in 113 runs last season, hit a homer and two singles while Perry, whose 24-12 record won him the Al Pitcher of the Year award, allowed one hit in three innings. Killebrew's homer was off Bruce Dal Canton while the only hit off Perry was a leadoff single by George Spriggs. Perry retired the next nine batters in succession.

On other fronts: Bill Singer allowed one hit in three shutout innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the New York Yankees, 4-3, for their third straight exhibition win . . . Joe Hague's three hits and three errors by Boston helped the St. Louis Cardinals down the Red Sox, 9-5. The Red Sox's sloppy play was disappointing to manager Eddie Kasko, who sacrificed power in winter trades in hopes of improving Boston's defense and pitching.

Veteran Chris Short was hammered for four runs in the first inning as the Chicago White Sox beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-2. Bill Robinson's two-run single was the key blow of the White Sox' rally . . . Al Kaline's ninth-inning sacrifice fly drove in the winning run for the Detroit Tigers in an 8-7 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, who lost their fourth straight game. Lee May hit two homers for the National League champions.

Frank Robinson's two-run homer was the big blow for the Baltimore Orioles in a 5-4 triumph over the Montreal Expos. Center-fielder Paul Blair saved the decision for the world champions with a spectacular catch of a drive by Bob Bailey with two out and the bases filled in the ninth inning . . Marty Martinez' bases-filled single drove in the winning run in a five-run ninth as the Houston Astros rallied for a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Tim Foli, making a strong bid to win a regular third base job, drove in two runs with a pair of singles to lead the New York Mets to a 3-0 triumph which snapped the Pittsburgh Pirates four-game winning streak. Roberto Clemente played for the Pirates for the first time this spring and was hitless in two at bats.

Tam Trackmen Lose Opener

Despite a triple win by Gerald Robertson, the Tamalpais High School Indians lost their season opening track meet yesterday, 69-49 to Castlemont High of Oakland yesterday in Mill Valley.

Robertson, a senior, was among four first place winners for the Indians as he took the 120 high hurdles in 15.7 seconds, the 180 low hurdles in 21.3 and the high jump at 6 feet, 2 inches. Mike Arago won the mile in 4:30.6, Terry Rutledge took the shot put at 47-11¾, and Dave Claxton won the pole vault with a jump of 9 feet.

Cactus League Fans Like Mr. Gallagher

PHOENIX — Cactus League baseball fans like Alan Gallagher as much as Candlestick Park fans do. Last spring Cactus League fans got only occasional glimpses of Gallagher who was a rookie then and rarely appeared in starting lineups.

This spring Gallagher is the regular third base starter for the Giants, not a late inning substitute for Jim Ray Hart or Tito Fuentes. Yes, a year ago Fuentes played numerous exhibition games at third. In fact, Fuentes was listed at third for the 1970 season opener in Candlestick until Horace Stoneham got a peek at the lineup.

STONEHAM suggested to Clyde King, then manager of the ball club, that the lineup would look better with Fuentes at second base in place of Ron Hunt, since traded away, and Gallagher at third. A suggestion from a club president is a diplomatic way of issuing an order. King got the idea.

So Gallagher started at third, much to his surprise after playing the understudy role throughout the Cactus League exhibitioners. The fact that he was a native of San Francisco, the first to play for the Giants since they moved west in 1958, was a favorable factor in his behalf. After all, the Giants needed a hometown favorite to help at the box office.

STONEHAM KNEW what he was doing. Stoneham has been in the entertainment business a long time. But he also knew that Gallagher would have to provide his own brand of glove and bat entertainment. Gallagher did.

The young man out of Santa Cruz University by way of Mission High in San Francisco immediately captured the admiration of Candlestick fans by diving to his left and diving to his right for ground balls. At bat, Gallagher was sensational, hitting .500 (15-for-30) in his first seven major league games.

OF COURSE, Gallagher knew that major league pitchers wouldn't permit such shenanigans to continue. It wasn't long before the pitchers had a book on Gallagher and put him in an 0-for-26 slump. But he did all right at bat over the season, winding up with .266.

There were other slumps after the initial 0-for-26 one and during each dip, Gallagher would crack: "My glove will carry me." He is an irrepressible optimist. Even when Hart was recalled from Phoenix and replaced Gallagher at third in midseason, Gallagher still bubbled on the bench. He knew that he would get a late inning call for defensive duty at third.

NOW GALLAGHER has the third base job all to himself. Steve Huntz, the fellow the Giants got during the winter from the Padres for Don Mason, is Gallagher's late inning sub in this spring's exhibitioners. There's no competition from Hart whose winter shoulder operation will keep him out of action until at least May 15.

So Gallagher started the 1971 Cactus League in the same way he started the 1970 National League season. He went 2-for-2 in the Cactus League opener, plus a pair of walks. He raced to first on the walks. Cactus League fans had never seen a batter running out walks — at least, not the opening day crowd in Scottsdale Stadium. They applauded Gallagher's hustling.

"Anybody can walk to first on a base on balls," said Gallagher, a ball player with the instinct of a showman.

On this day in history:

In 1862 the first paper money was issued by the United States Treasury in denominations from $5 to $1,000.

In 1945 B-29 bombers of the U.S. Air Force began incendiary raids on Japan in the waning days of World War II.

Humphrey: Nixon Is Holding Out

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said Monday President Nixon is withholding $1 billion of funds for housing and social programs that were appropriated by Congress in 1968.

Humphrey said at a news conference the action "raises a serious constitutional question" and he said he would take up the issue in Congress later this year.

The 1968 Democratic presidential candidate said partially because these funds are not being spent, "we are not keeping up" with a growing housing shortage in the U.S.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Noise From The Opponents Can Determine Distribution

When your side holds most of the tickets, your opponents will tend to keep quiet unless they have good distribution. You can often predict how your long suits are going to break by the amount of noise the opponents have made. If the enemy has kept quiet, your suits will probably break normally; and if the opponents have made a lot of noise, because of their unusual distribution, your suits will break abnormally. This kind of clue is useful in a hand like today's.

RUFFS SPADE

Declarer ruffs the first spade in the dummy and quite correctly leads a trump. East plays low, and South can show whether he is a bridge player or just another pretty face.

Your favorite partner would begin the trumps by taking the ace and king. West would show out, and your partner would slowly and painfully draw one more round of trumps. Then he would start the clubs, hoping for a miracle.

East would ruff the second club and would lead a diamond. The defenders would take two diamonds and two spades, defeating the contract.

This would give you the chance to pounce on your partner for his careless play. (Why else is the lummox your favorite partner?)

AMPLE EVIDENCE

If declarer thinks about the bidding he will see ample evidence of bad suit breaks. The opponents surely have singletons to bid so much on so few high cards.

After ruffing the first spade in dummy, declarer should lead a trump and try a finesse with the ten. Even if this finesse should lose, declarer can regain the lead and draw the rest of the trumps. Then he can safely run the clubs.

DIAMOND SWITCH

South is safe against a switch to diamonds if West wins a trump trick. He is not safe if East eventually wins a trump trick.

As the cards lie, the trump finesse wins, and South easily draws the rest of the trumps and runs the clubs. The thoughtful declarer wins the first 12 tricks instead of going down one.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player makes a weak jump to three diamonds.

You hold:
♠ - A 9 7 4
♥ - J 8 7 2
♦ - 9 8 5 4
♣ - 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades.

Your hand is not quite worth a jump raise, but you cannot afford to pass. Your partner should understand that your raise is likely to be made under some pressure. If you had a really good hand, you would bid a new suit or jump from three diamonds to four spades.

ILWU Names Hall Successor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union announced Monday that George Martin, 46, a union leader in Hawaii since 1949, had been named an interim vice president.

He succeeds Jack Hall, who died in January

Rocket Research Likely To Grow

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would like your opinion of Rocket Research. I have a sizable loss on 200 shares bought at $25 per share. Should I sell or add to holdings? — J.P.

A. Originally engaged in research and development in the field of rocket technology, Rocket Research has diversified in recent years and moved into the manufacture of products related to this field.

At present, small hydrazine control rockets, cool gas generation equipment and explosives are the major sales areas. Company has compiled an impressive growth record over the past three years. And amidst the overly depressed condition of the aerospace industry in 1970, the firm turned in a record year.

RR completed fiscal 1970 with a 54 per cent gain in revenues to $10.9 million and a 65 per cent rise in net income to $397,000 or 27 cents a share. While the company has made good progress thus far, it is still comparatively small and evolving. However, highly speculative shares may be held for their long-pull investment merit.

Q. I own shares of Roosevelt Raceway and have been told by friends, who also own the stock, that Madison Square Garden plans to take over Roosevelt. What should I do? Am now interested in income. — A.Y.

A. In September, an agreement in principle was announced to combine Roosevelt Raceway with Madison Square Garden and Transnation Development Corp. (when combined, the firms owned about 64 per cent of Roosevelt). The transaction was contingent upon the merged companies acquiring another 16.1 per cent of Roosevelt's shares, which were recently accomplished. MSG is now tending for Roosevelt's remaining stock.

Under the proposed plan, each Roosevelt share would be exchanged for about 12.5 shares of MSG, or at least $48 in market value. Regardless of the outcome of this situation, I advise that you sell your holdings in Roosevelt, since income is your primary objective. At current quotes, Roosevelt returns only 1.4 per cent.

NEW FIAT 124-S SEDAN

Styling and interior changes have been made in Fiat's 124-S four-door sedan. New grille treatment, along with a change in the positioning of lights are among the 1971 model features. The 124-S will be sold in Marin at Brown Motors, Inc., San Rafael.

INCOME TAX FACTS

Various Ways to Deduct Expense Of Traveling As Part Of Work

Traveling expenses in connection with your employment can be deducted from your income in arriving at your adjusted gross income. This means that you can also use the standard deduction or itemize your deductions, whichever is better for you.

Our-of-Town Expenses — The law provides special deductions for the expenses of travel while away from home in connection with your employer's business. Traveling "away from home" means going away from the city or town where you normally work and remaining away at least overnight. "Travel expenses" means the cost of transportation fares, meals and lodging, and includes porters' tips, hire of public stenographers, baggage charges and similar expenses necessary to travel.

Other Transportation Expenses — Even though you do not travel away from home, you may deduct transportation expenses paid in connection with the performance of services for your employer. Transportation expenses include payments for actual travel or, if you use your own car, the business portion of the cost of operation, including fuel, repairs and depreciation.

Expenses of Outside Salesmen — The law allows "Outside Salesmen" to deduct all their ordinary and necessary business expenses. This applies only to full time salesmen who are engaged in soliciting business for their employers away from their employer's place of business. The term does not include one whose principal activities consist of service and delivery such as a milk-driver salesman.

Any reimbursement of these expenses must be included in your income.

An employee who gets a fixed per diem for travel and entertainment and gift expenses isn't required to account in detail for the outlays unless the per diem exceeds the higher of $25 or 125% of the per diem the government allows its employees.

Recently the government per diem was changed raising the per diem allowance to $25 from $16. The old government allowance was $16 per diem and so we were allowed 125% of that amount, which did not equal $25 so we were allowed the $25.

There is a new rule raising the federal figure to $25 from $16, 125% of $25 is $31.25 so our rate has been increased to $31.25 per day.

If your employer reimburses you for the use of your car in any amount up to 15c per mile, you will be considered to have accounted for the expense.

If your automobile expense reimbursement is less than 12c per mile for the first 15,000 miles and 9c per mile thereafter, you will want to include the reimbursement in your income and take a deduction at the new standard rates. The standard rate for use of your automobile has been increased from 10= per mile for the first 15,000 miles and 7c a mile thereafter to 12c a mile for the first 15,000 miles and 9c a mile thereafter.

Be sure to attach a statement to your return explaining in detail the expenses you deduct. IRS provides Form 2106 for this purpose.

Transportation expenses do not include the expense of commuting to and from work. Community is a personal living expense and is not deductible.

San Diego Plant To Close Down

In making the announcement Tuesday, the firm said every effort would be made to help the 165 displaced workers find new jobs.

Outside organizations will take over the packaging.

Drink Maker, Chicken Fryer Strike Merger

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)— Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp. will merge with Heublein Inc. in a transaction involving a stock exchange valued at more than $284 million, officials of the two corporations jointly announced Tuesday.

Kentucky Fried Chicken has more than 3,000 fried chicken outlets in the United States and 22 foreign countries. Heublein is a leading producer and marketer of alocholic spirits, beer, wine and specialty foods.

"If we could just get all of our sales divisions turned on at the same time."

Market Slightly Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market was slightly lower in heavy turnover near noon Wednesday.

Analysts said there were no particular news factors weighing on the list, but "just another snag around the 900 level" on the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

Shortly before noon, declines outscored advances, 610 to 567.

Prices were mixed in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. Instrument Systems, the most active Amex issue, was factionally higher on over 50,000 shares.

Among issues off a point or so were Jersey Standard, Superior Oil, Sears Roebuck, Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and Westinghouse.

Stockholder Meeting At Redwood Bank

Redwood Bank, San Rafael, will hold its annual stockholders meeting on Thursday, March 25 at 5 p.m.

Among matters to be voted on will be the reelection of the present eight directors of the bank, the issuance of a capital note to the Union Bank, Los Angeles for $400,000 to meet anticipated increased demands for bank services and the disposition of stock dividend fractional interests resulting from the 5 per cent stock dividend declared in January.

Security Mortgage Group Opens Loan Office In San Rafael

An office has been opened at 1031 C Street, San Rafael by the Security Mortgage Group, agent for the production of FHA and veterans' loans, first deeds of trusts and tract loans in Northern California for Security Pacific National Bank.

This will be the main office, headed by Richard Bergmann of Fairfax as president. He was formerly with the mortgage division of the Redwood Bank. Lease arrangements were handled by John Hourihan of Grubb and Ellis Co., San Rafael.

Marvelous Marin Realty, formerly at this address, has relocated at 1299 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

THE SAN RAFAEL SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE, which serves all of Marin County, has now completed its move from downtown Fourth Street to its new and larger offices at 549 Northgate Drive, south of the Northgate Mall. This is its first move since opening in San Rafael six years ago.

As the new location may seem to pose a problem for some persons, district manager Edwin H. Leuin recommends phoning first before making a trip there, as new procedures now make it possible to handle almost all social security business this way. This includes filing applications for most benefits. The telephone number has been changed, by the way. Also, Marin residents outside the local calling area may use a toll-free Enterprise number (check with information operator).

If it is necessary to make the trip and public transportation is required, buses of the new Marin County Transit District, which ply from Kentfield to Novato, stop about a block from the office.

WILLIAM R. BACON of Mill Valley, pharmacist-partner in the Lawson-Dyer Pharmacy of that city, has been chosen president-elect of the American Pharmaceutical Association Academy of General Practice of Pharmacy.

TAMALPAIS HARDWARE at 30 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley has increased its retail area by 40 per cent. The additional 600 square feet is being used by the Kerrigans for an expanded jewelry and lapidary supply department which now includes many new items for both amateur and professional craftsmen, as well as a continuing mineral and rock display.

MAURICE M. CHARLAT of San Anselmo has been appointed vice president, marketing development, for Consumer and Service Industries, Greenwich, Conn. He was formerly vice president of marketing for California Canners and Growers and had been with that company and Filice and Perrili Canning Co. since 1957. He and his family plan to move to Connecticut.

Charlat

Griffin

PHILIP G. GRIFFIN of Novato has been named regional structural engineer for Portland Cement Association. He has been on the association staff in San Francisco since 1967. He will continue to be headquartered there. A registered structural engineer, he previously operated his own engineering firm in Pomona for eight years before joining the association.

R. GRAYLING SMITH of Novato has joined Viscom Associates, Inc., San Rafael as staff photographer. He is also the official photographer for the Marin County Republican Central Committee. He was formerly with Greenwich Graphics in San Francisco.

MISS GEORGIA GEHRKE of San Rafael has been promoted to assistant cashier in the accounts receivable department in San Francisco for United California Bank. She has been with the bank since 1965.

Northrop, Varadyne To Produce AIRS

NORTHBRIDGE, Calif. (BW) — Northrop Corp. and Varadyne Systems Division of Varadyne Inc. have entered into a 10-year agreement for production and marketing of the Airborne Infrared Seeker (AIRS) system.

Developed by Varadyne, the system is capable of passively detecting jet aircraft at ranges of 20 miles at any altitude. It was designed primarily for airborne use in defending against attacking aircraft. In operation, AIRS supplies its information to the aircraft's missile defense system.

$50,000 SAUSALITO FIRE INJURES TWO

Sausalito Fireman Steve Osborn inspects charred kitchen debris on the deck of the Thomas T. Laufer residence, 624 Spencer Avenue. The top three stories of the four-story home and designer's shop were gutted by fast-spreading flames at 6:21 a.m. today. Police helped Laufer, 64, and his wife Eva, 58 escape the blaze; they were treated at Marin General Hospital for minor injuries. Firemen said the blaze's cause was unknown. Damage was estimated at more than $50,000, including a new auto; only Laufer's shop and drafting equipment in the lowest floor of the hillside home escaped major damage. Factory Plan Test Seen In Marin City

Night Hours Set At Civic Center

Marin's Civic Center Administration Building, sealed off at night after the bombings of a courtroom Oct. 8, will re-open for evening use on March 22.

County Administrator Alan Bruce announced yesterday that the county library on the fourth floor will remain open until 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Night meetings will be allowed in the rest of the Administration Building until 10 p.m. on weekdays, but everyone must be out of the building by 10:30 p.m.

On weekends, the building will continue to be closed. Evening use will be allowed only in the administration unit, not in the Hall of Justice wing.

Four new sheriff's deputies will patrol the building for the evening hours, two at the entrance and two to watch the interior, balconies and the parking area.

On Oct. 13, the Marin County Board of Supervisors ordered a new 17-man security force, body searches at entrances and metal detector devices. The metal detectors and random search at the entrances will continue.

Fiber Housing Plan Runs Into Opposition

By PAT ANGLE

Despite objections from a Marin City group seeking exclusive development rights in the community, a corporation from Hawaii won tentative permission last night to test a plan to build a factory in the Southern Marin Community.

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency gave preliminary approval to a proposal by Housing Corp. of Hawaii to construct a model glass fiber house in Marin City, with an eye on building a plant in the community to manufacture the homes.

The Hawaiian firm was one of three companies newly presenting community development plans to the agency board last night.

While making no final decision on the Hawaiian firm's proposal, the agency board directed its attorney to draw up agreements with the company for consideration at a special meeting March 23.

G. David Baldwin, president of the firm, said the company would build the prefabricated house, with the idea of testing it for practicality, safety and quality. If the building proves successful and marketable, Baldwin said, his company will agree to build a factory to manufacture it in Marin City. He said such an operation would employ up to 120 persons and promised community residents would receive top priority for employment.

In addition, Baldwin said, the firm would consider turning the factory over to local ownership by a Marin City group, but would continue to receive royalties from the operation.

He expressed confidence the glass fiber housing will prove practical, because it is stronger than dual wall frame buildings and much less expensive. According to the president, a four-bedroom, two-bath house made from the material would cost $14,000, or a total of $19,000 including lot expenses.

If the project proves a failure, he said, the company would remove the structure and foundation at no cost to the redevelopment agency.

The presentations by Baldwin and representatives of the two other development groups drew angry comments from representatives of the Marin Urban Development Association, which consists of seven Marin City residents. The group has received tentative approval as Marin City's official developer from the redevelopment agency, although no contract has been signed pending approval from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Housing consultant Ulysses Montgomery, who is working with the local group, said Baldwin's proposal would have to be evaluated "before there can be any discussion at all" and suggested Marin City consider many proposals before making a choice.

C. J. Williams, president of the local association, said the redevelopment agency had given the group nine months to prepare a development plan and should not allow another contractor to move into Marin City now.

"You are asking for legal action against you," Thelma McKinney, association secretary, warned the board.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the redevelopment agency, said the agency has only enough money left to operate for another 18 months and served notice he would continue to seek out individuals and firms interested in developing the community.

The redevelopment board seemed to agree. "I haven't heard too many people eager to start a business in Marin City," said board member Llewellyn A. White. "If the housing is a success, we might have something good in this community."

"We have an opportunity here and we should seize it," said board member Collie Gaines.

Another proposal came from Tim O'Donoghue of the O'Donoghue Investment Co. of Marin. He offered to buy all or part of the remaining land in Marin City to build single-family homes in the $25,000 to $35,000 price range.

"I don't have the perfect solution to Marin City's problems," O'Donoghue admitted, "but it's about time this community got an economic base. It needs better schools and a shopping center. To get these things, you have to bring in more people."

O'Donoghue said he is willing to buy the land immediately, then let the local group have an option on the property and a chance to develop it. "If MUDA's plan doesn't work out, then we'll build," he said. The developer also promised he would help pay costs of an access road from Marin City to Mill Valley if he is allowed to build homes in Marin City.

John Moore of Kaiser Aetna said his company wants to build approximately 100 units of apartment housing in the hill area at the community's north end and indicated the firm is willing to pay $1,200 per unit for the land it wants.

Montgomery questioned whether the redevelopment agency, which has been negotiating with the local associa-

San Anselmo Chops 'First Call' Service

By LARRY MOWELL

Unwilling to provide police protection to persons who don't pay for it, the San Anselmo City Council decided last night to end all "first call" service to Sleepy Hollow. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 10.)

Mayor James F. Reed noted that San Anselmo police answered 25 calls in unincorporated areas during 1970. Of those, only two were to assist sheriff's deputies. The remainder, he said, were emergency calls in which sheriff's units were not available.

Under last night's rulings, San Anselmo police will continue to assist deputies who call for help, but will not answer calls because deputies are not available.

(An action similar to San Anselmo's was proposed before the city council in neighboring Fairfax Monday night, but no action was taken. A motion directing both Fairfax police and firemen not to respond first to calls in the neighboring unincorporated area of Oak Manor was withdrawn before it was voted on.

(Both Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr and Fire Chief Charles F. Thornton expressed concern about neglecting residents' calls for assistance.

(On April 20, Sleepy Hollow residents will vote on creation of a community services district which, among other things, could provide police protection.)

"We do not have surplus police vehicles or men to respond," Reed said.

Councilman Warren R. Perry said he opposed "first call" service "in view of the position the county has taken." The Marin Board of Supervisors Feb. 23

Ex-General Denies PX Corruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole denounced today as "unproved, untrue and slanderous" sworn charges that he allowed corruption at servicemen's clubs and post exchanges during his Army career.

Cole, who was reduced to colonel prior to his retirement last summer, protested that accusations against him at Senate Investigations Subcommittee hearings destroyed his career. He threatened to go to the Supreme Court if necessary to clear his name.

During the subcommittee's hearings on alleged bribery and corruption in PX and club systems around the world, Cole's activities while in charge of such operations in Vietnam, and later in Europe, have come under close scrutiny.

Taking the witness stand in his defense, Cole declared: "For the last 18 months, I have been the target of unprecedented, unproved, untrue and slanderous accusations which have destroyed my career and my very existence.

"I welcome this opportunity to tell the whole story, the whole truth before what I hope and expect to be a fair forum, and to dispose once and for all of these sensationalist accusations made against me by a few discontented subordinates and other persons of questionable motives who intend to destroy not only me, but through me, the world image of the American officer and fighting men."

Most of the recent charges made against Cole involved his actions as deputy chief of staff for personnel and administration at the U.S. Army's Vietnam headquarters at Long Binh from mid-1966 through 1967.

'Nuclear Balance Shifts To Soviets'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Adm. Thomas H. Moorer said today the nuclear balance of power "has shifted drastically" in favor of the Soviet Union.

Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the United States still maintains a slim strategic lead and must maintain it "at all costs" if we are to avoid becoming a second-rate power within five to six years.

The nation's highest ranking military man said that for this country to allow itself to slip behind Russia in overall nuclear capability would cost "a very high price in the effectiveness of our diplomacy."

Moorer testified before a closed hearing of the House Armed Services Committee. A heavily censored 31-page transcript of his prepared testimony was made public.

Moorer said there are three interrelated measures of strategic balance—numbers of missiles and bombers, total megatonage (power) of weapons, and total number of bombs or missile warheads.

Russia already leads in the number of land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, with almost 1,500 to America's 1,054, and may be installing "an altogether new missile system," he said. Although the Russians trail in the number of bombers and submarine missiles, he said, they will "most likely" have more nuclear

Drugs For Learning Supported

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government made public today a report by a panel of private specialists saying there was strong evidence that school children with certain "behavior disorders" improved in learning aptitude when given pep pills.

The panel—including pediatricians, psychiatrists, education specialists, mental health experts and others—also said they found no evidence to show that amphetamine drugs, when properly administered to pupils, might lead to drug addicition in later life.

The Independent-Journal is currently presenting a series of six articles by Arnold Arnold on the editorial page on drugs in the classroom. Today's story can be found on page 20.)

"When the medication is effective, the child can modulate and organize his activities in the direction he wishes," the report said.

"The stimulant does not slow down or suppress the hyperkinetic (overactive) child in the exercise of his initiative. Nor does it pep him up, make him feel high, over stimulated or out of touch with his environment."

The group said its studies indicated that children given amphetamines showed improvement, from the standpoint of alertness, learning and social behavior.

The report was released by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, based on findings of a 15-member panel headed by Dr. Daniel X. Freedman, professor and chairman of the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Chicago.

"Every member of the panel was carefully selected to represent a wide range of scientific interests," said Dr. Edward F. Zigler, director of HEW's Office of Child Development.

"The statement is the product of some of the finest expertise in the country, and I am confident that it will clarify issues which have been of concern to the public."

Hyperkinetic disturbance is said to affect about three in every 100 grade school children and is characterized among other things by poor attention in class, disordered behavior and intense physical and mental overactivity.

The panel said very little is known about the causes of such disorders.

Nixon Sees Possibility Of No More U.S. Wars

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon believes the Vietnam War may be the last ever faced by the country and said the war will not be a political issue in the 1972 presidential campaign, The New York Times said today.

"This war is ending," Nixon said in the interview. "In fact, I seriously doubt if we will ever have another war. This is probably the very last one."

Nixon was interviewed in his office by C. L. Sulzberger, the foreign affairs columnist of The Times. The interview was published in today's edition.

Nixon would not say precisely how many American troops were expected to be in South Vietnam by mid-1972 but he talked about the elections that year.

"Those who think Vietnam is going to be a good political issue next year are making a grave miscalculation," he said. "Now, I am not applying our policy there for political reasons but for reasons of national security.

"Nevertheless, those who are counting on Vietnam as a political issue in this country next year are going to have the rug jerked from under them."

Nixon said he was concerned that he should not be caught in a "vicious cross fire" between what he called the "superdoves" and the "superhawks" who would pull out immediately or escalate dangerously.

"I'd like to see us not end the Vietnamese War foolishly and find ourselves all alone in the world," he said. "I could have chosen that course my very first day in office.

"But I want the American people to be able to be led by me, or by my successor, along a course that allows us to do what is needed to help keep the peace in this world."

The President said he wanted an orderly withdrawal from Southeast Asia, but did want

Medina Denies Giving Calley 'Waste' Orders

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)— Capt. Ernest L. Medina testified today that he specifically directed his troops not to kill women and children at My Lai and denied that he ordered Lt. William L. Calley Jr. to kill or "waste" Vietnamese civilians.

The 34-year-old Army veteran, his Silver and Bronze star medal ribbons showing on his tunic, testified calmly in direct refutation to many of the points Calley had made as his own star defense witness in the court-martial that could result in the death penalty with a guilty verdict.

Calley, 27, commanded a platoon in the infantry company that Medina led on a search-and-destroy sweep of the Vietnamese hamlet on the morning of March 16, 1968. Calley is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 men, women and children that day.

Calley testified earlier that in a briefing on the evening before the sweep Medina told his assembled infantrymen to kill everything alive in the village and in answer to a question from the ranks had said the order included women and children.

Holding a tiny microphone sometimes in one hand and sometimes between his clasped, twined fingers, the swarthy captain was led through a long narrative of events before My Lai and the assault proper.

The few questions asked were by Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the judge, on behalf of the six-officer jury which had called Medina as the first of three witnesses of its own who will end the military trial.

Medina told Kennedy he was asked questions at the briefing and one was: "Do we kill women and children?"

"My reply to that question was—no," Medina said. "I told them not to kill women and children, to use common sense. If they have a weapon and they are trying to engage you, you can shoot back, but you must use common sense."

Just before the luncheon recess, Kennedy asked: "At any time on March 15 or March 16, 1968, did you order or direct Lt. Calley to kill or waste any Vietnamese people?"

"No, sir," Medina replied.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Paris Battle

PARIS (UPI) —A four-hour battle between police and thousands of young political extremists Tuesday night left 73 policemen injured and four demonstrators in jail, police said.

The rioters fought with Molotov cocktails, paving stones and lance-like poles. The police broke through street barricades with bulldozers and put down the fighting with teargas and water cannon. Several cars were burned and some store windows were smashed in the area, they said.

The violence broke out near the Porte de Versailles in southwestern Paris, where some 700 militants of the "New Order," an extreme right group, tried to hold a meeting.

The rioting climaxed lively campaigning for next Sunday's nationwide city council elections. The balloting will be the first showdown between the Gaullists of President Georges Pompidou and his opponents since Pompidou's election in 1969.

Ireland Shooting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A shooting incident north of Belfast wounded a policeman today and explosions damaged a Belfast bank and cigarette factory but caused no injuries, a police spokesman said.

The spokesman said the policeman was shot in the shoulder at Ballyclare but was not seriously hurt.

Tornado Death

KENNER, La. (UPI)—A tornado slashed through this New Orleans suburb before dawn today, killing one person, injuring five others and heavily damaging between 15 and 20 houses.

The Jefferson County sheriff's office said the Twister hit a mostly residential section. A deputy sheriff said the tornado ripped into the Mardi Gras Motel, but apparently caused no injuries there.

Israel Split

By U.P. International

The Israeli parliament defeated a motion to pull out of the Middle East peace negotiations today but there was evidence of a split developing over government policies.

The motion by the right-wing Gahal Party to pull out of the talks was defeated by a 40-25 vote with five abstentions. The party had also demanded an immediate debate on the political and military situation now that Egypt has refused to extend the cease-fire with Israel.

Gahal's motion and the support it won indicated the split in both the Israeli leadership and public over the continuation of the indirect negotiations under U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring in New York.

Indira Wins

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi won reelection to Parliament today in the violence-marked Indian general elections that have taken 94 lives. And her ruling Congress Party was piling up margins that promised her control of Parliament.

Election officials said Mrs. Gandhi had won with a margin of more than 100,000 votes in her home constituency of Rae Barelli in Uttar Pradesh state.

Order In Sweden

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Premier Olof Palme's cabinet today approved an emergency law ordering an end to six weeks of crippling strikes and lockouts involving 47,000 government employes.

The cabinet, which met with King Gustaf VI Adolf in council, sent the unprecedented piece of legislation to the Riksdag (parliament) ,which met shortly after the cabinet meeting.

Government sources said the Riksdag was expected to pass the bill late today or early Thursday. It then will be signed into law by the king.

The move, announced Tuesday night, would prohibit the civil servants from going out on strike again for at least six weeks.

Government sources said the nation should return to normal again within a few days.

Indicted For Threat

SEATTLE (UPI)—A federal grand jury indicted a young California draftee Tuesday on charges of kidnaping, air piracy and threatening a flight crew in the hijacking of a jetliner carrying him to basic training.

Nixon Appointee Defeats Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) —William J. Casey has convinced the Senate Banking Committee of his fitness to head the Securities and Exchange Commission despite an accusation that he engineered shady business deals and tried to mislead the Senate about his 1961 conviction on a plagiarism charge.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., in his effort to defeat Casey's nomination Tuesday even produced the judge who sat at Casey's trial and a court stenographer's record which indicated Casey had slapped at a "needling" lawyer.

Proxmire contended that Casey's business career showed he lacked the ethics required of the chairman of the agency which polices Wall Street and protects 31 million investors.

But the committee voted 9 to 3 to reaffirm its earlier approval of Casey. The nominee argued that only a faulty memory had led him to give incorrect testimony about the plagiarism case four weeks ago and to neglect to mention two other civil suits in which he was a defendant. Both suits charged him with violating the law the SEC is responsible for enforcing. Casey, 58, a nationally known tax lawyer. A millionaire and a substantial contributor to President Nixon's 1968 campaign, admitted his testimony before the committee had been wrong.

His admission came after Judge J. Braxton Craven Jr. of the 4th Circuit Court of Appeals contradicted Casey's earlier testimony about the plagiarism suit. In that suit lawyer Harry Fields collected $20,500 in damages after convincing a jury that Casey's tax magazine had pirated from a manuscript he had submitted to Casey.

The stenographic record of the trial had been sealed. Casey testified Feb. 10 that the sealing was done at the judge's own suggestion and said the judge had told lawyers for both sides that the jury's guilty verdict "was not supported by the evidence."

Not so, testified, lanky, white-haired Judge Craven. "I thought the verdict was amply supported by the evidence," he said and "I had no intention in the world to seal that record." He said Casey wanted it hidden from public view to avoid "devastating" publicity.

Gas masks were developed in World War I.

Operation Set To Save A Giant

HOUSTON (UPI) —At age 6, Delores Pullard Johnson was 5 feet 2. By the time she reached the age of 14, she had grown to a full 7 feet.

It was also at the age of 14 she sustained a back injury while playing basketball that caused her to go to a New Orleans hospital. Doctors examined her and found a brain tumor in her pituitary gland that was causing an abnormally high secretion of the growth hormone.

Mrs. Johnson became concerned about the tumor a few months ago when she began having severe headaches and blurred vision because the tumor was pressing on the optic nerve.

Mrs. Johnson, now 24, 431 pounds and 8 feet 2, was to be operated on today to remove that tumor. Doctors hope the operation will prevent her from going blind.

Doctors said they will have to use three operating tables for the woman from DeQuincy, La. Two tables will be placed side by side and the third will be put at one end to accommodate her legs.

Mrs. Johnson, married to a 6-1 farmer, works in a carnival sideshow five months a year.

Doctors Hear How Amputees Recover

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A severed hand or arm sewn back on the body is "clearly superior" to any artificial limb, two surgeons reported Tuesday.

They cited the cases of a carpenter who is working at his trade after having his hand sewn back on four years ago and a youth who holds two jobs and drives a souped-up car with an arm grafted back on in 1962.

Drs. William H. Harris and Ronald Mault of Boston told the annual meeting of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons the cases showed "well-executed human replantation is clearly superior in functional results to any prosthetic device."

They said the 27-year-old carpenter "pinches well, grasps, holds a pen or a nail, picks up a glass or book and can carry a heavy load." They said he is able to perform well in his trade despite some fusion of joints in the fingers.

The doctors said the man accidentally sawed off the hand, then "shut off the saw and walked around it to pick up his hand out of scrap box." The carpenter then put his hand in his apron pocket and went to the foreman, "who promptly fainted."

After the victim revived the foreman and got taken to a hospital, the hand was sewn on in an eight-hour operation.

The doctors also cited Everett Knowles Jr., now 20, whose arm was amputated in a 1962 train accident and grafted back on. They said the young man now holds two jobs and drives a souped-up auto.

Another speaker told convention delegations "overprivileged kids" should learn to box.

Dr. Max M. Novich, a former boxer, said he teaches pugilism to youngsters who have "too much mother and too many sisters" and need the training to handle the bullies found on every schoolyard.

His boxing school in East Orange, N.J., is free for the affluent youngsters who attend it, and he's thinking of adding judo and other self-defense skills, the surgeon said.

Novich insisted learning to fight doesn't create bullies.

$1.1 Billion Rural Sharing Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon proposed today a $1.1 billion revenue-sharing program for rural America, saying it would provide orderly development of rural areas and help stem migration to the cities.

The program, outlined in a message to Congress, would combine 11 present agriculture grant and development programs worth $921 million with $179 million in additional funds.

The money would go in block grants to all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam for distribution to rural counties with a population density of less than 100 persons per square mile. There are more than 2,800 such counties.

The $1.1 billion would be parceled out according to a formula based on a stated rural population, rural income compared to the per capita national average income, and the relative migration of state's rural population to urban areas.

Nixon also pointed out that rural areas would receive a share of $5 billion in general revenue sharing funds he already has proposed. These funds would be distributed to states on a no-strings-attached basis.

The program outlined today was one of six special revenue sharing programs Nixon outlined in his State of the Union message in January. The funds must be earmarked to general purposes such as rural development, but the states make the decisions on specific programs.

The existing farm programs the President proposed to consolidate are Title 5 regional commissions, $38 million; the Appalachian Regional Commission, $278 million; the Economic Development Administration, $227 million; Resource Conservation and Development Program, $4 million; Cooperative Agricultural Extention Service, $149 million; Grants for Rural Water and Waste Disposal Facilities, $42 million; and Rural Environmental Improvement Programs of $183 million.

Hanoi Is Shifting Supply Line

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese commanders were reported shifting parts of the Ho Chi Minh supply trail deeper into Laos today and stepping up truck traffic in the face of advances by South Vietnamese troops. U.S. jets knocked out five Soviet-made tanks in the area.

As one South Vietnamese force continued to move against the trail in Laos, another Saigon army began a new phase of operations against Communist sanctuaries in Cambodia and U.S. headquarters disclosed that B52 Stratofortresses were supporting it with saturation bomb raids.

A communique from the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh said Cambodia's small army has suffered more than 13,000 men killed and wounded in almost a year of war. The figures—4,496 killed and 8,624 wounded dating back to March 18, 1970—did not include more than 6,000 soldiers listed as missing in action.

U.S. military sources said Communist truck traffic over the Ho Chi Minh Trail—actually a vast network of roads and jungle passages—was down only 20 per cent from a year ago despite the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese drive into Laos which has seized the key hub of Sepone, 27 miles from the Vietnamese border.

Saigon headquarters reported today that U.S. jet fighter-bombers knocked out the five Soviet-built T34 tanks in raids southeast of Sepone, a town which fell to the South Vietnamese last Saturday.

Board Gets Budget Of $253,850

A $253,850 preliminary operating budget for 1971-72 has been presented to the Bolinas-Stinson School District board for study.

Supt. Lester M. Horning, who presented the spending program Monday, said it will not increase the district's current total tax rate of $2.25 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget, down slightly from this year's $266,990 budget, includes expenditures of $126,870 for instruction, $14,850 for administration, $12,500 for transportation, $15,200 for plant operation, $9,250 for plant maintenance, $26,394 in fixed charges, $9,636 for capital outlay and $38,000 in undistributed reserves.

All the proposed expenses are subject to change as trustees review the spending program, according to the superintendent.

The Bolinas-Stinson School District board also:

EMPLOYMENT — Hired Christine Meltzer as a substitute noontime aide at $2.50 per hour.

SEWER SYSTEM — Asked the superintendent for more information on the cost and implications of including Bolinas School in a sewage disposal network being planned by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

Toyon Map Denied By Planners

San Rafael Planning Commission members last night denied approval of the tentative map for Toyon Terrace, a five-lot subdivision proposed off Makin Grade.

Neighbors voiced strong opposition to the proposal on grounds it would increase traffic and pose a drainage threat to residents below the development, according to Herbert G. Hotchner, city planning director.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

REZONING — Recommended rezoning from R-3-S high-rise apartments district to Planned Community District for the proposed apartment development at 100 Channing Way off Professional Center Parkway. Little discussion resulted from the developers' announced plans to decrease the number of proposed apartments by 80. The commission granted a use permit to Capital Programs, Inc. to build 245 clustered units on the site.

FLEA MARKET — Granted owner Abe Blumenfeld a three-months' permit to operate a flea market from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays at the Marin Motor Movie, 21 Bellam Boulevard. If no traffic or other problems develop, Hotchner may extend the permit another three months, the commission agreed.

ORCHID DRIVE — Despite neighborhood opposition, approved preliminary proposals of the Pell Development Co. for a 70-unit project on a 15.3-acre site off Orchid Drive. The commission requested further details before holding a formal hearing on the plans and necessary rezoning.

TIDELANDS — Postponed discussion of a proposed tidelands and waterways ordinance to the commission meeting March 23.

SIGN ORDINANCE — Recommended that the city council approve minor revisions of the city's sign ordinance.

tion for the past year, was acting in good faith by bringing in other developers at this time, just as contracts were about to be signed.

"Has MUDA come up with plans like these?" asked Mary Brooks, head of the Marin City Tenants Union. "I haven't seen them if they have. If these men want to come in and build, the more the merrier. We have to do something to get off the ground.

Montgomery said the local group is seeking federal funds to build federally subsidized rental units in Marin City and also wants to construct subsidized housing for sale and market-rate housing.

Shepherd replied he did not feel Marin City needs any more subsidized housing that the community "already has too much."

Daniel Winters, executive director of the Marin City Community Services District, said the community has no idea what the local association is planning. Williams said the development association will be happy to reveal its plans once the contracts naming the group developer are signed.

this to turn to new isolationism or a lessening of the national defense.

"We must not forget our alliances or our interests," he said. "Other nations must know that the United States has both the capability and the will to defend these allies and protect these interests....

"If I lived in another country that wanted to be sure and retain its right to self-determination, I would say: 'Thank God that the United States exists at this moment of history.'

"We are not bent on conquest or on threatening others. But we do have a nuclear umbrella that can protect others, above all the states to which we are allied or in which we have great national interest."

Nixon stressed the need for continued negotiations with the Communist world.

"For obviously pragmatic reasons, therefore, we can see peace slowly shaping up," he said. "First, as we are doing, we must end the war in Vietnam. We must continue our Soviet negotiations and open the door of cooperation to China.

"Was it real bad?" asked Kennedy.

"Yes," Medina replied. "Even though we were warned how bad it was, we had not moved from landing zone Dotti (the company location) more than 1,500 meters when the first individual detonated a booby trap."

Medina, commander of Charlie Company, the American infantry unit that swept through the Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai on March 16, 1968, was called by the Calley jury to tell his story of the alleged massacre of civilians there.

Calley sat facing his calm, self-possessed former commander as Medina testified.

Under the questioning of the judge, in behalf of the jury, Medina, who also faces court-martial in the My Lai incident, was allowed to go into a long recital of the formation of the company at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii.

Prior to bringing the six-officer jury in, Kennedy had said he would permit Medina's counsel, F. Lee Bailey, to inerrupt with at least one objection if he felt Medina was getting into an area where he might incriminate himself.

delivery vehicles than the United States by the mid-1970s.

Already the Soviets "are far superior to us in total strategic offensive megatons," Moorer said. He said a reduction in the number of U.S. heavy bombers and a transition to smaller yield bombs had widened the gap in the past four years, but gave no numbers or totals.

"Only in numbers of strategic offensive warheads is the United States likely to maintain its lead over the Soviet Union during the 1970s," he said.

Again, Moorer gave no figures. However, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, testifying before the same committee Tuesday, revealed for the first time that America's total number of warheads is increasing faster than Russia's. This is because the United States is switching to multi-warhead ICBMs and submarine missiles.

"I believe it is fair to say that the overall strategic balance, during the last five or six years, has shifted drastically in favor of the Soviet Union," Moorer said.

"Our comfortable lead has now all but vanished, and within the next five or six years we could actually find ourselves in a position of overall strategic inferiority. Soviet achievement of a clear-cut strategic superiority must be avoided at all costs.

"We will pay a very high price in the effectiveness of our diplomacy if we permit the Soviet Union to achieve a clearly evident overall strategic superiority, even were that superiority to have no practical effect on the outcome of an all-out nuclear exchange."

Moorer said the recent slowdown in construction of Russian missile sites, has made it hard to predict Soviet missile force plans past the middle of this year.

"This may simply represent a deliberate pause pending the availability for deployment of improved systems, or an altogether new missile," Moorer said. "Our most recent intelligence reveals the initiation by the Soviets of a new ICBM silo construction program.

"The new silos are unlike any others which the Soviets have previously constructed, and we do not know what these silos are intended for or how many will be built."

turned down a proposed police services district championed by the cities that would have required unincorporated areas exclusively to pay the cost of beefed-up police protection.

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart, the only dissenter, charged the decision was being made "not out of reason, but out of spite." He added, "All we are doing is creating ill will."

However, Perry and Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson said the unincorporated areas should be shown they will have to pay their own ways.

"As long as these people can sit outside the city limits and have their cake and eat it too, that is great for them," Anderson said.

A Sleepy Hollow resident questioned the motive of the council, but Reed said, "It is simply a matter of having to provide service to the area which pays for it."

He said serving unincorporated areas jeopardizes protection in the city.

Charge Filed After Collision

A Novato man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of felony drunken driving following a head-on collision on the Ignacio Boulevard Bridge over High 101.

The California Highway Patrol said William Talmage Johnson, 56, of 64 Nova Lane, was eastbound on Ignacio Boulevard in the westbound lanes at 10:30 p.m. Monday when his car collided with one driven by Kristine K. Gubser, 23, of 1822 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Johnson was treated at Marin General Hospital for a nose injury, booked into jail and released on $1,200 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

OBITUARIES

Richard Fletcher Dies At 89

Funeral for Richard F. Fletcher of Fairfax will be held under auspices of the Alta Vista-Mount Vernon Lodge No. 1, Free and Accepted Masons, at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Fletcher died Monday in a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 89. He was retired from Bethlehem Shipyards, where he worked for 50 years as a foreman. He had lived in Marin County eight years, making his home at 1355 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. He was a native of Contra Costa County.

He was the father of Muriel Banfield of Fairfax and Kenneth H. Fletcher of San Francisco. He also is survived by stepchildren Neulah Pitts of Belmont and Russell M. Johnston of Hillsborough and eight brothers and sisters; Gerogia Houseman of Vallejo; Robert E. Fletcher of Brentwood, Contra Costa County; Mame Wilkening of Sacramento; Dorothy Sumner of Los Gatos; Maude Burton of Vallejo; Edna Stith of Winters; Anna Hudson of Stockton, and John Fletcher of San Leandro. He also is survived by seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

He was a life member and past master of the Alta Vista-Mount Vernon Masonic Lodge, as well as a member of San Francisco Chapter No. 1, Royal Arch Masons; San Francisco Council No. 2, Royals and Select Masters, and San Francisco Pyramid No. 1, Sciots.

Burial will be private.

GEORGE BYRNE

George F. Byrne, 71, long time accountant, died yesterday at his home at 31 Hacienda Court, San Rafael, after a long illness.

He was born in San Francisco and worked there as an accountant until moving to 30 Karl Avenue, San Anselmo in 1932. For 28 years he operated his own accounting service in Marin County. He retired in 1968 and moved to San Rafael six months ago.

He was a member of the Men's Club of St. Anselm's Church; a member and charter president of the Serra Club of Marin; a member of the Young Men's Institute, Phil Sheridan Council No. 72 of San Francisco; a member and past president of the Northern California Chapter of Public Accountants; a member of the National Society of Public Accountants; San Rafael Aerie No. 256, Fraternal Order of Eagles and Marin Rod and Gun Club.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth A. Byrne of the home; three daughters, Virginia C. Byrne of Fall River Mills, Shasta County, Claire R. Byrne of Kaiserslautern, Germany, and Marie C. Van Soest of San Rafael; a sister, Loretta Lymburner of San Rafael; two brothers, Charles L. Byrne and Leo J. Byrne of San Francisco, and one grandchild.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10:30 a.m. Friday at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Harry M. William S. Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael.

MARY PERIERA

Mary Periera, 79, a Petaluman for 23 years, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

She was born in the Azore Island and moved to Hanford, King County, in 1915. Mrs. Periera moved to Bakersfield in 1929, to Mill Valley in 1939, and to Petaluma in 1948. She was the wife of the late Manuel B. Periera.

She is survived by two sons, Tony Periera of Day Creek, Ore., and Clarence Periera of Garden Grove; a daughter, Mary Andrade of Castro Valley; 11 grandchildren, and 15 great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Private burial will be at Green Cemetery, Bakersfield.

EDITH DINWIDDLE

Edith Kendall Dinwiddie, 92, a retired Petaluma teacher, died today at a Mountain View convalescent hospital after a long illness.

A native of Manchester, Mendocino County, she was educated there and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley. She had taught school in Siskiyou County, Glendale, Yreka and retired in 1946 from Penngrove Junior High School.

She was the wife of the late James L. Dinwiddie and had been president of the Petaluma Women's Club and a member of the United Church of Christ.

She is survived by two sisters, Thelma Brewer of Ukiah and Enda Smith of Loma Linda, and a brother, Elwood Kindall of Napa.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Parent-Funeral Chapel.

VIOLA CARTER

Viola Carter, a 16-year resident of Marin City until she moved to San Francisco in 1961, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. She was 69.

She was born in Irene, La., and came to Marin City in 1949. In 1954 she married Eugene Carter, a hod carrier and laborer. He died in 1960.

Since 1961 Mrs. Carter had lived in San Francisco with her sister, Celia McClure, who survives her.

She also is survived by three other sisters, Ethel Roberson, Tulla Floyd and Lethan Billings, and two brothers, Austin and Timothy Seals, all of Baton Rouge, La., and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral will be Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Coleman Funeral Home, 1652 Eddy Street, San Francisco. Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery.

ETHEL MILLER

Ethel Miller, 85, a longtime resident of Novato, died today at a local hospital after a long illness.

She had lived at 1100 Third Street from 1940 until she was hospitalized.

Mrs. Miller was a member of the Novato Community Club and was active in the arts and crafts section. She also was a member of the Novato Community Methodist Church.

Funeral will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home. Private burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

ANNE POND

Private funeral for Anne Langrall Pond of Petaluma was held yesterday in San Francisco.

Mrs. Pond died Saturday at a San Francisco hospital after a long illness. She was born in Baltimore, Md., and had lived in Petaluma for five years.

She was the wife of retired Navy Capt. John E. Pond Jr., and is also survived by two brothers, Dr. Harrison M. Langrall and Clarke Langrall, and a sister, Dorothy Simmons, all of San Francisco.

Burial was at Cypress Lawn Cemetery. Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

McCARTHY, VINCENT WILLIAM — In loving memory of a wonderful husband and dad who passed away March 9, 1956.

Your heart was truest in all the wide world,
Your love the best to recall.
None on earth can take your place,
You are still the dearest of all.
The beautiful things you did for us
Live within our hearts each day,
And keep you near and dear to us,
Though you have passed away.

Petaluma Staff Cuts Ordered

The Petaluma Board of Education, its bid to levy a tax increase rejected by voters, last night reluctantly authorized money-saving staff cuts, but said it hoped the action could be rescinded next month.

The cuts, affecting programs in both the elementary and high school districts, would eliminate a secondary reading teacher and a part-time music teacher and send a full and part-time elementary reading teacher back as classroom instructors.

The board, which joined district staff in opposing the cuts, said it hoped other sections of the proposed 1971-72 budget could be trimmed to permit full reinstatement of the affected programs.

Schools Supt. Lesley H. Meyer held similar hopes, saying other sections of the budget would be looked at for possible savings, but warned the board must cut 10 per cent of its proposed spending program because of defeat Feb. 23 of proposed tax rate boosts in the elementary and high schools districts.

Meyer said such areas of the budget as transportation, allocations for classified employees, capital outlay and overtime pay would be reviewed before a final decision is made on cuts affecting the reading and music programs.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

MEETING — Changed the date of the next regular meeting to March 26 at 12:15 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School and said a study session on budget cuts would be held March 23 at 8 p.m., the regular meeting date.

CAMPING — Approved an outdoor education contract that will permit sixth grade students at McDowell, McNear and Grant schools to spend a week at Camp Cazzadero. Costs will be paid by individual students and through fund-raising events.

Bruce Burglar Gets 6 Months

Jack Martin Green, 20, of San Anselmo, has been sentenced to six months in Marin County Jail for burglarizing the home of County Administrator Alan Bruce last Oct. 16.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court on Monday also placed Green on probation for two years.

Green was arrested when a policeman saw him walking down the driveway of the Bruce residence in San Anselmo, carrying stereo equipment and an accordion.

Guilty Plea To Reduced Charge

Arthur Lee Ward, 20, of San Francisco, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing stolen property.

Ward is to be sentenced March 29.

He was arrested Jan. 26 when he was caught coming out of a Belvedere residence carrying $10,000 in furs.

Perplexing Mystery: Invisible Bell Rings

STONE, England (UPI)—A bell rings twice every day in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bentley. Trouble is, they can't find out where the bell is or what causes it to ring.

The fire brigade, post office engineers and council officials have searched for it to no avail. The rings come at 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. without fail. "It's really quite baffling," said a postal engineer.

Proposed Park Is A Possibility Now

The Novato City Council voted unamiously last night to offer developer Terrance V. McGuire $50,000 for 4.6 acres on San Marin Drive at San Mateo Way.

Although the area was designed as a park on the original San Marin plan, the city has never purchased it. When the original developers, Sunset International Corp. were in financial trouble, the park site was sold to McGuire who wanted to construct residences on it.

The council had authorized an appraisal of the land, but had not received it as of last night.

The council authorized City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to make the offer to McGuire. If accepted, the money would be taken from the reserve fund, according to council action.

The Novato City Council also:

RECREATION — Approved a $130,520 recreation program for fiscal 1972 so that recruiting summer help could start immediately. The council left $4,750 requested in additional playground expense and the Loma Verde School playground program to be decided later. The additional playground expense would be for expanding the program with two evenings after school as well as Saturdays. Last year the Loma Verde Parent-Teachers Association and homeowners Association paid 50 per cent of the approximately $4,000 playground program. The council was not sure that they would participate this year.

STOP SIGNS — Approved placing stop signs on Peach and Plum streets at Chase Street.

REZONING — Introduced an ordinance rezoning nine acres at Wilson Avenue south of Vineyard Road from limited agriculture to planned residential with 20,000-square-foot lots. Dr. Lester Cranz of 648 Wilson Avenue opposed townhouse development there which had been proposed for the acreage.

TOWNHOUSES — Approved development plans for 90 single-family townhouses west of Highway 101, south of Rowland Boulevard for Western Oaks townhouse development.

NEWS — Received letters from KPIX and the Oakland Tribune complimenting Police Chief Allen V. Klemme and Sgt. Tony Stoutt on handling of the news during the recent kidnapping of two Novato women and two children.

ART GALLERY — Named Councilman George C. Quesada and Brown to work with students in setting up an art gallery in the city hall and exploring the possibility of forming a youth art commission.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned at 2:15 a.m. until 8 p.m. next Tuesday to complete the 27 items remaining on the agenda and hold a hearing on the downtown plan.

Development Argument Is Continuing

After devoting nearly two hours to discussion and argument, the Novato City Council last night asked the city's planning commission to take a look at a new map for Sono-Marin Builders' Marin Highlands development.

The firm's tentative map was rejected by the commission Jan. 25, leading to last night's appeal to the city council and presentation of the new map by Sono-Marin for the project south of Vineyard Road and west of Sutro Avenue.

The city council then put off further proceedings until after commission action. Also postponed were continuation of the legal arguments that consumed most of last night's review. Central point was whether the planning commission had met a legal deadline for denying the map.

The appeal was the latest round in a fight going on for more than a year. The master plan was approved by the Marin County Planning Commission in 1964. Subsequently, the area was annexed by the city and as development progressed residents objected to cutting of hills and filling of valleys.

At issue is a proposal for development of 80 lots on 37.5 acres, called Oaks Unit 2 (formerly Marin Highlands Unit 5).

Five-Year Park Plan Is Presented

The Novato City Council received for study last night a five-year $1 million capital park plan which would require 30 cents tax rate increase to finance it.

The council postponed discussion of the plan for 30 days until it could determine the future of the San Marin Club. It also asked for a joint meeting with the parks and recreation commission to discuss the plan, with date to be set later.

The plan as worked out by the commission called for spending approximately $200,000 in each of the five years.

The projects and costs included: Pioneer Memorial Park, $100,000; San Marin Club, $276,000; Novato Creek Park, $112,500; Marion School playground, $50,000; Olive School playground, $60,000; Lynwood School playground, $60,000; Pleasant Valley School playground, $50,000; San Jose Junior High School playground, $50,000; Hill Junior High School playground, $60,000; Marin Highlands Park, $2,500; Seventh Street tank site, $35,000, and San Marin Park, $190,000.

Mayor Douglas M. Merrill said that apparently the San Marin club was no longer available to the city. The council agreed to wait 30 days to see if the proposed sale was completed. The planning commission Monday night granted a use permit for a restaurant and bar in the closed club.

"We should tell the parks and recreation commission that we want to concentrate on buying land and making just a minimum development on it," said Councilman George C. Quesada.

The council then agreed it needed a joint meeting with the commission.

Ban Scheduled On Beer Cans

BARBERTON, Ohio (UPI)— Beer cans, no-deposit bottles and soft drinks in cans will be illegal in this northeastern Ohio city of 34,000 after April 1, 1972, according to an ordinance passed by the City Council Monday night.

The nine-man council voted unanimously for the ordinance which provides fines of $100 or 30 days in jail for those selling nonreturnable glass and metal drink containers after the effective date.

A group called Humans Organized to Preserve the Earth (HOPE) collected 1,700 signatures on petitions backing the ordinance.

Enrollment Up At Marin College

Enrollment at College of Marin this spring semester has increased 10 per cent over last spring, the college has announced.

There are now 5,428 students enrolled in day and evening credit courses compared to 4,829 last year.

The total includes 3,249 full-time students.

Of the total enrollment, 926 attend evening classes, 2,066 attend both evening and day classes and 2,436 attend only day classes.

The total spring enrollment, while higher than last spring's, is three per cent lower than the fall enrollment of 5,828, the college said.

British Mail Ban Being Lifted

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Postal Service today began to lift its embargo on all mail to Great Britain.

The embargo had been ordered because of the strike by postal workers in Great Britain. The strike ended yesterday after 47 days.

Airmail service was resumed today from the U.S., and all classes of mail will be handled by Friday. Surface parcel post service will resume tomorrow, and surface letter service on Thursday.

Marion Avenue Traffic Brings Clash on Safety

Parents of Marion School students and residents of Marion Avenue clashed at the Novato City Council meeting last night over closing Marion Avenue to through traffic.

At the request of the Marion School Parent-Teacher Association, the traffic safety committee proposed putting a barrier across Marion between Eighth Street and Benton Lane.

The council postponed action on the closure and ordered the staff to make a study of the cost of putting a bicycle-pedestrian path along the south side of the street. It also asked staff to work with parents in helping control traffic along the narrow hillside street.

Raymond Z. McPeak of 10 Driftwood Avenue presented a petition with 235 signatures asking the closure of the street. John F. Giari of 1871 Marion Avenue presented a petition with 10 signatures of residents of the street opposing closing it.

Clifford E. Temps, public works director, said that the Novato Fire Department opposed closing the street.

Temps said that the traffic hazard came from 150 students walking the half mile of narrow street daily while 400 cars used it.

Members of the audience suggested making it a one-way street, putting a path beside it, putting posts down the center to keep cars on their side of the street and placing asphalt burms (ridges) across the street to slow cars.

The council did not set a definite time for Temps to report on the cost of the path.

Farmer Escapes Tractor Mishap

The farmer, Lee Barnett of 2446 East Washington Street, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital.

Police said bystanders helped lift the tractor off Barnett. The accident happened at 1:45 p.m. Sunday.

No Show Brings A Tongue Lashing

Santa Venetia Middle School's principal and faculty took a tongue lashing in absentia last night from the San Rafael Board of Education for failing to show up to hear an architect explain plans for their school.

Chester Bowles of the Marshall and Bowles architectural firm described outdoor classrooms and other proposals to create what the board called "a full middle school" at Santa Venetia. Estimated cost is about $210,000, he said, on top of the $90,000 vocational arts building already in advanced planning stages.

Board member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. condemned the Santa Venetia administration's apparent "lack of enthusiasm" for the middle school plans, despite a parent's report that the faculty held a two-hour meeting on the idea this week.

Lewis S. Pollock of the board's citizens' advisory committee; Don Wellington, board candidate, and others in the audience cautioned that the district may face a "selling" job to lure district pupils into the Santa Venetia Middle School rather than less innovative schools nearer their homes.

A parent warned that recent reports of juvenile problems in the Santa Venetia area might make other neighborhoods' parents reluctant to send their children to the future middle school.

After more than an hour of discussion, board members approved Bowles' contract to continue planning the improvements, but told him to come back with more detailed cost figures before refining the plans.

The San Rafael Board Of Education Also:

CALENDAR — Approved a 1971-72 school calendar calling for both elementary and high school classes to begin Sept. 13 and end June 15, with a total of 176 school days in the elementary district and 177 in the high schools.

RETIREMENT — Granted San Rafael High School math teacher Ewing Bone permission to stay on one year past his mandatory retirement age, with board chairman Herman L. Childress and member John C. Pfeiffer voting no.

SAFETY — Heard from Dist. Supt. John F. Plank and Asst. Supt. Wayne Boone that work is nearly finished on Terra Linda High School gymnasium safety hazards that drew a blast from the board last month.

SPECIAL MEETING — Decided to meet at 6 p.m. Friday at Laurel Dell Primary School to inspect site problems with a proposed outdoor classroom, before approving a change in the construction contract.

UNIFICATION — Routinely approved plans of the Marin County School District Organization Committee to place a San Rafael district unification election on the June 1972 ballot, unless state law no longer requires the election by then.

COMPLAINT — Heard Terra Linda High senior Larry Padway report he had been denied access to "public records" in Dist. Business Mgr. Charles L. Condrotte's office. Padway was seeking information on upcoming social events at San Rafael High School, in hopes of obtaining a soft drink concession. The board instructed Plank to make the data available, but San Rafael High Principal Alan Ellsberg later told Padway the calendar was at the high school, not in Condrotte's office.

FLAG — Congratulated Terra Linda High's United Nations team on "top four" honors earned during its recent trip to New York, and granted the school permission to fly for a week the United Nations flag the team won.

HIRINGS — Approved hiring, at $881.60 each for the rest of the school year, bus drivers Mrs. Jean Deen, William Huffman, and Harold Sutherland; and at $8 per hour each as adult education eachers, Lea Anderson, Sheldon Brandenburger and Stanley Yates.

LOITERING — Discussed three letters from residents in the San Rafael High School neighborhood, complaining of smoking, littering and parking abuses by students on module or flexible scheduling. No action was taken after Ellsberg reported other former complainants now were satisfied with student cooperation.

Singapore Zoo

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Singapore will get its first zoo in 1972, says a Ceylonese expert, D. Alwis, who is supervising its construction. The zoo will be one of the best in Southeast Asia and will be located at Seletar, in the central area of the island.

6.6 Pct. Pay Hike Is Asked

Teachers last night asked the San Rafael Board of Education for a 6.6 per cent salary schedule increase for 1971-72, and changes in the steps of the schedule.

"The 6.6 per cent maintains the buying power, but does not raise the buying power of the 1970-71 salary schedule," Richard Poppe, co-chairman of the San Rafael Teachers Association finance committee, told the board members.

The board neither discussed nor took action on the request, referring it to Dist. Supt. John F. Plank for a negotiation procedure to be set up.

On Jan. 26, Plank and Charles L. Condrotte, district business manager, presented a preview of the 1971-72 budget predicting $5,544,856 in spending for the elementary district and $5,437,230 for the high school district. Condrotte said he had included an employee pay increase of 7 per cent and suggested step increases in the budgets, totalling $272,730 in the elementary district and $229,908 in the high school district.

Plank said last night he did not have figures immediately available on the dollar cost of the teachers' request, and Condrotte was not present.

The teachers asked that the present, 15-step salary schedule be compressed next year from a 22-year range to 15 years, bringing a teacher with a bachelor's degree and 75 additional units of education to a maximum of $19,831 after 15 years. Under the 1970-71 schedule, a teacher with a bachelor's degree plus 60 units, or with a master's degree, can reach the top only after 22 years.

Adult education instructors should get a raise from the present $8 per hour to $9 per hour effective June 1, and substitute teachers' pay should be $32 per day for assignments of less than 10 days, and $34.50 per day for longer assignments, the teachers urged.

The association also called for fringe benefits, including group life insurance and group vision care.

The teachers received a 6.8 per cent salary raise last year.

Marian Marsh Wins Critical Concert Claim

San Rafael soprano Marian Marsh sang to critical acclaim in three performances last weekend with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra at the Music Center in Los Angeles.

Under the direction of Gerhard Samuel, the orchestra's new associate conductor who was formerly conductor of the Oakland Symphony, Miss Marsh sang in costume concert versions of Lulu's song "Comodo" and the Countess's valedictory in a symphonic suite from Berg's opera "Lulu."

Larkspur's Park Survey Report Due

A progress report on questionnaires being filled out by some Larkspur residents as a basis for developing a park master plan will be given the city's park and recreation commission tonight at 8 o'clock at city hall.

More than 1,000 of the 25-question forms are being circulated by a special committee of the city's park and recreation commission, Harlan Barry, recreation director, said yesterday.

The results will probably be forwarded to the city's park planners, Arbegast and Newton, sometime next month, he said, with a complete master plan expected by July.

Committee members are distributing the forms to various homeowners' associations, civic and business groups and school organizations.

The commission also will hear reports on the Baltimore Canyon hiking trail, the Corte Madera Creek bicycle trail and will begin consideration of a fiscal 1971-72 budget.

230 To Be Added To Food Program

The federally subsidized supplemental food program will be expanded to cover 350 low income families in Marin, instead of the present 120, at no cost to the county.

The expansion was approved by unanimous vote of the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Frances Dahl, public health nutritionist for Marin, explained that the United States Department of Agriculture provides food at 50 cents per case from its surplus food outlet in San Leandro. The cost per month for the 120 Marin families now in the program is slightly under $100 for $1,700 worth of food.

The program is different from the food stamp program in that the only persons eligible are those vulnerable to malnutrition; specifically, pregnant women, infants, and children to age 6.

Mrs. Dahl said the Department of Agriculture formula allows a maximum of 350 families in Marin to participate in the supplemental food program.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also

CHANGES — Named Dr. Leo J. Becnel, Jack Kniveton and Thomas Nolan to the Novato Flood Control Advisory Board, replacing Frank Galli, E. D. King and James McCown. Although the incumbents' terms had not expired, Supervisor Arnold Baptiste of North Marin said the three had agreed to step down to give the advisory board broader geographical representation in the North Marin area and the benefit of new members with experience in environmental work.

BUDGET — Set June 14-25 for public hearings on the 1971-72 county budget. County Administrator Alan Bruce said he and his staff will go over budget requests with various department heads from March 15 through April 5.

EOC BOARD — Said the Novatans for Racial Equality could have a seat on the board of directors of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. The EOC board has 36 members, 12 representatives each from private organizations, public agencies, and the poor.

ENGLISH PUB — Approved a master plan for a two-story English pub to be built by Charles Felix at the entrance to Muir Beach. Felix agreed to a public hearing before the planning commission on final building design and landscaping.

INSURANCE — Accepted a settlement of $11,295 from the Independent Insurance Agents Association of Marin for fire damage Aug. 8 to a building at McNears Beach.

AIRPORT — Ordered the county counsel's office to amend the leases with Spectrum Air and Marin Aviation, who lease land at county-owned Gnoss Field, requiring the companies to insure all their operations for claims up to $1 million to protect the county against suits. Richard Duste, arguing for coverage of the leased area only, said the cost of the proposed insurance requirement would be prohibitive.

RADIO TOWER — Approved a request by the National Park Service to place a 20-foot radio tower atop Mount Barnabe near the Marin County Fire Department fire tower.

PUBLIC HEARINGS — Set March 23 for Public hearings on a use permit for the planned Marin City Fire Station and a use permit for a private church school at the Lutheran Church in Terra Linda.

BONDS — Authorized the sale of $650,000 in bonds for the Novato Unified School District, with bids to be opened April 13.

Jail Weekends For Having Pot

Alfred Carl Ensminger, 29, of Larkspur, has been sentenced to three weekends in Marin County Jail for conviction on a charge of possessing marijuana. Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court Monday also placed Ensminger on probation for one year.

Sentencing of a codefendant, Ralph Dennis Snow, 24, of San Rafael, was continued until next Monday.

The two were arrested when police went to Ensminger's home last Dec. 11 to get a list of articles he had lost in a burglary. Police said they found the pair smoking pot cigarettes.

New French Look?

PARIS (UPI)—Jean Jacques Servan-Schreiber, millionaire publisher and politician, told a news conference today he will ask the government to buy a nude bust of actress Brigitte Bardot as a symbol of France to be placed in each of the nation's 38,000 town halls.

Worker To Continue His Duties

A Marin County Social worker, who has been ordered fired for poor work performance, may continue on the job but still faces the threat of a quick dismissal, the county personnel commission ruled yesterday.

The commission upheld a bid by Winifred Dushkind to stay on the job, but also affirmed a provision in the county's employee grievance procedures that gives the county the right to dismiss within two weeks or less a worker who previously has been warned about poor work.

Mrs. Dushkind was given a 60-day dismissal notice last Dec. 14, but has since been performing her work satisfactorily, Chuck Egbert, field representative for Social Services Union Local 535, told the commission. Mrs. Duskhind said she received a poor work rating last year because of a record-keeping misunderstanding.

$75,000 Suit Against County

A San Anselmo woman, who slipped and fell at the Marin Civic Center last December, has filed a $75,000 damage claim for injuries suffered in the fall.

Dr. Esther B. Frankel of 450 Laurel Avenue said she was walking along the second floor corridor on Dec. 16 when she slipped "on the highly polished floor."

The damage claim against the county, filed Monday by San Francisco attorney Jack H. Werchick, alleges that she suffered injuries to her back, legs and other parts of the body.

Supervisors Ask Curbs On Use Of Motorcycles

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, disturbed over indiscriminate use of motorcycles, yesterday suggested banning their use except on streets and in specially designated areas in the unincorporated reaches of the county.

The board asked County Administrator Alan Bruce and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to study a zoning ordinance that would halt widespread use of the machines.

Maloney said he was uncertain such a measure would withstand a court test but added, "We would give it a try."

Maloney pointed out the county already has an ordinance forbidding the use of motorcycles on fire trails in the unincorporated area, but the supervisors agreed it had not solved the problem of the noisy machines.

The board heard yesterday from a Santa Venetia man who complained that he and his neighbors were being disturbed by cycle-riding youths who overrun Santa Venetia Island at the end of Meadow Drive.

"Kids are swinging from the trees and motorcycles are running all over the place and chasing away the birds and wildlife," said William S. Thompson of 57 Vendola Drive. A gate on a new bridge to the island is designed to keep trespassers off, but it has been pried open, said Thompson.

The board said it would notify the owners of the island to see if the gate can be kept locked and also asked for a report on what steps can be taken to reduce trespassing.

Motorcycle riding is a problem elsewhere in the county, especially in the area between Terra Linda and Sleepy Hollow, said Supervisor John F. McInnis. Dune buggies as well as motorcycles are being driven up and down the hills, he reported. "It's a tremendous nuisance problem and the people are simply desperate."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste suggested setting aside outlying areas for riding, thus, relieving pressure from populated areas of the county.

Palo Alto Vote Set On The War

PALO ALTO (UPI)—By a 10-1 vote, the Palo Alto City Council decided Monday night to submit a proposition on the Southeast Asia conflict to citywide voters May 11.

The referendum measure, altered at the last moment by the council, will allow voters a chance to decide whether they approve of the present policy of the Nixon Administration in Southeast Asia or whether they favor complete withdrawal of U.S. troops by the end of this year.

John V. Bears was the lone councilman to oppose the referendum.

The city council chamber was filled with spectators interested in the proposal but there was virtually no discussion by councilmen of the matter. There were no incidents.

Another Houseboat Solution

The dilapidated houseboats of Richardson Bay won't be dumped in the lap of the Army Corps of Engineers after all, the Marin County Board of Supervisors decided yesterday.

Warned by the Army that creating a navigation hazard with arks, thus forcing the Army to dispose of them, would be illegal, the supervisors chose a different approach.

Abated boats will be towed to the edge of the houseboat community, impounded for 48 hours while owners recover their belongings, then removed by a contractor.

Richard L. Larson, Marin County's marine inspector, said towing would cost $35 each; disposal, $200 each. Anyone wishing to reclaim an ark to remove it from Marin waters would have to pay all costs, Larson said.

This alternate proposal was presented after Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer of the corps, warned that the disposal method endorsed by the board last week is illegal.

Deputy County Counsel Joseph E. Forest said that despite Roberts's warning, he believed the action would be legal since the Army has the duty to clear navigable waters of hulks and wrecks.

Another Richardson Bay issue — compliance with county codes by the houseboats on the property of Mimi Tellis — was also partially resolved by the supervisors.

The supervisors agreed to allow her to post a $35,000 performance bond on required improvements that remain.

Biggest remaining problems are sewage connection, parking and timely completion of a partially built pier, Frost said. He said these can not be done immediately and urged the supervisors to let her post a performance bond, then proceed with the work.

A formal agreement is to be presented to the board next week.

Supervisor Michael Wornum said that if one harbor can be brought up to code, others at Waldo Point might fall in line.

A New Trend

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nearly one half of the people who buy atlases have never owned one before, but a new trend is that more people are buying them for their own use. Earlier surveys had found that atlases were mainly purchased for Christmas, back-to-school or graduation gifts, says Hammond Incorporated, producer of maps and atlases.

San Anselmo Police Arrest Pot Suspect

A 22-year-old San Rafael man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possessing marijuana for sale, possessing narcotics paraphernalia and resisting arrest in San Anselmo.

Officers said Roger Blair Griffith of 220 Canal Street was arrested at 6:15 p.m. after a San Anselmo man reported Griffith offered to sell him marijuana and opium.

The man said he picked up Griffith hitchhiking in San Rafael and en route to San Anselmo the offer was made.

Officers said they located Griffith later in Fairfax and when arresting him he shoved one officer and ran. Caught moments later, Griffith was searched and a film can of suspected hashish and a pipe used for smoking the drug were found in a jacket pocket.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where he remained in lieu of $1,250 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Recycling Adopted Despite Arguments

Despite the economic arguments of an attorney, the San Anselmo City Council hopped aboard the ecology bandwagon last night. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1.)

Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing San Anselmo Garbage Disposal, said "Our knowledge tells us you can't do anything profitably, but bury (garbage)."

Therefore, he said, any company that enters the recycling business will eventually go bankrupt, dumping the whole mess in the lap of government.

Nevertheless, the council adopted almost completely an ecology action program suggested by Val Schaaf of 32 Crest Road.

The council made it city policy that wastes be recycled when means become available to do so and directed San Anselmo Garbage Disposal to report back June 8 on ways it can help in recycling.

The council also ordered that city departments begin recycling their wastes and established a committee to make recommendations on recycling.

Schaaf was appointed as interim head and Councilman Lewis W. Stewart as a member. Other members are to be appointed March 23.

Stewart had recycling placed on the agenda so Neill Smith of Whole Systems of Mill Valley could explain that firm's recycling program.

Smith said the Mill Valley City Council Monday approved an agreement whereby the company charges homeowners $1 a month for collection of sorted recycleable materials.

Smith said the group is trying to show that recycling is financially feasible. Myers claimed not only is it not feasible, but nobody will be interested in paying to have to sort their garbage.

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson also wondered whether housewives can be persuaded to squash cans, wash out bottles and stack newspapers, but six persons from the audience argued they can be.

Mrs. Schaaf pointed out that housewives were asked to do the same thing during World War II and responded to the challenge.

Stewart agreed. "It really gets to be a religion," he said. "I almost feel compelled to buy a six-pack of Coors beer so I can squash the aluminum cans."

The San Anselmo City Council also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed John Girton to replace John Colteaux on the Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing and named Robert Gicker, Rev. Vernon Cox and James Klein as alternates.

SPRING CLEANUP — Put over to March 23 discussion of a possible spring cleanup.

BUSINESS LICENSE — Denied a request for waiver of a business license for Youth Incentive of San Francisco, a non-profit corporation raising funds from door-to-door sales, saying such waivers will be restricted to San Anselmo businesses.

COASTLINE PLANNING — Recommended to the Association of Bay Area Governments that the cost of funding a coastline plan be spread among the counties by population, the least expensive alternative to Marin at $1,367. The total plan will cost $100,000.

STAR HALL — Appointed Reed to negotiate price and terms for 3.08 acres of land plus a meeting hall formerly used by the Marin County Peace Officers Association. Two real estate firms are asking $75,000 for the land near Sorich Park on Sacramento Street.

MEETING — Agreed to host the April 28 meeting of the Council of Mayors and Councilmen at the Robson mansion.

NON-RESIDENT FEE — Reminded the park and recreation commission to set a recreation fee for non-residents equal to the cost of having a person in the program.

PLANNERS — Asked the planning commission to consider rezoning three lots on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at Oak Knoll Road from commercial to apartment zoning. The commission had previously failed to agree on rezoning the parcels.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a closed negotiation session with its wage negotiators Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the city hall.

Pair Arraigned On Pot Charge

James Hugh Haughton, 19, and Mark William Daigle, 18, both of Palos Verdes, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing marijuana.

Haughton is to return to court to enter a plea Thursday and Daigle is to plead March 22.

They were arrested Sunday after a Marin County drug abuse agent observed Daigle rolling cigarettes in a car on Highway 101 near Waldo Grade. When the agent stopped the car in Novato, pot was allegedly found in the glove compartment.

Population Of 5,000 Seen By '80

Planning consultants last night advised the Cotati Planning Commission to prepare for a population of 5,000 by 1980.

Representatives of Herman D. Ruth and Associates of Berkeley said the present population of 1,500 could possibly grow to 10,000 by 1990 if development at Sonoma State College continues and if subdivisions continue to grow.

In order to cope with the growth, planners recommended that traffic patterns be carefully studied with special thought given to making East Cotati Avenue the main thoroughfare rather than Old Redwood Highway.

The planners also recommended that traffic be routed around Plaza Park rather than through its center so that it could become the true hub of the community. They said the business district would also benefit from the plan.

The planning commission also heard the planners urge that an additional northbound entrance be built at Highway 101 for better freeway access.

The last of the preliminary planning sessions on the proposed general plan will be held March 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cotati Fire Station.

Beach Search Fails To Find Missing Man

A search of the McClure's Beach area has failed to find a Los Angeles county man who may have drowned at the beach Friday, Marin County sheriff's office reported today.

Deputies said William S. Taylor, 21, of Sylmar, has been missing since Friday morning when he left the San Francisco motel where he was staying with his wife, saying he was going to the beach.

Taylor's car and shoes and socks were found at the beach Saturday, deputies said.

Deputies, National Park Service rangers and a Coast Guard cutter and helicopter searched the surf and nearby cliffs Saturday and Sunday without success.

SFO To Continue At Same Location

SFO Helicopters Inc. will continue to operate out of the county heliport just south of Richardson Bay Bridge.

That assurance was given last night by Richard Lovron, general manager of SFO Helicopters, to the Marin Aviation Commission, which met at the Marin Municipal Water District office in Corte Madera.

Last week, Mario Balestrieri, deputy public works director for Marin, reported that the heliport was threatened with a shutdown because of disagreement over a lease.

Balestrieri announced last night he believes the disagreement can be ironed out.

D. McCoy Co. leases the heliport land from a property owners' group. The county new collects 25 cents per passenger from SFO and pays 15 cents of that to McCoy for use of the heliport. The county is proposing that SFO pay 33 cents per passenger so that 23 cents can be paid to McCoy.

Lovron told the aviation commissioners that SFO wants improvements made at the heliport before the rate is raised to 33 cents per passenger. He wants improvements to the entrance road, parking area, painting and cleanup, and perhaps some diking to keep waters away from the heliport during high tides. Lovron said SFO is willing to contribute something to these capital improvements if the county will also help out.

The commissioners asked SFO to submit a list of improvements it wants. Balestrieri said he would contact McCoy and try to work out a solution.

Marin Aviation commissioners also:

GOLDEN WEST — Heard from Capt. Kerney L. Sigler, general manager of the northern division of Golden West Airlines, that his company will submit another application for use of Hamilton Air Force Base for civilian flights.

WORKSHOP — Assigned commissioners to prepare for a workshop discussion with the Marin County Board of Supervisors on March 30.

NEXT MEETING — Decided to move back to the Civic Center for regular meetings beginning next month. The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. April 6.

Miller Avenue Housing Development Approved

The Mill Valley Planning Commission has approved a housing development on Miller Avenue but has sent another back to the drawing board for revisions.

Zoning Administrator Howard R. McGill said the panel Monday approved architectural drawings for 18 garden cottage condiminiums at 230 Miller Avenue.

The cottages will be built by Marinways, Inc., and will serve as models for a 104-unit garden cottage development planned for a 27.5-acre site in Alto Bowl.

Rejected were plans for 203 apartments on Shelter Bay near Sabella's restaurant. McGill said commissioners previously had asked applicant S. N. Diller to return with revised plans showing less ground coverage and more public access to the shoreline, but the developer failed to do so.

The planners told Diller to make the changes and return at the March 22 meeting.

The commission also recommended city council approval of an amendment to the city zoning ordinance that would require a use permit for any restaurant featuring live entertainment. Under existing practices a permit is needed only if the restaurant lies within 200 feet of a residential zone.

Pair Sentenced For Having Pot

A San Rafael couple has been sentenced by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court for possessing marijuana.

Patricia Maryann O'Neill, 22, was fined $50 and placed on probation for one year.

Lawrence David Johnson, also 22, was ordered to jail for 20 days and placed on probation for one year.

Burglars Hit 4 Targets In Big Haul

A church, a union office, a business and a school in San Rafael were broken into and burglarized sometime Monday night or early yesterday morning, San Rafael police reported today.

Biggest loss was at Tone-Tex Specialities at 65 Jacoby Street, where $2,700 worth of equipment was taken. Missing were two calculators and a paint sprayer.

Police said that someone removed a screen to get into the office of the Machinists Union at 1292 Lincoln Avenue and $200 was taken from a safe. An inside door of the safe had been pried open, but the outside door had apparently been opened by using the combination.

Taken from the ransacked office of Faith Lutheran Church at 355 Los Ranchitos Road was a $300 dictaphone and $7 in cash.

A burglar who kicked in an office door and forced a window at Don Timoteo School at 39 Trellis Avenue took $4.50 from a soft drink machine, $1.50 from a desk as well as a $60 dictaphone and a $5 microphone.

O'Brien, Eickhof Plead Innocent To Speed Charge

Don Edward O'Brien, 32, of Novato, and Lt. William Chris Eickhof III, 24, of Travis Air Force Base, Solano County, pleaded innocent yesterday in Mairn Municipal Court to misdemeanor charges of reckless driving and engaging in a speed contest.

A jury trial was set for Aug. 16.

The men were arrested Friday when California Highway Patrol officers saw them allegedly racing on Highway 101.

The Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that O'Brien had pleaded innocent Friday to a charge of drunken driving. It was Glendon Gene O'Brien, 44, of San Rafael, who pleaded to that charge, which stemmed from his arrest March 1 near the Marin County Civic Center.

New Status For Club Is Approved

The Novato Planning Commission has approved changing the San Marin Club from a private to a semiprivate club, enabling addition of a restaurant and cocktail lounge.

The change in the club's use permit, voted by the commission Monday night, will enable the club to serve drinks and cater outside parties, said Gary Holloway, assistant planning director.

Benjamin Morris of San Francisco is in the process of buying the club from G and R Associates of Los Angeles. The club was originally started by Sunset International Petroleum Corp. which went bankrupt.

Morris must apply to the California Alcoholic Beverage Control Board for a license for the bar, Holloway said.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

WESTERN OAKS —Approved addition of three units to the 87-unit townhouse development of Western Oaks Village, west of Highway 101 and south of Rowland Boulevard. Western Hosts Inc., developers, had asked for addition of four units. The developer also was granted a variance for cutbanks in excess of 20 feet.

SPECIAL — Set 8 p.m. March 29 for a special meeting to consider an ordinance requiring dedication of land or payment of fees for park and recreation purposes.

Low Bidder On Dump Road Is Announced

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Alves Construction Co. of Pittsburg yesterday submitted the apparent low bid of $69,287 for construction of a road to the new Sonoma County sanitary landfill facility northwest of Petaluma.

Donald B. Head, department of public works, told the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors that he was pleased with the 14 bids and that many had fallen well below the estimated cost of $125,000. Second in the bid opening was Ghilotti Brothers of Santa Rosa with $69,923.

The work will include a section of Meacham Road and an entrance road to the new dump site.

The board also approved the appointment of Dick Gray, a Petaluma rancher, to the Sonoma County Fair board. He will join fellow Petalumans Arthur Weller, Aubrey Sanderson and Albert E. Nissen.

Richardson Bay Issue Due Study

The Richardson Bay Sanitary District board will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Trestle Glen Treatment Plant to discuss the effects of proposed new requirements on waste discharge in the district.

Secretary Beverly Wheeler said the board will confer with developers and contractors on how requirements being considered by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control board will affect new sewer hookups in the district.

The discharge requirements, if adopted, would force the Richardson Bay District to treat its sewage more thoroughly.

The regional board also may issue a cease and disist order prohibiting new sewer connections in the district.

Base Brass Denies Food Mishandling

The flyer, claiming to be the work of "concerned airmen" and the underground press, charged that "food going out the back door" was resulting in hungry airmen being denied second helpings.

Lt. Col. Robert E. Fromm, chief of the base services division, countered that the refusal of second helpings had been limited to meat only, and was due to the dining hall expenses going $600 a month over the allotment of $1.40 per day per airman dining there.

On Monday, base officials reported "unidentified individuals" urged airmen to boycott the dining hall and distributed fliers charging that food ' 'disappears out the back door of the chow hall while we're refused second helpings."

Fromm explained that food, indeed, did "go out the back door," but only under a rigid accounting and repayment procedure, to three other meal programs at Hamilton.

The dining hall served 151 meals at noon Monday; normal patronage is about 300 airmen, the base said.

Meter Binders Ward Off Dogs

CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—The nation's utility company meter readers have found a way to protect themselves from a daily hazard, the family watchdog.

The meter readers are using their meter binders to ward off that nip in the pants, reports the American Loose Leaf Division of Dictaphone Corporation. For that reason, the firm says, its meter binders are finished with a hard bakelite enamel.

$3 Million For Orange Juice

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Agriculture Department announced today it has purchased 11.5 million 46-ounce cans of processed orange juice to donate to needy families.

Officials said the juice, bought as part of an effort to strengthen farm prices in the face of a record orange crop, cost nearly $3 million. Earlier the department had bought 2.7 million gallons of frozen concentrated orange juice to donate to schools.

Orange prices to growers had dipped to 67 cents a box in mid-January but revived to $1.12 in mid-February, compared with $1.41 a year ago.

Prezoning 71 Acres Is Sought

The Corte Madera Planning Commission has recommended that 71 acres of county land in the eastern portion of town — slated for a large residential development — be prezoned for medium density residential use.

Prezoning is a method employed before territory in unincorporated areas is annexed to municipalities.

According to Betty S. Behel, town clerk, the commission unanimously recommended Monday that the Boyd property between Highway 101 and the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, northeast of the Koch property, be prezoned R-2.

Developers of the property, who have asked that it be annexed to the town have proposed a 642-unit residential development.

Developers E. C. Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda have shown preliminary plans calling for two four-story apartment buildings and clusters of townhouses.

However, development of the property hinges on acquisition of the abandoned railroad right-of-way so access can be provided to the property from Paradise Drive.

Another Round On Ferry Site

Selection of a Central Marin ferry terminal site and a $331.5-million start on a bus rapid transit and ferry system will be considered by Golden Gate Bridge District directors at 9 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

Both matters were tackled by directors last Thursday, but decisions on each were postponed. This week's session also will be of the "committee of the whole," and its recommendations could go to the full board for final action when it meets at 10 a.m. Friday.

The two proposed ferry terminal sites are the Hutchinson Quarry property in Larkspur and the Dominic Muzzi property at the south end of Corte Madera's marshy waterfront.

The $331.5-million start on transit came in a staff recommendation for a long-range transit plan due to be submitted to the Legislature by April 3.

The district's finance-auditing committee will meet prior to the full board at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Zone, Housing Panel To Meet

The San Anselmo citizens' committee on zoning and housing will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Robson House, Robson-Harrington Park.

The 15-member committee was formed following the city council flap over Gay Kagy's apartment in a single family residential area.

It is now making a survey of such nonconforming uses and how they affect the neighborhoods in which they are located. No goals have been set by the committee past the survey but it is expected they will recommend ordinance changes to the city council.

Sure To Be Cookin' The Irish Way

Irish cooking is very wholesome, but plain and unimaginative, according to two native-born Irish parishioners of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mill Valley who are preparing trifle for dessert on Saturday night, when the school's parent-teacher group will hold a "Blarney Blast" dinner dance in the school's auditorium.

"There's nothing like Irish butter, the mushroom that pop up at dawn to be picked and the spring lamb," recalls Mrs. Patrick Roche, who spoke Gaelic at home in Ireland because her father, Ireland's Collector of Customs, wished to revive the almost extinct language.

An internationally-known actress, Mrs. Jack Aranson recalls, "Irish bread is the best I have ever tasted anywhere." Mary Rose McMaster Aranson toured the world as a child with her father's Shakespearean acting company.

"During World War II we toured only in Ireland and that's why I know every village."

The two say that serving good piping hot is a problem in that cold country, where the kitchen is usually far away from the dining room. Serving dishes have covers, dinner plates are heated and food is served at the last minute by "girls from the country" who trudge upstairs carrying trays, they explain.

St. Patrick's Day is a dignified holiday in Dublin to honor political prisoners and dead patriots, not a Mardi Gras, they say. It is the day of the important football and hurling games, the Ball and a military parade of beautiful horses, coast guardsmen, a boys' school band and girls in school uniforms doing the Irish reel on floats.

These recipes will be used for the Irish dinner dance:

Mulligan Stew

Ni geal an gaire ach san ait a mbionn an biadh.

(Laughter is gayest where the food is best.)

3 lbs of lean stewing beef or lamb stew
3 cups water
1 cup Mountain Red wine
2 bouillon cubes
2 yellow onions, quartered
4 stalks sliced celery and tops
1 No. 2 can of whole tomatoes
1 bunch sliced carrots
1 bunch sliced parsnips
½ lb. suated mushrooms
1½ lbs. whole new potatoes

Cut lean beef stew meat in 1½ inch cubes. Heat fat in heavy kettle, very hot. Pat beef cubes dry, dredge in flour seasoned well with garlic powder, pepper and salt. Brown in fat, browning only as many as will fit comfortably in one layer. Stir frequently with wooden spoon. When all the meat is well browned on all sides, pour excess fat out of pan. Add water, wine, bouillon, onions, celery and tops, tomatoes, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer two to four hours until meat is tender. Taste gravy for strength. Add more wine or bouillon if needed.

Then add carrots, parsnips and potatoes. Cook until done. Add sauted mushrooms. Stew may be prepared one or two days in advance. Let cool uncovered. Then cover and refrigerate. Heat and serve dinner for eight with soda bread and Cabernet Sauvignon.

"Wild Irish" Soda Bread

(Don't priase the bread until it is baked.)

4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
2 Tbls. Caraway seeds
¼ cup butter
2 cups seedless raisins
1⅓ cups buttermilk
1 egg, beaten
1 tsp. baking soda

Stir together into a large bowl the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder; stir in Caraway seeds. Cut in butter, add raisins. Combine buttermilk, egg and soda and add to dry mixture, stir until just moistened. Turn dough onto lightly floured board and knead gently into a ball. Place in greased two-quart casserole and with sharp scissors make a cross cut on the top. Brush with cream and bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour and 10 minutes or until done. Cool slightly before cutting.

"TRALEE" TRIFLE

Ubh gan salann, pog gan croimbeal.

3 pkgs. lady fingers
1 jar strawberry jam
2½ cups sherry, brandy or Irish whiskey
2 large cans of small fruit cocktail
2 pkgs. strawberry Jello
2 pkgs. gelatin pudding-and-pie mix, vanilla flavor
4 cups milk
1 pint whipping cream

One day before serving, in an extra large bowl:

1. Split ladyfingers, spread with strawberry jam and place in bottom of bowl. Add 2½ cups of brandy, sherry or Irish whiskey.
2. Drain fruit cocktail, pour fruit over lady fingers, saving liquid.
3. Make gelatin pudding as directed, adding fruit cocktail juice to water to make up to two pints liquid. Pour immediately over lady fingers, etc.
4. Cook vanilla pudding over low heat, do not boil. When thick, pour over contents in bowl. Refrigerate overnight.
5. Top with whipped cream before serving to eight. Enough for second helpings.

Ham, Bacon, Sausage And Chops Perk Up Breakfasts

Put spark into your morning menus with pork and you'll have the whole family at the breakfast table. You can count on ham, bacon, sausage links and patties and pork chops to charge up sleepy appetites.

The family will benefit from these breakfasts that start off days with ¼ to ⅓ of the day's calorie needs plus plenty of high-quality protein, iron and vitamins. Pork is an especially good source of thiamin.

In planning the menu make sure that a vitamin C source such as a citrus fruit, milk and some grain product are included in the morning meal.

BREAKFAST PORK CHOPS

12 breakfast pork chops, cut ¼ to ½ inch thick
3 tablespoons lard or drippings

Brown pork chops in lard or dripping in frying-pan or griddle at moderate temperature. Turn occasionlly until browned on both sides, 10 to 15 minutes. 6 servings.

SAUSAGE EGG RINGS

4 eggs
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons drippings
Sait and pepper

Shape sausage into 4 doughnut-shaped rings about 4½ inches in diameter. Place in a shallow baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 20 to 25 minutes or until done. Pour off and reserve drippings. Combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper in a mixing bowl. Beat with a fork until blended. Heat 2 tablespoons of the drippings in a frying-pan. Pour in egg mixture and cook slowly. When mixture starts to set on bottom, lift cooked portions and turn gently to cook all portions evenly. Spoon scrambled eggs into sausage "rings." 4 servings.

SAUCY LUNCHEON MEAT

2 cans (12 ounces each) luncheon meat, cut in ½-inch slices.
2 cans (16 ounces each) applesauce

½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ cup chopped onion
1 cup soft bread crumbs
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup melted butter or margarine

Combine applesauce, brown sugar, vinegar and onion. Pour into an 8x12-inch baking dish. Arrange luncheon meat slices in an overlapping row on top of applesauce. Combine bread crumbs, cinnamon and melted butter or margarine. Sprinkle over casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (375°F.) 30 to 35 minutes. 6 servings.

CUSTOMARY GAZPACHO ingredients go into a sour cream layer for this Iberian salad mold. It's a good one to have as an opener at a buffet supper at home.

A Molded Gelatin Salad That's Different For A Buffet Supper

It's not surprising to see the Spanish specialty gazpacho served as an "opener" for lunch or dinner, but as a molded gelatin salad — well, that's different.

The customary gazpacho ingredients —tomato, cucumber and onion — are folded into the dairy sour cream layer of this gala mold along with canned fruit cocktail. Fruit cocktail and tomato also lend their flavor appeal to the dark, clear consomme layer of the party-pretty concoction.

With Iberian Salad Mold on the menu, a buffet supper is off to an auspicious start.

IBERIAN SALAD MOLD

1 can (17 ounces) fruit cocktail
2 envelopes plain gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed consomme, undiluted
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
¾ teaspoon salt
3 drops Tabasco
¼ cup vinegar
⅓ cup cherry tomato wedges or diced tomato
1½ cups dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped onion
½ cup chopped cucumber

Drain fruit cocktail, saving ½ cup syrup. Soften gelatin in cold water. In a saucepan heat consomme to boiling; remove from heat. Add softened gelatin; stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in garlic powder, ½ teaspoon salt, Tabasco, vinegar and fruit cocktail syrup. Pour 1 cup gelatin mixture into 6-cup mold; chill until gelatin is consistency of unbeaten egg white. Arrange 4 or 5 tomato wedges in thickened gelatin; chill until set. Blend sour cream with remaining salt and gelatin mixture; chill until mixture mounds on spoon. Fold drained fruit cocktail into cream gelatin mixture with remaining tomato, onion and cucumber. Turn into mold over first layer; chill until firm. Unmold and serve with salad greens if desired.

Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Malnutrition Widespread

Only 50 to 60 per cent of American households have diets which meet recommended nutrition standards. Ironically, low income is not the only reason for malnutrition in this country. Much malnutrition results simply because food choices are determined by personal preferences or dislikes and because people do not know kinds of food they should eat to maintain good health.

The Bettmann Archive, Inc.

His woman put everything but dynamite in his bread.

And we're using her recipe today.

It was a hundred and fifty years ago and he wanted a bread that'd really stick to his ribs.

So his wife tried something. She mixed up a batch of dough from wheat flour, cornmeal, barley flour, oatmeal, lots of sugar and shortening, yeasts, even a touch of molasses.

The result was the richest, heartiest bread anybody'd ever tasted.

We make our Sheepherder bread the same way today. No preservatives. No artificial things. Nothing but the great combination of good ingredients she first used so long ago.

And you know something? It's still the richest, heartiest bread anybody's ever tasted.

VOLUNTEER EFFORT

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Youngsters living in three group homes in Larkspur and Kentfield are given a better chance to succeed in the adult community because of a group of volunteers devoted to helping them.

Marin Foundation, Friends of Arequipa, began the program in 1964 when a group home for six teen-age girls was provided in San Rafael. Working with the county welfare and probation departments, the foundation has now expanded to two group homes that can house six girls each in Larkspur and a home for six boys in Kentfield supported by Marin County.

Residents of the homes, aged 13 through 18, must be old enough to register as high school freshmen to be eligible for referral by the courts to the group homes. The foundation provides a permanent home through high school years for adolescents whose age, experience and problems make it impossible for them to stay in their own home or to use a foster home placement successfully.

It is only appropriate however, for adolescents who are emotionally and socially able to use the support of the professional staff to live in the community and to attend the local public high school full time.

The young residents attend Redwood High School, and three of the residents attend San Andreas High School, an opportunity school, which is not as regimented as a regular high school but offers a full curriculum.

THERE IS a professional director for each group home, and two house-parents are under their supervision. The professional staff helps to choose, train and supervise volunteers who are in contact or working directly with the young residents.

The volunteers not only have personal contact with the youngsters, a program started by Mrs. William Witt when they reorganized the volunteer program, but they also help subsidize the rental program and furnish material things such as furniture at the group homes.

Volunteers are an intrinsic part of the total program at the group homes, Mrs. Anna Marie Long Gurich, executive director of the group homes, said. The volunteers come in and out of the group home on various duties and activities, and the young people welcome their interest and understanding as soon as they have had some experience with them.

ONE YOUNGSTER remarked to a new volunteer who was driving her to an appointment, "They told me to be nice to you as this was your first time."

A youngster who is a new resident in the home may also "test" the adult volunteer by trying to shock her with foul language or tell her of a personal experience, real or imaginary.

All the volunteers do not have personal contact with the young people, but they work in other capacities, Mrs. James Meenaghan, chairman of the volunteers, said.

However, those working personally with the girls will pick up a teen-ager who needs a ride to the doctor or take a new resident of the group home out shopping to pick out a wardrobe.

Mrs. Burich was high in her praise of the volunteers. She said some of the residents who "graduate" and go out into the community continue to keep in contact with the home. As an example, one girl who is now married and living in Oregon often corresponds with the home, she said.

WHEN DRIVING youngsters to appointments the volunteers get to know and form relationships with the youngsters that sometimes lead to the volunteer assuming the role of sponsor as they reach their senior year in high school and need more individual attention in planning for graduation and future work.

The group homes in Larkspur are in an apartment complex leased by the foundation. In a lovely setting of trees, the homes are furnished with furniture that the volunteers have provided.

The boys home, a private residence, is also well furnished, even to the extent of having a pool table.

The volunteer women from the nine foundation units have birthday parties for the youngsters as well as parties on the holidays. Some of the teenagers are taken on camp-outs in the summer, and camping gear is needed for some of them. Many of the girls sew. Materials are needed as well as needles and yarn for knitting and crocheting, they say.

The Marin Foundation underwrites $10,000 for the support of the homes. To raise this money, the various chapters have individual fund-raising events and an all-unit function will be held later this month.

Annual events for the chapters are a fizz party by Driftwood Unit; wine tasting, dinner and dance and silent auction, and brunch, Green Oaks; game day and luncheon, Toyon; tea and Christmas card sale, Madrone; barn dance and dinner, Millwood; bridge luncheon, Sycamore; dinner dance and rummage sale, Baywood; bridge luncheon, Acacia; and Mai Tai party, Oleander.

On March 27 the annual "Country Auction" will be held at the Corte Madera Recreation Center beginning at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Joseph Christopher is president of the Marin Foundation.

The women volunteers' financial, social and active support demonstrate to the youngsters the community's acceptance of them as part of the community even though they have problems in adapting, it was stated by members of the staff at the group homes.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

Marin Women

Teen Diet

In the active world of teenagers adequate diets often are forgotten. Six out of ten teenage girls and four out of ten teenage boys have poor diets because of their eating habits. Among the reasons for these improper diets are: skipping breakfast, eating nutritionally poor snacks, believing that eating makes one fat and considering outside activities more important than eating.

Snack Generation

One-fourth of the average teenager's calories come from snacks. Most of these adolescents are reported to consume one to three snacks a day. The quality of these snacks could be improved. Meat, fruit and vegetables are delicious and wholesome snacks for teens.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Boyfriend And Dog Growl And Bicker — One Has To Go

DEAR HELEN:

I am a woman living alone. I have a dog and a boy friend. I like them both, but they don't like each other. When the three of us are alone, all they do is growl and bicker and this makes me miserable.

One has got to go. Which should I get rid of and which should I keep? My dog was here first. — H. A. P.

DEAR H:

This relationship needn't "go to the dog." Why not consign him to the garage or back yard and get on with your romance? After all, a dog doesn't expect the run of the house every minute, does he? (And if you answer "Yes" — goodbye boy friend — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have written the script for a sex movie — very "X." Where could I market it? — FLORRIE

DEAR FLORRIE:

Movie scripts generally sell through agents, and reputable agents seldom accept unknown writers.

Moreover, very X movies don't rely on plot, and use more strip than script. Sorry I can't be more encouraging. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I found a nickel in the road and I used it for a stamp to send this letter. The extra penny was about all we had in the house.

My wife and I have been married 40 years and have shared our poverties together, but now we may have to part because we only have $122.50 a month to live on and it isn't enough. We love each other too much for that.

Bills have piled up because of sickness and we can't work for the same reason. I'm disabled. I lost my church, and haven't been able to support us for a long time. But circumstances don't break love.

How can we stay together and not have to go into "homes"? — REV. J.C.

DEAR REV. C.:

I've sent your letter to an agency in your North Carolina city. Let's hope enough odd jobs can be found for you and your wife so that you may stay together. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband insists that the children go to bed right on the dot of 10 p.m.; be in no later than 11 on date nights, even though a dance lasts until 12; talk on the telephone seven minutes or less — any more and it gets banged down by him.

I try to show him that a little "give" makes children easier to manage, but he says "Give 'em an inch . . ."

Is it right to be so rigid? — SOFTIE,' or ANYWAY SOFTER

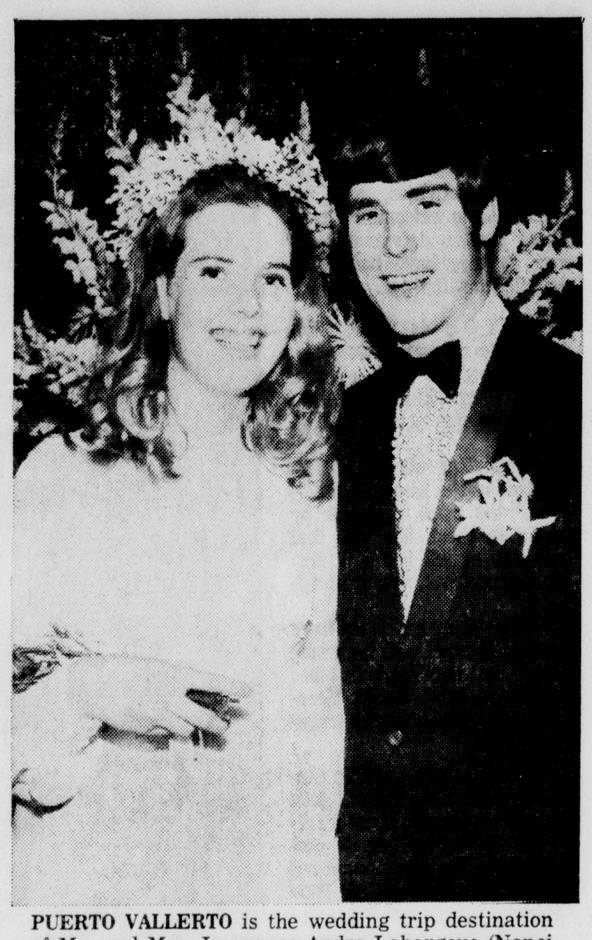
DEAR S:

Your husband is so tied up in "nots" that he's lost track of real discipline, which is: Teaching responsibility through wise decisions. "Timeclock parents" take the easy way — but it's definitely not the best. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.



PUERTO VALLERTO is the wedding trip destination of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Andre Lahargoue (Nanci Jean Nelson), who were married at the Meadow Club in Fairfax. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson of San Rafael, and the bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Betty Burgar of Greenbrae and Leon A. Lahargoue of San Rafael.

Eggs Come In Standard Sizes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Whether you realize it or not, you buy eggs by weight, not volume. The grade and the size determine prices. The U.S. Department of Agriculture sets standards for sizing: A dozen large eggs must weigh at least 24 ounces; mediums, at least 21 ounces, and smalls, at least 18 ounces.

If the price spread per dozen eggs is less than seven cents between one size and the next smaller size of the same grade, your best value is the larger size. For instance—Grade A large eggs 60 cents a dozen give you more egg for the money than Grade A mediums at 54 cents.

Camp Safety Laws Are Needed

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Like many other parents, Mitch Kurman of Westport, Conn., assumed that the camp he chose for his son would observe simple safety rules and take proper precautions for the youngsters there.

He chose a camp in upstate New York which specialized in canoe trips into New England and Canada. A few weeks after the start of camp, he got word that his son had drowned in a canoe accident in Maine.

At first, he assumed that it had been merely a matter of fate that can fall anywhere regardless of what precautions are taken. Then he decided to look further.

His investigation disclosed that the accident had happened on one of the wildest stretches of the Penobscot River and that the young counselor in charge had had a previous narrow escape on the same river. In addition, the counselor had been warned by a Forest Ranger not to challenge the Penobscot again without special safety equipment such as ropes and life preservers. The counselor had ignored these warnings.

SINCE THEN, Kurman has become a crusader for greater camp safety. And he has interested Senator Abe Ribicoff (D-Conn.) in introducing a bill which would establish a joint federal-state camp safety program. It would grant a certificate to camps that meet certain standards.

At present, there are no uniform standards, and state laws vary considerably. Nineteen states have no regulations governing any aspect of summer camps, and 46 states have no regulation governing the condition of vehicles or qualifications of drivers of camp vehicles.

That does not mean there are no standards or that most camps are not as safe as they can be. Efforts to improve safety have been made by the American Camping Association, which has some 3,400 member camps, and other groups such as scouting and church groups.

But there is no way for these groups to enforce voluntary standards. When the ACA surveyed some member camps in 1967, it found that one out of every eight failed to meet basic minimums.

THE ONLY comprehensive survey of camp safety was completed 42 years ago. It concluded that 65 percent of all camp accidents could have been prevented by better supervision or higher standards of camp maintenance and administration.

Only one-quarter of the accidents were attributed to the camper's own negligence, and half of these could have been prevented with better supervision of activities, according to the report. Many injuries were due to faulty structures, dangerous pathways and poor camp location.

It is not possible, of course, to make anything completely safe, especially anything like a summer camp for carefree youngsters. Most camps probably take as many precautions as they can under the circumstances. Camping associations are also emphasizing safety more than they have.

But there are now some 12,000 summer camps in this country serving an estimated 7 million youngsters, and the numbers are growing at an ever-increasing rate. Resident camps have tripled in ten years.

WHAT RIBICOFF and Kurman want is a set of minimum safety standards which could either be accepted or rejected by individual states. Participating states would conduct inspections to ensure compliance and then award certificates indicating that a camp meets the standards.

Although Ribicoff's bill has little chance of passage, its timing may do some good. At the very least, it may stir some parents into checking safety aspects as they prepare to choose a camp for the approaching summer.

Save The Tag

NEW YORK (UPI) — Proper laundering can increase the life of garments. One decorative way to keep care information handy is to make a hang tag bulletin board for the laundry room.

Cover a piece of fiberboard with burlap, adhesive-backed paper or some attractive material from a sewing project. Bind the edges with colored masking tape. Use a marking pen to identify each hang tag with its garment and tack to board.

Milk Taster Learns The Hard Way Not To Swallow

By JAMES M. EVANS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— Ever take a sip of milk and think to yourself, "that tastes funny?"

A lot of people have, and to reduce their number there are professional milk-tasters employed to weed out bad-tasting milk.

One such is Bill Randle of Starkville, Miss, a student at Mississippi State University and still a novice taster getting his practical experience at a local dairy.

ACCORDING TO Randle, the biggest task is to make sure that only the taste and not the substance is added to the taster's diet. In other words, don't swallow.

"After all, you don't know what you're drinking," said Randle. "That's why you test it in the first place and why it's best not to swallow.

"One day I grabbed the first two or three bottles off the line, took a big swallow and, well, swallowed. It was full of chlorine that hadn't been flushed out of the lines." I learned my lession," he said.

Bill Lloyd, head of quality control at the plant where Randle is training, said Randle, the son of a Mississippi dairy farmer, is "pretty good."

"The most important thing Bill will learn here is how to taste," said Lloyd.

HE EXPLAINED that the milk should be taken into the mouth, rolled around the tongue so that it touches all the taste buds — particularly those at the back that detect bitterness — and spit out.

He said the taster searches for the presence of wild onion and bitterweeds which include ragweed, horseweed, sneezeweed and bitter rubberweed.

"There's a slight difference in taste from season to season that we notice here but the customer never tastes," said Lloyd. "It gets to the point where you can tell what a cow's eaten on the day she was milked."

While he talked, he picked up an unlabeled sample bottle and handed it to Randle.

"Ooh, that's awful," Randle said, spitting the substance in a nearby sink. Lloyd explained that it was a quinine mixture, designed solely to test the taster.

Electric Aids

NEW YORK (UPI) — Keeping hair pretty between shampoos is no longer such a big problem, thanks to the electric beauty aids which curl, style and fluff hair. The electrically-heated curlers can set hair in seven to 15 minutes. Authorities report curlers which use dry heat work best on oily hair; curlers which set with steam are better for dry hair; some units also offer products for conditioning the hair as it is set.

Don't Throw Out Those Recipes

By SANDI GOULD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Homemakers will be able to keep their favorite family recipes and kitchen utensils if the United States adopts the metric system of weights and measures.

A member of Ohio State University's Home Economics Department says the homemaker should have little trouble adjusting to the new system.

"They will only have to deal with one simple system based on tens rather than our present complicated one of pounds-ounces and feet-inches," she said.

"Figuring of quantities and costs in the marketplace for consumers should be simplified on a system of tens in comparison to the mental exercise currently necessary to convert pounds to ounces and figure costs per unit."

DIFFICULTIES AROSE, she said, in the standardization of tools and gauges, interchangeability of machine parts, simplification of international exchange and clerks learning new sizes.

"But actually, the consumer may have it the easiest," she decided.

Dr. Fern Hunt, an associate professor at the school, did some of her own weighing and measuring on the proposal before deciding the consumer would have the easiest part of all — if a change were made.

The Metric Study Bill in 1968 authorized the secretary of commerce to conduct a study on the feasibility of using it in the United States.

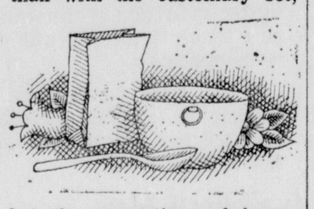
During her research, Dr. Hunt discovered a standard measuring cup has a capacity of 236.6 milliliters, equivalent to one-fourth of a quart. The "liter" under the metric system would be 250 milliliters.

"THIS WOULD mean an increase in size by just under one tablespoon and the new capacity would be one-fourth of a liter instead of one-fourth of a cup," she said.

She recommended retaining the current size relationship between the cup and the measuring spoons.

"Women wanting to continue to use presently owned recipe books and measuring equipment could do so with no problem," she said. "They could use old favorite recipes with new measuring devices if both measuring cups and spoons were in the new sizes."

She said that with the new sizes, the yield from the recipes would be just slightly larger than with the customary set,



but the proportions of ingredients would remain unchanged.

"Accuracy in measurements is still important in successful preparation of certain foods," she said, "but the precision implied by weighing ingredients is rarely necessary in the types of home cooking currently done or likely to be done in the future, particularly with the trends in popularity of packaged food mixes and other convenience food items."

Product Proliferation

A recent survey showed that 52 per cent of the food products currently on supermarket shelves were not there ten years ago; they are new products.

A New Concept In Fire Safety

The Sausalito City Council last night approved in concept a recommendation that fire alarms and added means of escape from blazes be required in new homes.

Fire Chief Charles E. Masten told the council the requirements are needed since some homes newly built on Sausalito's hills provide only one route of escape — usually over a wooden carport.

Should fire engulf the carport, he said, residents would be trapped.

He suggested requiring such homes to have aluminum or rope ladders from outboard decks or other points of exit.

Hynes, in a memorandum to the council, said alarms would add to "runaway costs" of construction and would discourage new building in the city.

However, he wrote, if the council approved such alarms, it should also set a price ceiling of about $50.

Masten, who estimated the cost of alarms at about $300, said he didn't think the cost was excessive.

"People don't have fire alarm systems in their homes, but they all have color TV's," he said, adding Sausalito suffered three fire fatalities during 1969-70.

The council, in endorsing the proposals, referred them to the city attorney, who will determine whether they should be drafted as part of the building code, as an ordinance or as a resolution.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

FIRE STATION — Heard a report from Elizabeth Phillips of the Sausalito Women's Club on plans for rededication of the remodeled fire station May 8.

PARKING — Approved a request that five perpendicular parking spaces at El Portal and Park Street be changed to four parallel spaces to provide a safer traffic flow. The spaces, like most others in the city, will be metered. Approval came on a 3 to 1 vote, Councilman Stephen A. Fraser against and Mayor Alexander R. Imlay absent.

BUILDING PLAN — Approved unanimously a resolution prohibiting further building along upper Santa Rosa Avenue until an adequate water line for firefighting is constructed.

RESTROOMS — Tabled discussion on a planning commission recommendation that restrooms be constructed at city parking lot 1, pending further discussion with the Golden Gate Bridge District on plans for a central ferry terminal.

RECYCLING — Authorized a letter to Whole Systems Inc., currently under contract with the City of Mill Valley to provide collection services for materials for recycling, expressing interest for such service in Sausalito.

NOISE REDUCTION — Agreed to discuss at its March 16 meeting the planting of trees, either by the state or city, along Highway 101, to act as a noise buffer for highway sounds.

Nine Marinites Enlist In Army

They are Donald J. Staples of 4 Warrens Way, Tiburon; John L. Morris of 40 Strawberry Circle, Mill Valley; Wesley H. Lewis of 586 Bolling Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base; Herbert G. Lyttle of Inverness, and John N. Creighton of 123 Larkspur Street, Derrick M. Dobson of 5 Lincoln Avenue, Gregory J. Ghilotti of 32 Ridgewood Drive, David F. Mohlman of 270 Arias Street and Lee E. Warner of 107 Las Flores Avenue, all of San Rafael.

Puffing Away

THE HAGUE (UPI)—Despite an increasing anti-smoking campaign, the Dutch smoked more cigarettes and cigars than ever last year. Cigarette consumption was nearly 18.7 billion, compared with 16.3 billion in 1969. The number of cigars smoked totalled 1.5 billion, against 1.29 billion the previous year.

Annexation Of Yard Is Sought

Novato Sanitary District directors approved an application to the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission for approval of the proposed annexation of the City of Novato corporation yard to the sanitary district.

The property adjoins the district sewage treatment plant, according to Charles Joseph, district engineer-manager.

The board, which met Monday, also approved a state Water Resources Control Board contract with the district for an $85,000 study of Northern Marin and Southern Sonoma sewage planning.

The Novato district will be contracting agency for the survey involving seven public agencies, and will contribute $19,500 of the cost. The state will pay $30,000, Joseph said.

It also voted to hire consultants Jenks and Adamson for an $850 study of treatment plant expansion needed if the district decides to serve developers in the San Antonio Creek watershed on the Marin-Sonoma County line.

Khan Recovering

New City Quarters Urged In Tiburon

Tiburon has outgrown its leased city hall and should begin looking for new quarters immediately, the city council has decided.

Acting City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the council learned Monday that the city's lease on the building at 80 Main Street, owned by Frederick G. Zelinsky, expires July 1 and the landlord must be notified by May 1 if the city wishes to renew the agreement.

"There is no question that the city has outgrown" the building, Kleinert said, but there is no time to find new quarters. He recommended that the lease be renewed for three years and a search be made for another building.

The council, however, decided that Mayor Denis T. Rice and Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood should investigate the matter and return at the council's March 22 meeting with a recommendation.

If the lease on Zelinsky's building is renewed, Kleinert said, the rent will go up from $575 to $700 a month.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

PLAN — Recommended, at the request of the Association of Bay Area Governments, that the nine Bay Area counties be assessed to pay for a proposed regional ocean coastline plan.

CABLE TV — Reduced a performance bond required of Cable TV of Marin from $20,000 to $5,000 because the firm serves only a small portion of the city.

LANES — Accepted deeds for two lanes, one between Hilary Drive and Del Mar School and the other near Marinero Circle, which the city acquired in a tax sale.

CARS — Heard on first reading an ordinance to make technical changes in the ordinance providing for removal of abandoned vehicles. The changes are required by the Legislature.

PLANNER — Took no action on a proposal to hire an interim planning director to replace Wayne E. Moody, who has resigned.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to a meeting with the Belvedere city council Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Reed School to consider a report by the joint balanced transportation committee on future alignment of Tiburon Boulevard.

Minority Group Hits Majority First Time

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The number of minority group students in the Los Angeles City School District has surpassed the 50 per cent mark for the first time in the district's history.

A survey by the state Department of Education shows minority group students totaled 50.2 per cent. This compares with 48.4 per cent last year.

Rapid Recovery Of Economy Is Doubted In Poll

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Businessmen are beginning to feel that the economy is coming out of a slump but the results of a government survey of spending plans to not point to a very rapid recovery.

The Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission said Monday the business community plans to increase its investment in plant and equipment by 4.3 per cent this year. The planned expansion was substantially more than the 1.5 per cent increase for the year projected in a similar survey three months earlier, but it still would be the smallest growth in plant and equipment spending since 1968.

The 1970 increase was 5.5 per cent and the 1969 figure was 11.5 per cent.

Judge Rejects Angela's Motion

By MARY LEYDECKER

Angela Y. Davis lost a bid yesterday to move her court proceedings from a 104-seat Hall of Justice courtroom to the larger Board of Supervisors chambers.

In denying the request by Miss Davis's lawyers, Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court said that he doubted there existed "some sort of a numerical standard that guarantees a public trial."

The defense attorneys had argued that since 60 seats in the courtroom have been set aside for press and more for plain clothesmen, there were very few left for friends and supporters of the black militant woman.

The judge noted that there were about 20 empty seats in the courtroom yesterday but said he thought there would probably be more interest in the case as it progressed.

The judge also said he had "a deep conviction that this is a court proceeding and ought to be held in a courtroom."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., who is prosecuting Miss Davis and San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy stemming from the August shoot-out at the Hall of Justice, argued that the present setup protects Miss Davis.

In a written answer to the defense motion, Harris said that leading her from the jail to the courtroom through a private corridor "assures her she will not share the fate of Lee Harvey Oswald."

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that "no one had stopped to think that the Board of Supervisors might want to use their own chambers" next Tuesday when the next court date for Miss Davis and Magee is set.

(Tuesday is the supervisors' regular meeting day.)

He also said that to get Miss Davis to the supervisors' chambers in the administration wing of the Civic Center would involve taking her "through 900 linear feet of public corridors" and using public elevators. He also pointed out that the largest wall of the supervisors' chambers is "sheer glass and has eight doors."

Convict Magee, heavily chained, was brought over from San Quentin for yesterday's court appearance and his two newest court-appointed attorneys asked to withdraw from the case.

Judge Wilson refused the request of Robert D. Carrow and Robert Y. Bell but said they could renew their motion next Tuesday before visiting Judge William McMurray, a retired Inyo County Judge who has been assigned to the case.

Magee, who has insisted from the outset that he wants to be his own attorney, was removed from the courtroom yesterday when he loudly asked to be, saying he didn't want to listen to "all this sickness" while Judge Wilson was talking.

Although he was removed from the courtroom, he still had to listen to the remaining proceedings which were broadcast into an adjoining holding cell.

At the close of yesterday's hearing, which was attended mainly by reporters and a few of Miss Davis's supporters, there were cries of "Free Angela" to which Miss Davis shouted back, "Free Ruchell Magee."

Her supporters said they are recruiting persons from all over the state to attend next Tuesday's session.

Lab Equipment Is Recovered

Laboratory and photographic equipment valued at $150 was taken between 4 p.m. Friday and 9:40 a.m. yesterday from the San Rafael Military Academy, but was recovered at a nearby church, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Two unidentified girls reported a possible bomb in a cardboard box at the Church of Christ Science at 1618 Fifth Avenue to John Lincoln Shepherd of the Church. He reported finding a box full of equipment to police.

Board To Seek Legal Advice

The Laguna School District board has decided to consult an attorney in an effort to end a squabble with the Laguna Parent-Teacher Association.

Board clerk Donald Moreda said the P-TA has demanded the return of a long list of school items it claims to have donated.

Moreda said there has been friction between the association and the school because those who control the P-TA have moved from the tiny district. "It is just plain orneriness," he said.

Items in dispute include tables, chairs and other school equipment, Moreda said.

Quentin Stabbings Force General Inmate Lockup

Most of San Quentin's 3,250 inmates were locked in their cells today after Warden Louis S. Nelson ordered a "cooling off period" to halt the wave of stabbings that injured five prisoners in 24 hours.

A search of men lined up for dinner last night produced seven knives carried by six inmates, Assoc. Warden James W. L. Park reported today. Five other knives were discovered on the ground nearby, apparently thrown away by convicts when they learned they would be searched, Park said.

Warden Nelson ordered the general lockup at 2:10 p.m. yesterday, 10 minutes after inmate Robert Sconyers was stabbed in the chest, arm and back in the prison's education area. Three other inmates, whom Park would not name, were held as suspects in the stabbing.

At 12:10 p.m., inmate Arthur J. Golia, 27, was stabbed in the stomach and back. He was reported in "good" condition today after extensive surgery. Park said one suspect was in custody.

Earlier yesterday, two former motorcycle gang members, Frank D. Tubach, 28, and Douglas R. Spencer, 26, were treated for cuts suffered at 7:40 a.m. after breakfast, in the South cell block. No weapon was found, nor was any suspect in custody.

Park said the wave of stabbings was launched at 4 p.m. Monday when Wayne Dennis Early, 24, was stabbed in the back three times in the east cell block.

Monday's stabbing "was not a racial thing," Park declared, even though the victim was black and the suspect a Chicano. However, the associate warden explained, "hotbloods made it a racial thing" in the later stabbings.

He denied that Sunday's stabbing of Death Row inmate Million L. McShane had any connection with the wave of knifings in the main sections of the prison. The fact that the weapon believed used against McShane had been found in the cell of another Death Row inmate, Leo Estrada Robles, was discounted by Park. "What Leo Robles does really isn't reflected in the mainline, nor does what happens in Death Row" connect with the trouble in the rest of the prison, Park held.

Park said he felt Warden Nelson's lock-up order was essential to provide "an information and cooling off period" for the inmates. He explained the convicts had been disturbed "by rumors and confusion." The prison's uncensored inmate radio station KSQ carried messages from inmate leaders and news of the stabbings for several hours last night, Park reported.

The lock-up will continue "only a few more days," Park said. Guards will conduct a thorough search for weapons during the confinement, he said.

He said the prisoner's restiveness was increased by seeing another inmate wheeled across the yard on a stretcher just before the last stabbing. The man had been hurt in an industrial accident, Park said, but he had no details on name or condition of the injured man.

The prison's west block, housing "stable" inmates "operated normally last night" and inmates with essential jobs were performing their tasks outside the cellblocks today, Park reported.

Bales Picks Peter Evans For Staff

Peter W. Evans, 26, of San Anselmo, has been appointed to the staff of Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, Bales announced yesterday.

Evans was sworn in as a deputy district attorney, succeeding Gary Ragghianti who resigned last month to enter private practice.

The new deputy is a native of Pennsylvania. He received a Bachelor's degree from Lehigh University in Pennsylvania and a law degree last June from the University of Southern California.

Evans and his wife, Sharon Linda, live at 28 Fern Lane.

Marin College Board Meeting Is Cancelled

The workshop session to continue planning education programs at the proposed north campus has been reset for March 23 at 8 p.m. at the College of Marin testing office.

Approval For Plan On Shopping Center

Final plans for a $2 million shopping center at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue in Larskpur won 4-to-0 endorsement last night from the city's planning commission.

Proposed by SDC Inc. of Corona Del Mar, San Diego County, the controversial project, which includes a 23,000-square-foot Alpha Beta supermarket, will be considered in April by the city council.

According to John W. Appleton, planning director, developers last night told the commission the supermarket is planned for a November opening.

SDC has been fighting for more than a year for city approval of its proposal which also includes five to eight satellite shops and stores and a service station.

The service station, however, is not planned for construction until after city improvements to the Doherty Drive-Magnolia Avenue intersection. Those improvements are expected during fiscal 1971-72 Appleton said.

Commission Chairman Robert H. Lee, who has opposed the project because it will be located on land slated for residential use in the general plan, was absent last night.

In granting final design review to the Larkspur Square, the proposed name for the center, the commission directed final landscape and sign plans be submitted for consideration.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

ORDINANCE — Recommended the city council approve an ordinance amendment limiting uses in C-2, general commerical zones. The proposed amendment permit uses such as retail shops and stores, offices and public services, but would require use permits for such uses as gas stations, car lots, theaters and drive-in restaurants, currently not requiring use permits.

TIME CHANGE — Introduced an ordinance amendment to change the time in which the commission is required to act on plans submitted for architectural review. The commission currently must act within 40 days of submission, but the proposed amendment would begin the time limit from the date of the first hearing.

LOT SPLIT — Approved the concept of a lot split for property owned by A. V. Girot, 62 Briar Road, prior to the property's annexation to the city.

AGENDA — Requested the staff to begin allocating blocks of time for matters on meeting agendas.

Another Foe To Petaluma Sewer Vote

The proposed $2 million Petaluma Sewer bond election gained another foe last night when the directors of the East Petaluma Civic Association agreed to oppose it.

President Marvin Hale said the directors felt that Petaluma needs more planning before permitting more growth that the sewer plant expansion would bring.

The Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association Monday night went on record as opposing the sewer bonds and also called for better planning.

The Petaluma City Council has tentatively called for the election on June 8.

Brothers Hurt In Cycle Crash

Two Corte Madera brothers were treated yesterday at Marin General Hospital for injuries sustained when the motorcycle they were riding collided with an auto near the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

The hospital said Frank Zonsa, 19, of 32 Edison Avenue, was treated for a cut scalp while his brother Gary, 18, driver of the cycle, was treated for a bruised right thigh.

Officers said the two were injured at 3:15 p.m. while traveling west on Tamalpais Avenue. Their bike collided with an eastbound auto turning left at Madera Boulevard. Driver of the auto, Bruce Otto Jackson, 35, of 1075 Acme Court, Novato, was not injured, officers said.

Reed Issue On 'Sounding Board'

The proposed recall of chairman Gordon C. Wright of the Reed School District board will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Panel members will be Wright; Robert D. Hayes, member of the Committee for Quality Education, which supports Wright, and Richard L. Goff and Kenneth Rosenthal, two members of a committee seeking Wright's recall.

Listeners may phone in questions during the live broadcast tomorrow. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

DRUGS IN THE CLASSROOM: Is Dyslexia A Disease?

By ARNOLD ARNOLD
(Third of six articles)

A 1968 committee of medical and reading experts was appointed by the then secretary of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, to study the problem of dyslexia, a supposedly common disorder among children that causes severe reading difficulties.

The committee met for one whole year, at a cost of $145,000, but was unable to agree even on a definition of the word dyslexia. Members could not agree on a diagnosis, on causes or cures, but they did agree that children's reading failures were mostly due to poor teacher training and to inadequate schools, proposing $54 million of further research into these and related problems.

However, Drs. Sam D. Clements and John E. Peters, among others, have few doubts about the causes and cure of dyslexia. They head the children's clinic at the University of Arkansas Medical School and attribute dyslexia to minimal brain dysfunction (MBD) and associate it with hyperkinesis, disruptive, overly aggressive and inattentive behavior in children. These doctors don't hesitate to prescribe Ritalin and amphetamines to treat this disorder. They suggest, in a lengthy article in one of the American Medical Association's journals, that these drugs enable primary grades children to overcome dyslexia and to learn to read.

DYSLEXIA HAS a nice, scientific ring to it. It has served to gloss over many reasons for the reading failures of children. On the basis of existing research it is highly unlikely that more than two to five percent of the total child population suffers physiological disorders that make reading difficult to learn. Still, some of the advocates of the MBD diagnosis and amphetamine treatment of pre-adolescent children claim that about 30 per cent of poverty children are so afflicted and that a large but unstated number of others suffer similar disabilities.

Doctors Clements and Peters define the child who suffers MBD and dyslexia as one who 'seems bright; he is quiet and obedient, but daydreams and can't read. (Or) he is high-strung and nervous; his attention is hard to hold. (Or) he has frequent temper outbursts, sometimes for no apparent reason. He won't concentrate for more than a few minutes at a time... He lacks self-control... He does not work to capacity; he is not learning to read or to work with numbers, but has a good vocabulary and uses words correctly."

These catch-all diagnoses and treatment, the vague but precise-sounding terminology, and the certainty with which dangerous drugs are dispensed on the basis of inadequate evidence, is farily typical of the general approach to drug-medicated behavior control and drug-assisted learning.

MANY OF OUR children, schools, parents and the various governmental agencies that deal with education are faced with complex and difficult problems. It is easy to be seduced into treating individual symptoms, while ignoring all others, to believe in wholesale cures for social, psychological or physical disorders, using methods or drugs that are unproved or inadequately tested. In the case of MBD, hyperkinesis and dyslexia, the use of amphetamines and similar drugs may appear to alleviate superficial symptoms. But neither the drug company, nor the medical literature has pointed out that the great majority of pre-adolescent children react identically as adults to these drugs. On the contrary, much of the literature claims a "paradoxical" effect — that children below the ages of 12 or 13 are calmed, rather than "pepped-up" by these pills. This is simply untrue, except for a few of the children who really suffer from minimal brain damage.

Indiscriminate drug use, by adults, children and teen-agers, has become a major threat to health. The Congressional Select Committee on Crime held hearings last Nov. 18 on the problem of amphetamine use in the U.S. More than three billion dosages of these drugs are manufactured each year, while the scientific research shows that legitimate prescriptions would call for fewer than 100,000 doses. In all except very rare cases there is no sound medical reason for prescribing them. Their use for weight reduction, for keeping awake, for the majority of instances where they are used for behavior control, or for kicks, are considered extremely hazardous and addictive.

The "Right to Privacy" hearings of the Congressional Subcommittee on Government Operations of Sept. 29, 1970, uncovered some of the abuses of the MBD and hyperkinesis diagnosis and behavior modification in the classroom through drug use.

Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., in his opening statement, said that he had found evidence that "creatively gifted children" are given amphetamines in schools in order to control them, and because of a lack of facilities to keep them interested in the classroom. The myth of the "paradoxical effect" of amphetamines on pre-puberty children has encouraged their being turned on so that they sit quietly enjoying their euphoria, listening to a different drummer, while the teacher drones on.

The National Institute of Mental Health supports nine different studies concerning MBD, hyperkinesis and amphetamine treatment. But only one, at Harvard University, concerns the long-range effects of these drugs.

MANY CAUSES can contribute to reading failure in children. But perhaps the most important ones, overlooked by many who investigate such problems, are the general climate at home and in school that turns many children away from activity, speech, participation, communication, and interaction. These are the prerequisites for a curiosity about books and for wanting to learn to read. No drug, no TV program, and no amount of pseudoscience are going to make up for predominantly social and cultural deficits. On the contrary, they tend to perpetuate these very failures by obstructing the required intervention by parents and teachers.

Unquestionably, as science probes deeper into the biochemical and physiological workings of the human brain, it will be able to explain better how children learn. Some of these findings may eventually help in the development of new teaching and learning. But none of these discoveries is likely to replace support from a healthy, activity and curiosity provoking environment.

Simple Approach Helps Curb Truancy Problem

Truancy — along with drugs and vandalism — has become a major problem in high schools.

It is not new, of course. Almost any old-timer can (if he wishes) recall some times when he cut classes to go fishing, watch a ball game, or just "goof off." But its incidence has increased markedly in recent years, causing much concern among school people, as well as parents.

AN INDICATION of that concern is the fact that class-cutting is among the topics scheduled for discussion at a "town meeting" tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the San Rafael High School cafeteria, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

The problem has increased this year at San Rafael High because of adoption of "modular scheduling" which gives students free time in chunks of assorted sizes. It is difficult for the faculty to keep track of the students who are on free time — and next to impossible to determine whether students loafing around the campus or in the neighborhood are supposed to be in class or are having a "free module."

It is a problem, however, by no means unique to San Rafael. Other Marin high schools report high incidence of class cutting, as do those in other counties and other states.

IN SACRAMENTO, it got so bad that the police department inaugurated a pickup drive under the euphemism of "Sacramento Truancy Education Project."

As described in the Sacramento Bee, the program is simplicity itself:

"Three squad cars with two policemen in each are assigned to a specific area to check juveniles seen away from schools between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on week days... Juveniles picked up for truancy are taken to a field office... for counseling by a juvenile division officer and a school official. No juvenile is to be arrested, a spokesman said, unless there is no other alternative."

THE CAMPAIGN started March 1. On the first day, police picked up 20 youngsters. Five were found to be legitimately on the streets; the other 15 were truants from school. And of those 15, eight had misdemeanor records and five had felony records.

This high percentage of delinquents with crime records bore out the police belief that truants were responsible for many daylight burglaries and thefts.

The Sacramento experiment might well be applied in Marin. It would need the cooperation of schools with the police. Since the truancy problem is of concern to both, this should not be hard to get.

Russian Regime Needs Jews As Objects Of Discrimination

WASHINGTON — There is little prospect that the Soviet Russian regime is going to stop persecuting the three million Jews it holds in its viselike grip.

The anger and pain of world Jewry have been mounting, the Jews within Russia have dared to engage in sit-ins in Soviet passport offices, and much of the free world has joined the protest.

But there is no evidence to suggest that there will be any significant change.

ONE REASON is that the Russian leaders have always shown a disdain for world opinion whenever they wanted to flout it. Stalin's callous quip is a case in point: "How many divisions has the Pope?" It was on the eve of the world conference of neutralist nations, which Moscow was cultivating for propaganda purposes, that the Kremlin openly violated its own pledge not to test nuclear weapons in the atmosphere. And the Russians did not hesitate to alienate most of the Communist parties and leaders outside the USSR by invading Czechoslovakia in 1968.

There is a more powerful reason why persecution of the Jews is so persistent and so pervasive in Russia. Persecution is indigenous to dictatorships. It is the automatic response of dictatorships to any evidence of fearless individualism. Dictatorial government is always fearful and the Soviet dictatorship is terribly afraid of the Jews — afraid to yield them cultural and religious liberty and simultaneously afraid to let them leave the USSR.

The Berlin wall is the very symbol of Communism's fear of its own people.

IT IS NOT surprising that the Nazi invaders of Russian territory in World War II soon found faithful followers in the occupied areas, especially among the Ukrainians, who helped them carry out their crimes against the Jews.

The Nazy anti-Semitic creed fell on fertile Russian soil.

IN RUSSIA TODAY the Jews are not even allowed equal discrimination. There is special discrimination against them which does not apply similarly to other minorities.

Other religions in Russia are allowed a national organization. Not the Jewish religion. Training of rabbis is kept at an inadequate level, and except for the show-window of Moscow, not more than one synagogue is allowed in the cities with large Jewish populations. There are few Jewish books and newspapers.

The heroic role of the Jews as soldiers fighting against the Nazis is wiped from the face of official literature and when individual Jews proudly wear their military decorations they are taunted by such remarks as, "Where did you buy them?"

ARIE L. ELIAV, who was born in Russia and is now a member of the Israeli parliament and deputy minister of immigrant affairs, points out in his revealing book, "Between Hammer and Sickle," that the central thrust of Soviet repression is to prevent Russian Jews from "acting in unison." They must continue to live, he writes, as "isolated, scattered individuals in a state of total disorganization and disintegration." And now, he concludes, the regime is setting out "to eliminate the final remnant — religion."

Why? Why are the Russian Communists so fearful of the three million Russian Jews? Why doesn't the regime spew out the Jews and thus rid itself of what it deems a dangerous poison.

Can there be any doubt that, despite a few token visas to try to hush up the Jews, the answer is: Fear — fear that if they let the Jews leave Russia, the pressure by others to leave will become irresistible? The Jews are needed by the Soviet regime because of their talents. They are hated but useful. The Kremlin would prefer to be rid of them but doesn't dare open the dike of immigration more than the merest crack.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Phosphates Not The Sole Villains

The goal of clean water is essential, but the proposed methods of achieving it are conflicting and often misunderstood.

1. Phosphates are not toxic to people, plants or fish.
2. Phosphorus is one of 19 nutrient elements essential to the growth of algae and aquatic plants.
3. Over 50 per cent of phosphates come into lakes and streams from human and industrial wastes, a great per cent from agricultural drainage, less than 17 per cent from soaps and detergents.
4. Even if phosphates were removed from detergents, there would still be more phosphorus to support excessive algae grwoth.

With public pressure on detergent manufacturers to remove phosphates from laundry compounds, are we aware of the substitutes being used? There are some no phosphate products on the market today with 60 per cent washing soda in them. This could cause increased alkalinity in the waters upsetting the ecological balance by killing the micro-organisms upon which the higher forms of life depend for food. Other substitutes are up to 40 per cent table salt, it has no detergent action it is merely an inert additive or bulk fiber. This could also cause corrosion of washing machines. I know of only a few products using better substitutes for phosphates, mainly because they are costly and hard to get.

Go back to soap?

1. A complete conversion to soap for household and commercial cleaning would be impossible because the soap industry animal-fat requirement would exceed the world supply.
2. Soap has a major drawback, it reacts with the hardness minerals in water to form lime soap or soap curd . . .

The only real solution to controlling nutrients going into our waters is advanced sewage treatment facilities that can remove all household, municipal and industrial sources of all nutrients. Citizens must be made aware that advanced waste treatment facilities, although expensive are essential.

Mississippi May Be Next To Elect Moderate Governor

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

JACKSON, Miss. — Early predictions are that this year even Mississippi will join the procession of southern states which have newly elected moderate Democrats as governors. The prospect is certain to make George Wallace of next-door Alabama feel more and more lonely as he considers another presidential outing in 1972.

If today's expectations are fulfilled and Lt. Gov. Charles Sullivan moves up to governor, the state will be taking a clear step away from the racially regressive administration of Gov. John Bell Williams.

Seven months, a court ruling on Mississippi's new free-for-all primary system, and the emergence of other major candidates all lie between now and the first voting. However, individual politicians of every stripe and more objective political authorities in the Delta, the capital and south Mississippi agree that as of now Sullivan is the probable next governor.

THE HATCHET-FACED voluble lieutenant governor, a lawyer from the Delta town of Clarksdale, has metamorphosed in more than a decade of Mississippi politics from an earlier attitude of defiance toward the national Democratic Party.

He was involved in at least one bolt by the Mississippi delegation from a national party convention.

In 1960 he chastised Sen. James O. Eastland for supporting the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, and this is part of the reason for a widely alleged enmity between the two Mississippians which may become of critical importance to Sullivan's current ambitions.

But since then Sullivan has run twice for statewide office. He was out-bigoted for governor by Paul B. Johnson in 1963, but then beat Johnson for lieutenant governor in 1967. In 1964 he lay low rather than come out for Barry Goldwater as so many other Deep South politicians did. He had conversations with the emerging Mississippi Republican Party, but decided to remain a Democrat.

He lay low again in 1968, although this part of the world was afire for Wallace. In fact, when Hubert Humphrey visited the University of Mississippi early that year, Sullivan was the only state officeholder to show up and welcome him.

Beyond that, he has made it clear that he believes public schools must survive despite court-ordered desegregation and that he thinks the private white "academies" founded to avoid integrated public schools are a temporary phenomenon.

IT IS ASSUMED he will be opposed by at least one right-wing segregationist and quite possibly on the other flank by Charles Evers, the black mayor of Fayette. In such a division, Sullivan would pull a few black votes plus the broad middle of the white vote and win.

But a law passed by the state legislature last year causes analysts here to hedge their forecasts and other candidates to hang back.

That law provides that all cancidates runon a single "primary" ballot in October. The first-and-second place finishers, regardless of party, would then oppose each other in the November general election.

Evers and others have challenged this law as discriminatory and are awaiting a ruling on it. So are all the rest of Mississippi's politicians.

Legislature Distorts Meaning Of Democracy

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It might be profitable to consult your dictionary once and awhile to get some indication as to whether the passage of the years has bought major changes to the meaning of certain words in every-day usage.

"Democracy — The political system in which government is directly exercised or controlled by the people, collectively."

This is the definition in the Funk & Wagnalls published in 1913, or 58 years ago, which I happen to own as an heirloom handed down by my grandfather.

The definition in the modern Webster's dictionary is not much different:

"Democracy — Government by the people; a form of government in which the supreme power is lodged in the hands of the people collectively."

It can, therefore, be seen readily that the meaning of cemocracy has not changed in substance in the past half century, even if the California Legislature has changed it in practice by denying some of the people the right to a forum.

On the flimsy excuse that discussion of the crucial subject of welfare would provide Gov. Ronald Reagan with the backdrop for a political show, the Democrats, ruling legislature party, refused to allow the chief executive of the state the privilege of addressing a joint session of the legislature on welfare reform.

As a result, the governor sought and obtained access to the people that elected him to high office through the medium of a speech to a private club in Los Angeles, which was brought to the people by the communications media.

Thus, nothing was lost by the legislature's picayunish harassment of the governor as far as getting information to the people is concerned, but on the other hand, much was lost in the integrity of the legislature and its responsibility to the people in the maintenance of a democratic government, by the people collectively.

One excuse used for denying the governor the right of expression was that the welfare reform bills were not before the legislature, and therefore, discussion was not in order.

It might be pointed out that the subject of welfare is probably the number one subject before the people at present, and whether specific bills are before the legislature or not makes no difference in attempt to solve the problem now threatening to send California into a state of bankruptcy.

Novato Hospital Gets Good Marks For Friendly Service

Recently I spent some time in Novato General Hospital. This was my second stay in the same hospital in the past 10 years. The changes were quite noticeable.

In the intervening years, the hospital has about doubled in number of beds. It has also added such things as an intensive care unit, more operating and X-ray facilities, and a new emergency room.

This is all very good because it is the only hospital so equipped in North Marin.

There is a difference in hospitals. Marin General is tax-supported. Kaiser Foundation Hospital is supported by the Kaiser Health Plan. Novato General Hospital is completely private.

MILTON SCOTT, the hospital's manager, said, "If we don't serve the community and get the business, we don't exist."

In the years between my two visits, some of the help had changed, of course. But there were many familiar faces there.

The aim of the nurses, nurses aides and volunteers is to make a person's stay as comfortable and friendly as possible. They all take a personal interest in the patients. I am not familiar with too many other hospitals, but Novato's is the most friendly that I have been in.

I am not alone in this viewpoint. After I was out of the hospital, I was talking with a San Anselmo woman who had been rushed to Novato General Hospital in an emergency.

"I didn't know that there were that many nurses in Novato," she said describing her first impression of the hospital. She went on to say that it was the friendliest and most efficient hospital she had ever been in.

"Whenever I wanted or needed anything, the nurses were right there with scarcely any waiting," she said.

IT MAY BE DUE partly to my advancing age, but it did seem that the nurses were prettier this time than last. Even those who had been there when I was there before, seemed younger. The new nurses I know were picked from beauty contestants.

Laying the jokes aside, it is good to go to a hospital when one needs it, and it is equally as good to leave it when one no longer needs it. I can heartily recommend Novato General Hospital because the employees there seem to try a little harder. They not only want to make the patient feel better, but want to make the only hospital in North Marin a going concern.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

School Costs Inflated By Arson, Vandalism

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Insurance premiums for California school districts last year were almost double those of five years earlier, yet the insurance they got did not cover many smaller losses that were covered in 1965 policies.

This year, the school districts are paying still more for insurance, and getting a great deal less coverage.

Until this year, San Diego Unified School District had complete, no-deductible fire and property damage coverage. But for this year its insurers would write only a policy with $50,000 deductible. In other words, any fire or other damage below $50,000 must be paid for by the taxpayers.

In San Francisco Unified School District, the deductible has risen from $1,000 in 1967 to $100,000 for this year. In Pasadena Unified School District, it went from $1,000 last year to $100,000 this year. Similar increases have hit most of the big districts, and less-sensational but still very large ones have hit smaller California districts. And the premiums have been increased at the same time coverage has been decreased.

THE REASONS: arson, vandalism, burglary.

Gordon Trigg, administrative consultant to the Los Angeles Unified School District, told a state Senate education sub-committee last December that his district lost $2.1 million to these causes last school year. This, he said, was in spite of an increase from 15 to 104 in its security staff and installation of more burglar alarms.

Figures collected by Warren, McVeigh and Associates, risk management consultants, for a report just submitted to the legislature's budget committee showed that California school districts had physical losses (insured and uninsured) of $5,858,000 in the 1965-66 school year, and of $10,908,000 in the 1969-70 school year. In the same period, their insurance premiums went up from $5,711,000 to $10,833,000 — and more of the losses became uninsurable.

During this five-year period, fire losses approximately doubled, as did window breakage and other vandalism, according to the firm's figures. Theft losses nearly tripled. But wind losses — insurable but caused by nature rather than man — increased less than 40 per cent, or about equal to the inflation in replacement costs.

WARREN, McVEIGH and Associates proposed that the state set up its own insurance pool to insure the schools, requiring full coverage — which the insurance companies now refuse — as a way to force the districts into it. Experience in other states has shown this would reduce the cost to the school districts (i.e., their taxpayers), the consultant firm said.

It would not, however, reduce the damage.

Various explanations have been put forward for the alarming increase in thefts, arson and vandalism at the schools. They range from blaming the whole thing on the Vietnam War, with the rationale that violence there breeds violence here, to blaming it all on weak-spined school administrators (the Los Angeles schools expelled only 59 of their more than 400,000 students in the 1969-70 school year, that same Senate subcommittee was told).

ONE WAY to reduce vandalism was discovered more-or-less accidentally at Banneker School in Gary, Ind., after its operation was taken over on a performance contract by Behavioral Research Laboratories of Palo Alto.

BRL dismissed about a third of the teachers, but brought in more than that many parents from the neighborhood as "learning supervisors" to assist the certificated personnel.

An immediate fringe benefit, according to Allen Calvin, chairman of the board of BRL, was a dramatic drop in vandalism. His explanation was simple:

The $5 million increase in California school districts' annual insurance costs that has come about in the last five years, plus the additional millions spent because of damage that no longer is insurable, would pay a lot of "learning supervisors."

Trial Set For Burglary Pair

William Frederick O'Bayley, 23, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to charges of burglary and possessing stolen property.

A codefendant, Robert Louis Arnett Jr., 22, of San Rafael previously pleaded innocent to the charges.

Trial was set for the week of March 29.

Two Senators For D.C. Being Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia two senators and as many House members as its population warrants.

His proposal was offered as a rider to another amendment which would drop the voting age to 18 in all state and local elections. The district currently is allowed a nonvoting delegate to the House, the first one of which will be elected this month.

Priest Urges Pot Law Reform

BOSTON (UPI)—Rep. Mimie B. Pitaro, D-Boston, the first Roman Catholic priest elected to the Massachusetts legislature, thinks laws governing the use of marijuana should be liberalized.

"There's a great deal of discussion going on and research into the effects of marijuana," he said, "But it doesn't appear to be as dangerous as hard narcotics. Young people who use it shouldn't be treated like seasoned criminals."

Pitaro has filed a bill to make possession of marijuana a misdemeanor and repeal the law making it a crime to be present where marijuana is found.

"Why should someone be guilty of a crime because of what someone else did," he asked. "It just isn't logical."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Victory Over TB Is Within Reach But Still Battle Lines

Victory over tuberculosis is within our reach but we are far from the end of the battle. Many excellent drugs and surgical procedures have hastened recovery and shortened the duration of treatment. Most tuberculosis sanatoria have many empty beds and some smaller institutions could close their doors or offer another type of service to save the taxpayer's money.

BUT THE FINEST advances are for naught unless the disease is detected early and treated promptly and vigorously. Dr. Mahfouz H. Zaki of Brooklyn made an extensive study of tuberculosis and found that today, 70 per cent of all cases are discovered in the moderately- or far-advanced stage. These individuals do not see a physician until they lose weight or develop respiratory symptoms, such as a productive cough.

The outlook is much better when TB is detected before symptoms develop. This is more likely to occur when the condition is identified via routine examinations in the hospital or physician's office, community X-ray units and other screening programs. Skin testing also is an important method of detecting early tuberculosis, especially in children.

THE DECLINE in admissions to our sanatoria stems from a fewer number of new cases. In some parts of the country isoniazid tablets are given to children and adults who have been in contact with a person with active tuberculosis. The anti-tuberculosis drug is continued for a year especially in highly susceptible groups, such as children, pregnant women, and diabetics. BCG vaccine is also used as a preventive for youngsters in high risk groups.

Better housing has played a major role in the decline of tuberculosis in this country. The disease is contagious and it is not difficult to imagine what happens in a crowded tenement when one man or woman becomes infected and exposes all the others to the malady. Improved diets also deserve some of the credit.

MOTION SICKNESS FROM TV

Mr. E. L. writes: Whenever I look at a horse race or other fast moving objects on TV, my stomach feels as tho it has jumped into my mouth. What causes this sensation?

REPLY

This is a form of motion sickness some people develop when riding on the subway, plane, or on board ship. One of the motion sickness remedies, such as Marezine or Dramamine, may be helpful. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on motion sickness.

INDOOR HUMIDITY

K.A. writes: Is it necessary to keep a pan of water on the radiators of a steam heated apartment?

REPLY

Only when indoor air is so dry the membranes of the nose, throat, and bronchi lose their resistance to colds. A well-known sign of dryness in the air is the static electricity that develops after walking over the rug, causing a spark when turning on a light.

LUMP ON EYELID

C. D. writes: What could be the cause of a hard little lump on an eyelid? I've had it for two months.

REPLY

The lump may be a tumor or a blocked gland. Conditions of these types cannot be diagnosed by mail. May I suggest that you see the ophthalmologist? There is a good chance that the lesion is innocent and can be corrected in a jiffy.

Today's Health Hint — The well-balanced diet usually cancels the need for vitamin supplements.

Reagan, Hitch Fuss Over UC's Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan says University of California President Charles Hitch is attempting to "propagandize" the public into supporting increased taxes for UC.

The governor denied his hold-the-line budget for higher education is a "pattern set for the future" and demanded that university officials make a greater stab at cutting bureaucratic "fat" and spending "excesses."

Reagan insisted at a news conference Tuesday that the nine-campus university system had "not reached the economy pinch where it hurts everybody."

Meantime, Hitch and UC officials testified before legislative budget-writing committees that Reagan's austere budget "will do basic harm to the University of California and to the people of our state."

Hitch criticized Reagan's proposed UC budget appropriation of $337 million "by far the worst budget yet" while high-level state college representatives issued similar appeals to the leislature for more funds.

The UC regents asked for an appropriation of at least $375 million. Hitch has embarked on a statewide "campaign" to recruit public and legislative support for a vastly expanded UC budget.

But Reagan told newsmen Hitch was trying to "propagandize the public into insisting on taxing itself higher to maintain the university. I don't believe that we are going to hurt the university."

The governor, who maintains his budget can be balanced without new taxes, said, "There is only one area or one way in which they can get money and that is from the people in increased taxation."

Reagan said if UC administrators "spent half as much time, effort and energy in trimming excesses in university spending ... and fat in their own bureaucracy instead of campaigning just ceaselessly for more money, I think they might be able to solve some of their problems."

"When the university can continue to worry about whether it is going to admit students while it goes ahead with a several hundred thousand dollar home for a vice president, things of this kind, it would seem that they have not yet reached the economy pinch where it hurts everybody."

The governor apparently referred to purchase of what a UC spokesman described as a $100,000 home in Berkeley for use as an "official residence" by the university senior vice president. The spokesman said the funds were contributed by private donors.

Hitch later said he was "astonished" that Reagan would criticize the purchase after raising no objection in several sessions of the board of regents" which authorized the transaction. He said the donors were commended by the board last month "without dissent" from Reagan, himself a regent.

The UC president voiced concern about the budget's potential impact on fledgling medical schools at Davis, San Diego and Irvine. Reagan noted the voters last June defeated a bond issue to provide about $250,000 for construction of medical school facilities.

Legislation proposing a similar $294 million bond issue has been introduced in the Senate and Reagan said he believed "we still have to go that route and have a bond issue on the ballot and get that money."

Fatality Free Quake Period

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Feb. 9 earthquake which killed 64 persons in Southern California ended the longest period in the past 25 years in which quakes had claimed no Americans.

According to the National Earthquake Information Center, 1970 was the fifth successive year without quake fatalities in this country despite the fact that 238 shocks were recorded in 14 states.

Cigarette Taxes To Marin Cities

Marin County will receive $4,195 and Marin's 11 cities a total of $30,563 as their share of February's cigarette taxes, according to the state controller's office. Southern Sonoma cities will receive $6,456.

In Marin, the cities and their amounts are: Belvedere, $364; Larkspur, $1,653; Ross

KPIX (5) KXTV (10), 8 p.m. — "Robert Young and the Family" is a one-hour comedy special starring Robert Young as host and narrator of a satiric yet fond look at American marriage and togetherness in the 1970s. Beau Bridges, Lee Grant, Julie Sommars, Lurene Tuttle, Jack Warden, William Windom and Dick Van Dyke are the featured guests.

KRON (4), KCRA (3), 9 p.m. — "Timex Presents Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Jack Benney — But Were Afraid to Ask" is a one-hour musical-comedy special separating Benny the man from Benny the myth with humorous sketches presenting answers to various questions about America's ageless entertainer. Lucille Ball, George Burns, Phil Harris, John Wayne and Dr. David Reuben appear among others.

School Tax Hike Seen In Cotati

The Cotati School Board said last night that two teachers will have to be cut from next year's budget and that a June 1 tax rate increase election may be necessary to halt further staff reductions.

The board said the combination of a static enrollment rate and lower income would require the elimination of the two teachers. Schools Supt. Duncan A. Coleman said that a lottery may not be necessary since two teachers were hired at mid year and are definitely lowest in seniority.

The board, urged on by the Citizens Advisory Committee and teachers, asked that preparation be made for the June 1 tax rate increase election. They said a 50 cent increase over the present rate of $2.63 per $100 assessed valuation would probably be asked.

Redwood Cagers Want More Than Consolation Prize

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Redwood High School basketball teams have won four of six games the last two years in the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum, but all the 1971 Giants need is a victory over Castlemont tomorrow night to outshine their ancestors.

Significantly, the games the Larkspur team lost in 1969 and 1970 were opening round affairs. Thus they played out their destiny in the losers' bracket, and came away both times with the consolation trophy. That has become a role all too familiar to Marin County Athletic League fans; in 1968 Tamalpais copped the consolation prize, so MCAL teams have monopolized the consolation honor three years running.

There is a certain mystique about the TOC, and especially about East Bay competition, that in the past has rattled MCAL teams into poor opening game performances. Last year against Bishop O'Dowd, of the Catholic Athletic League, the Giants played way beneath their capabilities and lost, 73-61. The year before it was the same Oakland Athletic League team they face Thursday that dished out the defeat. In that one, the score was tied with three minutes to go before Castlemont pulled it out.

Redwood coach Dick Hart doesn't see the consolation trend as a jinx. On the contrary, he says, "I just feel we can reverse the tables. We've been over there a couple of times now, and we won't be in awe.

No Marin team has ever won the TOC. In fact, only one, Drake, has ever won an opening game in the event. But Redwood, ranked No. 7 among Bay Area teams by a poll of coaches, has to be given a good chance to win the title this year. The Giants have already made their strength known to one prestigious team, TOC defending champion Berkeley, whom they beat decisively in the preseason.

At the very least, Hart's crew is even money to take Castlemont, the Bay Area's No. 6 team. "I think we have a better chance this year against them than we did two years ago," says Hart. Stalistically, Redwood has the edge with a 19-5 overall record compared to Castlemont's 13-7.

And while the Knights are markedly weaker than they were in 1969, the Giants, physically at least, are stronger. They have height they didn't have then in 6-foot-6 stars Steve McGee and Scott Trobbe and 6-foot-5 Dave Tikker. That height also means muscle, an indispensible ingredient in a tournament such as this.

Redwood asserted its strength in the MCAL with a 14-0 season, and has kept the sharp edge during the two-week layoff since the final game by practicing daily and running scrimmages. Last Friday the Giants scrimmaged Livermore High, and yesterday they took on the freshman team from the City College of San Francisco.

Should the Giants get by Castlemont, they will, in Hart's opinion, be in a good position. "I think we're in the better bracket," he says. In the Giants' bracket are, besides Castlemont,Amador, representing the East Bay Athletic League, and Hayward of the Hayward Athletic League. They are ranked 12th and fourth respectively.

The other bracket consists of Berkeley, ranked fifth and representing the Alameda Athletic League, eighth ranked St. Joseph of the Catholic Athletic League, 14th ranked Washington of San Francisco's AAA, and Lincoln of Stockton, from the Valley Oak Athletic League.

Redwood and Castlemont go at 7:30 p.m., in the third of four opening round games. St. Joseph's meets Washington at 4:30, Berkeley plays Lincoln at 6 and Amador and Hayward clash at 9.

There's Always A Local Angle

A quarter-century ago, when I was a "cub" on this Monarch of Marin's Dailies, I was constantly reminded by my boss to "always look for the local angle, son."

Well, I learned my lesson. With "local angle" stories like these: "Ted Williams, whose mother once visited a friend in Woodacre, has won the American League batting championship."

Or, "Dwight D. Eisenhower, who last year flew over Marin County en route to Hawaii, today was elected president of the United States."

Well, anyway, you get the idea that we ace reporters dig, dig, dig for the almighty local angle.

And today, my friends, to prove I haven't forgotten that lesson first implanted in my head eons ago, I have come up with another local angle to a major event, to wit: "Joe Frazier, who once trained in Marin County, retained his world heavyweight championship Monday night with a unanimous 15-round decision over Cassius Clay, otherwise known as that Ali Cat."

And it's true. In 1964 Frazier was with the U.S. team that trained for a couple of weeks at Hamilton Air Force Base for the Olympic games in Tokyo. Our Bounty County atmosphere must have agreed with Smokey Joe because he went on to win the heavyweight crown in the Olympics.

AND HERE'S another local angle for those of you who paid upwards of $10 to see the closed circuit telecast of Monday's heavyweight donnybrook: Radio KTIM sports director Bob Dinsmore was bemoaning the fact that a business trip to Seoul, Korea would deprive him of seeing the long-awaited fistic classic on closed-circuit television. "Darn it," he darned, "there's not a chance that they'll televise it to a country like Korea. I hate to miss it, but business calls."

Well, a United Press International story yesterday told us that the bout indeed was piped into Korea and that tickets to the telecast sold for 16 to 32 cents each.

Hmmm! Poor Dinsmore. Next time you see him, show him your $10 ticket stub, ask him how he liked his 16-cent seat, and punch him in the teeth for me, too!

WHAT YOUNG San Rafael businessman hit the jackpot at Golden Gate Fields last week, laying out $100 on a longshot that paid $89.20 and rewarded our mystery man with more than $4,000?

Mr. Lucky, as we shall identify the big bettor, was given a tip on this longshot and after it made him a little wealthier than he already is, he rewarded the tipster with an $850 tip.

Note to the Internal Revenue Service: I do not know the young man's identity. Really.

Marin '9' Rallies For Win

First baseman Scott Cozza singled twice to ignite and then climax a thunderous last inning rally that brought the Marin Catholic High School Wildcats five runs and a 5-4 victory over Terra Nova yesterday in a preseason baseball game in Kentfield.

In other non-league games involving Marin County Athletic League teams, the Redwood Giants opened their season with a 9-3 loss to Berkeley, Terra Linda dropped a 4-1 decision to Montgomery at Santa Rosa, San Marin was defeated by Rancho Cotate, 5-3, at the Cougars' home field in Rohnert Park, and Tamalpais was walloped by Sonoma, 8-2.

The Wildcats, who dropped their first three games of the season last week, looked like goners again as they collected no runs and only four hits through six innings, while staking Terra Nova to four unearned tallies. But they exploded for six hits in the bottom of the seventh, including a three-run double by Rich Lopez, to pull victory from the jaws of defeat.

Cozza started things off with a single, and was imitated by Dominic Pomilia and Mickey Simmons to load the bases.. Lopez then ripped his two-base blow off the centerfield wall, and moments later scored on a sacrifice fly to tie the score.

Again the Wildcats loaded the bases, on a pair of walks and an infield single by Steve Sherry, and Cozza followed with a line single to center that drove in Don Bianchini with the clincher.

Rightfielder Bob Gorman highlighted Redwood's season-opening effort with a solo home run in the fourth inning, but by that time Berkeley had scored seven times to take command. John Bass went all the way on the mound for the Yellowjackets, limiting the Giants to just three hits —Gorman's blast and singles by Steve Laden and Ray Judah.

Terra Linda didn't hit often but hit for power, as Rick Trono and Bill Berry pounded a double and triple, respectively, to account for the only two Trojan base knocks. Mike Sanderson went all the way for Terra Linda, allowing five Viking hits.

San Marin of Novato also hit poorly, managing only three hits against Rancho Cotate, and got two of its three runs by way of Cougar errors. Right fielder Ty Mayfield smashed a double

THE FIGHT

Government Big Winner

NEW YORK (UPI) —Joe Frazier, boxing's man of the hour, contemplated his future today while Muhammad Ali talked of another crack at the heavyweight title and the promoters of Monday night's bout counted the returns from closed circuit television.

Frazier, 27, was under heavy pressure from his manager and handlers to retire but already has promised Ali a return bout "at any time."

Ali, stripped of the aura of invincibility that once surrounded him but with no reason to be ashamed of his 15-round defeat at the hands of Frazier, blamed his loss on his own "clowning" in the middle rounds and predicted, "next time it will be different."

Jerry Perenchio and Chartwell Artists, the promoters of the bout, said returns from the closed circuit telecasts had passed $10-million and that they might top $20-million. Last-minute rushes for tickets were reported in many areas where closed circuit ticket sales had lagged during the fight buildup.

Even Frazier's manager and handlers would be surprised if the heavyweight champion took their advice to retire. He is believed to be receptive to a return bout in early 1972 at Jack Kent Cooke's Forum in Inglewood, Calif. It was Cooke who put up $4.5 million of the $5 million guarantee to be split between Frazier and Ali for Monday night's bout.

The thinking in Frazier's camp is (1) that a second bout with Ali this year would be unrealistic because of tax bites and (2) that Ali is the logical next opponent for Joe because George Foreman, the fast-rising former Olympic champion, is 18 months to two years away from challenging for the title.

One cloud hanging over the thinking is that Ali could be forced to serve a five-year jail sentence if he loses his Supreme Court appeal to overturn his draft evasion conviction.

Ali popped up, alive and well Tuesday afternoon in a midtown hotel, and said he thought he won "at least nine rounds." At the same time, he praised Frazier as a great slugger and offered no alibis for his defeat.

"He's (Frazier) not skillful, but he's good in his style," said Ali. "He keeps comin' at you. Boy! Joe Frazier's tough. He hits harder than anyone I ever fought. That was a helluva punch he knocked me down with. When you see me on my behind, you know that the punch must have had somethin' behind it."

Ali's right jaw was swollen but he actually looked better than Frazier, who had cuts around both eyes, inside his mouth and a swollen left cheekbone.

Reports from closed circuit television exhibitors indicated that the promotion sold well and that there were only six mechanical failures in the 350-odd theaters, auditoriums, etc., in which the telecast was viewed. All previous financial records already have been surpassed with the only question remaining, "how high is up?"

Both Frazier and Ali seemed to agree on one thing —their

Warriors' Playoff Battle Gets Tight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If the San Francisco Warriors make it to the National Basketball Association playoffs, they won't do it the easy way.

The Warriors lost Tuesday night, 134-112, to the hot-shooting Boston Celtics. With six games left to play, the Warriors hold a narrow 2 1-2 game lead over the Seattle Sonics and San Diego Rockets, who both won Tuesday night.

If the Warriors fall from their second place spot in the Pacific Division, the season will be over for them.

San Francisco will be idle today and Thursday. Then Friday night they meet the Sonics at the Cow Palace in what now turns out to be a must game.

After a contest at home against Detroit Saturday, San Francisco winds up with four road games.

John Havlicek and Jo Jo White spelled defeat for the Warriors Tuesday night. Havlicek dropped in 37 and White added 32 as each went 15-for-25 from the floor.

Nate Thurmond played a strong game for San Francisco, hitting 35 points and grabbing 13 rebounds. Jerry Lucas led the Warrior rebounders with 16 and scored 21 points.

Hapless Seals To Face Bruins

OAKLAND (UPI)—The top four scorers in the National Hockey League all play for the Boston Bruins, and they will all be in the Oakland Coliseum arena tonight.

It's not a comfortable position for the California Seals as they face the powerful Boston scorers—Phil Esposito, John Bucyk, Bobby Orr, and Ken Hodge.

The Seals are trailing the pack in the NHL West division. The Bruins are leading the East division.

If it will be of any help against the Bruins, the Seals will have a new defenseman tonight. Dick Redmond, 21, will join the club from the Minnesota North Stars.

Redmond turned out to be the "unnamed" player in a deal last month when the Seals got centerman Tommy Williams for Ted Hampson.

49ers Name New Coach For Defense

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco 49ers have named a former teammate of coach Dick Nolan to the staff as defensive backfield coach.

Don Heinrich, 47, who played with Nolan with the New York Giants, was appointed Tuesday to replace Burnie Miller, who resigned to take a job with the Houston Oilers.

Heinrich, a University of Washington All-American, has been an assistant with the New Orleans Saints for the past two seasons. He began his coaching career in 1960 as a player-coach for Dallas and has been with the Giants, Rams and Steelers before going to the Saints.

Frazier-Ali Fight Films In San Rafael

The film will be shown at 7 and 9:45 p.m. each night, at the theater's regular ticket prices. Joe Frazier retained his title with a 15-round unanimous decision over Muhammad Ali.

PREP SWIMMING

San Marin Keeps Pace With Powerful Trojans

Paced by a pair of sophomores who each scored a double win and then combined to lead a victorious relay, the San Marin High School Mustangs kept pace with the powerful Terra Linda Trojans yesterday by winning their second straight Marin County Athletic League swimming meet, 71-24 over Tamalpais High in Novato.

Terra Linda, which swept past Redwood last Friday in a league-opening meet, easily outmuscled Drake, 84-11 in San Anselmo, and in the other league contest, Redwood got by Novato, 53-42 in Larkspur.

San Marin, which won only a single meet in two years before defeating Drake last Friday, dealt Tam its second defeat in grand style as sophomore Steve Gregoritch took both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races, and another soph. Dan O'Connell, won the 200 individual medley and the 400 free. They also contributed to a Mustang victory in the day's final event, the 400 free relay.

The Terra Linda Trojans had things their own way — in fact didn't lose a race, in beating Drake. Coach Bob Pollitt spread his talent around evenly, so that only one swimmer, Bruce Fromberg, emerged a double winner. He took the 50 free and the 100 free. Thom Guthrie and sophomore sensation Rick DeMont, who customarily win two events apiece, each won only one event. DeMont took the 200 I.M., and Guthrie romped in the 200 free.

Redwood got double wins from Paul Cane in the 100 fly and the 200 I.M. and Brian Hennessy in the 50 and 400 free events to offset a pair of victories by Novato's Roger Rechsteiner and the fabulous diving of John Summerfield.

Rechsteiner placed first in the 200 free and the 100 back, and Summerfield ran away from the field as he won the springboard competition with 260.35 points.

A Tennis Tie

Terra Linda and St. Ignatius of San Francisco high schools battled to a 5-5 tie in an interleague tennis match Monday. Terra Linda winners were Mark Yuan, Jack Labarthe, Tom Reti and Bob Kitchin in singles and the doubles team of Jamie Lee-Steve Constable.

NHL MEETINGS

Finley Makes Presence Felt

You can tell by the pained expression on the faces of the sport's traditionalists.

Finley has set the world of major league baseball agog ever since he assumed ownership of the Kansas City A's in 1961. Baseball purists watched with dismay a long parade of Finley's promotional gimmicks: sheep, their wool dyed various colors, grazing in a mini-pasture beyond the right field wall; the infamous Pennant Porch in right field, an idea prompted by Finley's assertion that a short right field had helped the New York Yankees win all those pennants; Charlie O., the mule adopted as team mascot; and the gaudy gold and green team uniforms of the A's, complete with white leather spikes.

It wasn't long after Finley moved the A's to Oakland in 1968 that he decided to dabble in hockey. He purchased the Oakland Seals of the National Hockey League in May of 1969 for $4.5 million and promised the club would soon be an "artistic and commercial success."

To assure that end, Finley was soon up to his old tricks. The club adopted the now-familiar Kelly green and gold uniforms, skates made from albino kangaroos, live seals as mascots and a new name: The California Golden Seals.

"There'll be a lot of entertainment between periods," Finley promised.

But that's part of the trouble that the team finds itself in. Seals' games have been noted more for the entertainment between periods than for action during them. So far, the Seals have been an artistic and commercial bust. They're mired in the West Division cellar, having won only 17 of 67 games.

"Attendance in Oakland is certainly not sufficient to sustain a club there," said Clarence Campbell, NHL president, at Tuesday's meeting of club owners and general managers who gathered prior to the Lester Patrick Memorial dinner Tuesday night.

"Finley has the best of intentions, but he just is not knowledgeable enough in hockey as he is in baseball," Campbell said.

The controversial owner of the Seals is reportedly scouting the San Francisco area with an eye to relocating the Seals. Campbell dismissed the possibility, however, saying that Finley had signed a long-term lease in Oakland.

"Besides, San Francisco is as tight as New York as far as new franchises working their way in," Campbell added.

Other items on the agenda of league business Tuesday included a resolution to vote within 15 days on a new plan to purchase the financially-troubled Pittsburgh Penguins; a suggestion to spread first-round playoff action over a longer period of time and a three-point plan for achieving more effective parity between the newer teams of the West and the established clubs in the Eastern Division.

The plan includes an embargo to be placed on the trading of draft choices in the amateur draft, a reduction in the number of players clubs are allowed to protect in the intra-league draft and making talent available for cash rather than through player trades.

IT WAS A GREAT FIGHT

While millions of people around the world were watching Monday night's heavyweight championship fight between Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier on closed circuit television, 7,000 fans were busy busting up Chicago's Coliseum because technical difficulties forced cancellation of the telecast there. The outraged fans broke windows, threw chairs, and destroyed a $40,000 projector, but nobody was injured.

Amazing Tennis Streak

Redwood High School's tennis team made it 50 wins in a row yesterday by defeating Napa High, 7-2, in a season opening, non-league match at Napa, while the Tamalpais Indians, runnersup to the Giants last year in the Marin County Athletic League, defeated San Rafael, 5½-1½ in a preseason contest at San Rafael.

With Jerry Suyderhoud and the team of Gregg and Gary Gieson contributing perfect victories, the Drake High School Pirates (1-1) shutout Vallejo High, 7-0 yesterday in a preseason tennis match at Vallejo.

Redwood lost the first singles match and the final doubles event but won everything in between to romp past the Chiefs. David Raney had the Larkspur team's finest win, taking his match by a 6-0, 6-0 count. Freshman Dan Tierney, Andy Walker and Steve DeMartini also posted convincing victories.

Tam lost only one match and suffered a tie in another enroute to a decisive win over San Rafael. Mark Altamarino, the Bulldogs' No. 1 man, went three sets to beat Tam's Bob Goldfien, but Marcus Robinson, Craig Douglas and John Vanderwerff all won for the Indians.

Rangers' President Gets Memorial Award

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Jennings, 50-year old president of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, was presented with the Lester Patrick Memorial Trophy for 1971 Tuesday night "for outstanding service to hockey in the United States."

Jennings is credited with being most responsible for the expansion of the NHL to seven additional U.S. cities in the last five years.

Snider Had 43

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Duke Snider's 43 home runs for the then-Brooklyn Dodgers is the all-time home run record for one season for the club. Snider's 43 total that year also led the National League.

Tam found its fielding spotty and the weather cold in an abbreviated loss to Sonoma. The Indians committed five errors in as many innings; only four of the Dragons' runs were earned. Mike Johnson had two singles for Tam.

The Petaluma Trojans of the North Bay I League suffered their second setback in three preseason games, bowing to San Leandro, 5-4. Each team scored twice in the first inning, and twice again in the fourth. San Leandro got the winning run on a bases-loaded wild pitch in the bottom of the seventh.

Rod Laver Upset; Sharon Walsh Wins

SYDNEY (UPI)—England's Mark Cox, who made a name for himself in 1968 when he became the first amateur to defeat a professional in open tournament play, shocked the tennis world again today when he defeated top-seeded Rod Laver, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 in the third round of the $56,000 Australian Open tennis championships.

The loss deprived Laver of a chance to win another Grand Slam championship. Three times he has won the Australian, French, Wimbledon and Forest Hills titles in a single year.

San Rafael's 19-year-old Sharon Walsh yesterday defeated Australian Pat Edwards 6-3, 6-1 in the second round of women's division play.

Basketball

CHICAGO (UPI) — Contrary to rumor, the Milwaukee Bucks really are human. The Bucks have been playing the superhuman role the last month, setting a national basketball association record with 20 consecutive victories. But the Chicago Bulls brought them back to earth Tuesday night, outscoring Milwaukee 11-4 in an overtime session to record a 110-103 victory.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arnold "Red" Auerbach, the power behind the Boston Celtics dynasty, was named today as the National Basketball Association's Silver Anniversary coach.

Auerbach, now president and general manager of the Celtics, coached Boston to nine consecutive Eastern Division titles between 1957 and 1965 and eight straight league championships between 1959-66.

The 24 living nominees to the NBA's Silver Anniversary team and a special 10-man committee which selected the nominees gave Auerbach 19 votes in the balloting.

Football

CLEVELAND, (UPI) — All 26 National Football League teams have been ordered to show a federal grand jury any records which may indicate the "stacking, boycotting, detainment or blacklisting" of football players, it was learned Tuesday.

The grand jury has been convened since late last year to investigate possible anti-trust violations by the NFL or alleged "blackballing" of players.

Bowling

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Dick Weber, who pocketed $7,000 for winning last weekend's Buckeye open bowling tournament at Toledo, Ohio, has vaulted to fourth in the list of leading money winners on the professional bowlers association tour.

The Buckeye win, Weber's 22nd career victory, boosted his 1971 winnings to $19,880 and all-time earnings to near $360,000.

Overprivileged Kids And Boxing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An orthopedic surgeon who runs a gym in East Orange, N.J., says "overprivileged kids" should learn to box.

Dr. Max M. Novich said he teaches boxing to youngsters who have "too much mother and too many sisters."

He insisted that learning to fight does not create bullies.

"You never become a bully once you can take care of yourself," he said.

A former boxer himself, Novich said most youngsters in his social class do not get enough training to handle bullies who are found on every school yard.

May s Lanier Pace Giants' Victory

PHOENIX (UPI) — There's nothing that will make a manager happier than good hitting and good pitching—preferably combined by his team in one game.

The San Francisco Giants did just that Tuesday to defeat San Diego, 7-3, and manager Charley Fox should be a happy man today when his club meets the California Angels here.

The hitting came from two veterans — superstar Willie Mays and shortstop Hal Lanier. Mays slammed a single, double and a triple while driving in four runs.

The Padres couldn't keep Lanier off the bases as he collected four hits in four trips. In addition, Ken Henderson cleared the rightfield fence for the second homer of the spring season.

On the pitching side, Frank Reberger and Jim Moyer blanked the Padres over the first six innings. After San Diego scored two runs off Don McMahon in the seventh, Fox brought in young Steve Kokor to pitch the eighth, and he allowed one run.

The Giants now have a 3-2 exhibition season record.

Odom Told To Slow Down; To Miss Most Of Season

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—As the Oakland Athletics were moaning over the bad news about pitcher John Odom, they got what appears to be some good news about another starter.

In his first outing of the exhibition season, Catfish Hunter tossed three scoreless innings Tuesday after being troubled by a stiff shoulder.

And for more good news, rookie infielder Dwain Anderson homered as the A's improved their Cactus League mark to 3-2 by blasting the Chicago Cubs, 11-5.

The bad news came Wednesday when the A's learned Odom may not be able to appear in a game until after the July 13th All-Star game break.

Odom had some bone chips removed from his pitching elbow in an operation last December. The surgeon who performed the operation has ordered a slowdown in Odom's recovery program.

"The doctor wants me to lay off batting practice," Odom said, "throw 20 to 30 minutes on the sidelines at 30 to 40 per cent speed until April 15."

The A's continue their exhibition season today with a contest against the Tokyo Orions.

Follows Tradition

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Bobby Murcer clubbed four consecutive home runs in consecutive games in June, 1970, he was the fourth Yankee to turn the trick. Previous sluggers included Lou Gehrig, Johnny Blanchard and Mickey Mantle. Gehrig hit his four in one game.

Rams' Josephson And Bride In Vegas

She is a former UCLA student. It is his second marriage and her first.

A spokesman said they will make their home in Los Angeles after spending a few more days at the Dunes Hotel.

actual return from the multi-million-dollar fight will be about $370,000. Ali, who said he was speaking for both fighters, said the Federal Government would get $1.5-million off the top, New York State would get $384,000 and that the training expenses for each totaled about $255,000.

He stopped short, however, of asking to borrow a dime from a reporter when he wanted to make a telephone call.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Boating Facts For Fishermen

Surveys taken at the New York and several other boat shows this year indicate that fishing is still a very powerful reason for buying a boat.

It's not the prime reason any more, but it's big enough for all the boat and motor manufacturers to make many models pitched entirely to the angler.

This year there are at least half a dozen aluminum models light enough (well under 100 pounds) for one man to put up on top of his car, and at least twice as many trailer models, big and roomy, yet still easily wrestled into and out of the water by one man without danger of a heart attack.

All these anglers' boats are sturdy, well-braced craft with a minimum of thwarts, stiffeners and braces inside, painted with a non-slip interior paint so that in the exictement of landing a fish the angler won't slip and fall overboard.

Some of the outboard motors are so light (under 35 pounds) that even your wife can juggle them into and out of the car trunk along with the picnic lunch.

Now what makes a good fishing boat for the relatively quiet lakes and coastal waters we mentioned?

No matter how you explain it, it boils down to one thing . . . stability. Fishing is an exciting business . . . when you land a big fish . . . and in the excitement a tippy, unstable boat may be fatal.

To get stability a boat must have BEAM, that means width. Beam gives an angler a better chance to move around in it without tipping over. It's important because despite all the hysterical publicity given in the past few years to our reckless youth . . . the water cowboys . . . it's still the sane, mature angler, just out for a quiet day's fishing who shows up most frequently in the boating fatality statistics.

That there are many angles to angling, and a lot of fishermen are plagued by doubts, is shown by some of these questions I've been asked:

Q. I have a 16-foot aluminum canoe, very light, also a boat a little heavier. Which do you recommend for fishing?

A. I hate to knock canoes, I was brought up with them. But unless he's been to camp as a boy and learned to handle a canoe, I would say the modern day city slicker does better with a boat, and the beamier the better.

Q. My 9-foot boat doesn't steer well when I'm fishing. It's because I have to sit at the back which puts the bow up in the air. What can I do?

A. You could put a wheel on a pedestal with remote controls up forward. this will let you sit amidship so that the boat is trimmed properly. A gadget is also available which is a sort of extension of the steering handle. This lets you sit amidship and still control the motor.

Q. Why is a small motor better for trolling?

A. See answer above. The outboard is most efficient at a fairly large throttle opening, so if you do a lot of trolling, try to get the smallest motor possible which will still have enough power to push the boat.

Q. I fish in a very weedy lake in New York state. Is there any way to stop the prop from getting tangled up in weeds?

A. Some motors are equipped with "weed-cutter" propellers. I've tried them, they really work. You might trade in your present motor for one of them.

Q. Do weeds hurt an outboard motor when trolling?

A. If they throw the prop out of balance and cause it to vibrate, they are harmful. Reverse and throw them off.

Q. Can I rent a boat and put on my own motor? I hate to carry a boat on top of the car.

A. If they rent boats where you are going to fish, this is a good idea. I've never run into a boat rental livery that wouldn't let you put a motor on one of their boats as long as motors were permitted in the area. There's just one thing. Take along a lifejacket for each person. Once you put a motor on a rowboat, the law says you have to carry lifejackets. Many anglers forget.

Q. Which outboard scares the fish the least?

A. The outboard motor manufacturers have been saying for years that a gently running motor attracts fish. Skeptic that I was, I didn't believe this until one day I was scuba diving and saw it with my own eyes.

Tam Trackmen Lose Opener

Despite a triple win by Gerald Robertson, the Tamalpais High School Indians lost their season opening track meet yesterday, 69-49 to Castlemont High of Oakland yesterday in Mill Valley.

Robertson, a senior, was among four first place winners for the Indians as he took the 120 high hurdles in 15.7 seconds, the 180 low hurdles in 21.3 and the high jump at 6 feet, 2 inches. Mike Arago won the mile in 4:30.6, Terry Rutledge took the shot put at 47-11¾, and Dave Claxton won the pole vault with a jump of 9 feet.

Twins Putting Emphasis On 'Old Folks' At Camp

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Rookies are big news in most spring training camps but at Orlando, Fla., where the Minnesota twins are working out, the emphasis is on the "old folks."

No rookie is being counted upon to make a significant contribution to the Twins' bid for a third straight west division title in the American league this year so manager Bill Rigney's primary concern is that his veteran regulars work themselves into shape.

Harmon Killebrew and Jim Perry, each 34, are two of the twins' key "old folks" and both starred Tuesday as the Twins unleashed an 11-hit attack and downed the Kansas City Royals, 6-1.

Killebrew, who hit 41 homers and drove in 113 runs last season, hit a homer and two singles while Perry, whose 24-12 record won him the Al Pitcher of the Year award, allowed one hit in three innings. Killebrew's homer was off Bruce Dal Canton while the only hit off Perry was a leadoff single by George Spriggs. Perry retired the next nine batters in succession.

On other fronts: Bill Singer allowed one hit in three shutout innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the New York Yankees, 4-3, for their third straight exhibition win . . . Joe Hague's three hits and three errors by Boston helped the St. Louis Cardinals down the Red Sox, 9-5. The Red Sox's sloppy play was disappointing to manager Eddie Kasko, who sacrificed power in winter trades in hopes of improving Boston's defense and pitching.

Veteran Chris Short was hammered for four runs in the first inning as the Chicago White Sox beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-2. Bill Robinson's two-run single was the key blow of the White Sox' rally . . . Al Kaline's ninth-inning sacrifice fly drove in the winning run for the Detroit Tigers in an 8-7 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, who lost their fourth straight game. Lee May hit two homers for the National League champions.

Frank Robinson's two-run homer was the big blow for the Baltimore Orioles in a 5-4 triumph over the Montreal Expos. Center-fielder Paul Blair saved the decision for the world champions with a spectacular catch of a drive by Bob Bailey with two out and the bases filled in the ninth inning . . Marty Martinez' bases-filled single drove in the winning run in a five-run ninth as the Houston Astros rallied for a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Tim Foli, making a strong bid to win a regular third base job, drove in two runs with a pair of singles to lead the New York Mets to a 3-0 triumph which snapped the Pittsburgh Pirates four-game winning streak. Roberto Clemente played for the Pirates for the first time this spring and was hitless in two at bats.

Cactus League Fans Like Mr. Gallagher

PHOENIX — Cactus League baseball fans like Alan Gallagher as much as Candlestick Park fans do. Last spring Cactus League fans got only occasional glimpses of Gallagher who was a rookie then and rarely appeared in starting lineups.

This spring Gallagher is the regular third base starter for the Giants, not a late inning substitute for Jim Ray Hart or Tito Fuentes. Yes, a year ago Fuentes played numerous exhibition games at third. In fact, Fuentes was listed at third for the 1970 season opener in Candlestick until Horace Stoneham got a peek at the lineup.

STONEHAM suggested to Clyde King, then manager of the ball club, that the lineup would look better with Fuentes at second base in place of Ron Hunt, since traded away, and Gallagher at third. A suggestion from a club president is a diplomatic way of issuing an order. King got the idea.

So Gallagher started at third, much to his surprise after playing the understudy role throughout the Cactus League exhibitioners. The fact that he was a native of San Francisco, the first to play for the Giants since they moved west in 1958, was a favorable factor in his behalf. After all, the Giants needed a hometown favorite to help at the box office.

STONEHAM KNEW what he was doing. Stoneham has been in the entertainment business a long time. But he also knew that Gallagher would have to provide his own brand of glove and bat entertainment. Gallagher did.

The young man out of Santa Cruz University by way of Mission High in San Francisco immediately captured the admiration of Candlestick fans by diving to his left and diving to his right for ground balls. At bat, Gallagher was sensational, hitting .500 (15-for-30) in his first seven major league games.

OF COURSE, Gallagher knew that major league pitchers wouldn't permit such shenanigans to continue. It wasn't long before the pitchers had a book on Gallagher and put him in an 0-for-26 slump. But he did all right at bat over the season, winding up with .266.

There were other slumps after the initial 0-for-26 one and during each dip, Gallagher would crack: "My glove will carry me." He is an irrepressible optimist. Even when Hart was recalled from Phoenix and replaced Gallagher at third in midseason, Gallagher still bubbled on the bench. He knew that he would get a late inning call for defensive duty at third.

NOW GALLAGHER has the third base job all to himself. Steve Huntz, the fellow the Giants got during the winter from the Padres for Don Mason, is Gallagher's late inning sub in this spring's exhibitioners. There's no competition from Hart whose winter shoulder operation will keep him out of action until at least May 15.

So Gallagher started the 1971 Cactus League in the same way he started the 1970 National League season. He went 2-for-2 in the Cactus League opener, plus a pair of walks. He raced to first on the walks. Cactus League fans had never seen a batter running out walks — at least, not the opening day crowd in Scottsdale Stadium. They applauded Gallagher's hustling.

"Anybody can walk to first on a base on balls," said Gallagher, a ball player with the instinct of a showman.

Today is Wednesday, March 10, the 69th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:

In 1862 the first paper money was issued by the United States Treasury in denominations from $5 to $1,000.

In 1945 B-29 bombers of the U.S. Air Force began incendiary raids on Japan in the waning days of World War II.

Humphrey: Nixon Is Holding Out

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said Monday President Nixon is withholding $1 billion of funds for housing and social programs that were appropriated by Congress in 1968.

Humphrey said at a news conference the action "raises a serious constitutional question" and he said he would take up the issue in Congress later this year.

The 1968 Democratic presidential candidate said partially because these funds are not being spent, "we are not keeping up" with a growing housing shortage in the U.S.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Noise From The Opponents Can Determine Distribution

When your side holds most of the tickets, your opponents will tend to keep quiet unless they have good distribution. You can often predict how your long suits are going to break by the amount of noise the opponents have made. If the enemy has kept quiet, your suits will probably break normally; and if the opponents have made a lot of noise, because of their unusual distribution, your suits will break abnormally. This kind of clue is useful in a hand like today's.

RUFFS SPADE

Declarer ruffs the first spade in the dummy and quite correctly leads a trump. East plays low, and South can show whether he is a bridge player or just another pretty face.

Your favorite partner would begin the trumps by taking the ace and king. West would show out, and your partner would slowly and painfully draw one more round of trumps. Then he would start the clubs, hoping for a miracle.

East would ruff the second club and would lead a diamond. The defenders would take two diamonds and two spades, defeating the contract.

This would give you the chance to pounce on your partner for his careless play. (Why else is the lummox your favorite partner?)

AMPLE EVIDENCE

If declarer thinks about the bidding he will see ample evidence of bad suit breaks. The opponents surely have singletons to bid so much on so few high cards.

After ruffing the first spade in dummy, declarer should lead a trump and try a finesse with the ten. Even if this finesse should lose, declarer can regain the lead and draw the rest of the trumps. Then he can safely run the clubs.

DIAMOND SWITCH

South is safe against a switch to diamonds if West wins a trump trick. He is not safe if East eventually wins a trump trick.

As the cards lie, the trump finesse wins, and South easily draws the rest of the trumps and runs the clubs. The thoughtful declarer wins the first 12 tricks instead of going down one.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player makes a weak jump to three diamonds.

You hold:
♠ - A 9 7 4
♥ - J 8 7 2
♦ - 9 8 5 4
♣ - 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades. Your hand is not quite worth a jump raise, but you cannot afford to pass. Your partner should understand that your raise is likely to be made under some pressure. If you had a really good hand, you would bid a new suit or jump from three diamonds to four spades.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would like your opinion of Rocket Research. I have a sizable loss on 200 shares bought at $25 per share. Should I sell or add to holdings? — J.P.

A. Originally engaged in research and development in the field of rocket technology, Rocket Research has diversified in recent years and moved into the manufacture of products related to this field.

At present, small hydrazine control rockets, cool gas generation equipment and explosives are the major sales areas. Company has compiled an impressive growth record over the past three years. And amidst the overly depressed condition of the aerospace industry in 1970, the firm turned in a record year.

RR completed fiscal 1970 with a 54 per cent gain in revenues to $10.9 million and a 65 per cent rise in net income to $397,000 or 27 cents a share. While the company has made good progress thus far, it is still comparatively small and evolving. However, highly speculative shares may be held for their long-pull investment merit.

Q. I own shares of Roosevelt Raceway and have been told by friends, who also own the stock, that Madison Square Garden plans to take over Roosevelt. What should I do? Am now interested in income. — A.Y.

A. In September, an agreement in principle was announced to combine Roosevelt Raceway with Madison Square Garden and Transnation Development Corp. (when combined, the firms owned about 64 per cent of Roosevelt). The transaction was contingent upon the merged companies acquiring another 16.1 per cent of Roosevelt's shares, which were recently accomplished. MSG is now tending for Roosevelt's remaining stock.

Under the proposed plan, each Roosevelt share would be exchanged for about 12.5 shares of MSG, or at least $48 in market value. Regardless of the outcome of this situation, I advise that you sell your holdings in Roosevelt, since income is your primary objective. At current quotes, Roosevelt returns only 1.4 per cent.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Various Ways to Deduct Expense Of Traveling As Part Of Work

Traveling expenses in connection with your employment can be deducted from your income in arriving at your adjusted gross income. This means that you can also use the standard deduction or itemize your deductions, whichever is better for you.

Our-of-Town Expenses — The law provides special deductions for the expenses of travel while away from home in connection with your employer's business. Traveling "away from home" means going away from the city or town where you normally work and remaining away at least overnight. "Travel expenses" means the cost of transportation fares, meals and lodging, and includes porters' tips, hire of public stenographers, baggage charges and similar expenses necessary to travel.

Other Transportation Expenses — Even though you do not travel away from home, you may deduct transportation expenses paid in connection with the performance of services for your employer. Transportation expenses include payments for actual travel or, if you use your own car, the business portion of the cost of operation, including fuel, repairs and depreciation.

Expenses of Outside Salesmen — The law allows "Outside Salesmen" to deduct all their ordinary and necessary business expenses. This applies only to full time salesmen who are engaged in soliciting business for their employers away from their employer's place of business. The term does not include one whose principal activities consist of service and delivery such as a milk-driver salesman.

Any reimbursement of these expenses must be included in your income.

An employee who gets a fixed per diem for travel and entertainment and gift expenses isn't required to account in detail for the outlays unless the per diem exceeds the higher of $25 or 125% of the per diem the government allows its employees.

Recently the government per diem was changed raising the per diem allowance to $25 from $16. The old government allowance was $16 per diem and so we were allowed 125% of that amount, which did not equal $25 so we were allowed the $25.

There is a new rule raising the federal figure to $25 from $16, 125% of $25 is $31.25 so our rate has been increased to $31.25 per day.

If your employer reimburses you for the use of your car in any amount up to 15c per mile, you will be considered to have accounted for the expense.

If your automobile expense reimbursement is less than 12c per mile for the first 15,000 miles and 9c per mile thereafter, you will want to include the reimbursement in your income and take a deduction at the new standard rates. The standard rate for use of your automobile has been increased from 10= per mile for the first 15,000 miles and 7c a mile thereafter to 12c a mile for the first 15,000 miles and 9c a mile thereafter.

Be sure to attach a statement to your return explaining in detail the expenses you deduct. IRS provides Form 2106 for this purpose.

Transportation expenses do not include the expense of commuting to and from work. Community is a personal living expense and is not deductible.

San Diego Plant To Close Down

In making the announcement Tuesday, the firm said every effort would be made to help the 165 displaced workers find new jobs.

Outside organizations will take over the packaging.

Market Slightly Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market was slightly lower in heavy turnover near noon Wednesday.

Analysts said there were no particular news factors weighing on the list, but "just another snag around the 900 level" on the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

Shortly before noon, declines outscored advances, 610 to 567.

Prices were mixed in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. Instrument Systems, the most active Amex issue, was factionally higher on over 50,000 shares.

Among issues off a point or so were Jersey Standard, Superior Oil, Sears Roebuck, Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and Westinghouse.

Stockholder Meeting At Redwood Bank

Redwood Bank, San Rafael, will hold its annual stockholders meeting on Thursday, March 25 at 5 p.m.

Among matters to be voted on will be the reelection of the present eight directors of the bank, the issuance of a capital note to the Union Bank, Los Angeles for $400,000 to meet anticipated increased demands for bank services and the disposition of stock dividend fractional interests resulting from the 5 per cent stock dividend declared in January.

Security Mortgage Group Opens Loan Office In San Rafael

An office has been opened at 1031 C Street, San Rafael by the Security Mortgage Group, agent for the production of FHA and veterans' loans, first deeds of trusts and tract loans in Northern California for Security Pacific National Bank.

This will be the main office, headed by Richard Bergmann of Fairfax as president. He was formerly with the mortgage division of the Redwood Bank. Lease arrangements were handled by John Hourihan of Grubb and Ellis Co., San Rafael.

Marvelous Marin Realty, formerly at this address, has relocated at 1299 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

THE SAN RAFAEL SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE, which serves all of Marin County, has now completed its move from downtown Fourth Street to its new and larger offices at 549 Northgate Drive, south of the Northgate Mall. This is its first move since opening in San Rafael six years ago.

As the new location may seem to pose a problem for some persons, district manager Edwin H. Leuin recommends phoning first before making a trip there, as new procedures now make it possible to handle almost all social security business this way. This includes filing applications for most benefits. The telephone number has been changed, by the way. Also, Marin residents outside the local calling area may use a toll-free Enterprise number (check with information operator).

If it is necessary to make the trip and public transportation is required, buses of the new Marin County Transit District, which ply from Kentfield to Novato, stop about a block from the office.

WILLIAM R. BACON of Mill Valley, pharmacist-partner in the Lawson-Dyer Pharmacy of that city, has been chosen president-elect of the American Pharmaceutical Association Academy of General Practice of Pharmacy.

TAMALPAIS HARDWARE at 30 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley has increased its retail area by 40 per cent. The additional 600 square feet is being used by the Kerrigans for an expanded jewelry and lapidary supply department which now includes many new items for both amateur and professional craftsmen, as well as a continuing mineral and rock display.

MAURICE M. CHARLAT of San Anselmo has been appointed vice president, marketing development, for Consumer and Service Industries, Greenwich, Conn. He was formerly vice president of marketing for California Canners and Growers and had been with that company and Filice and Perrili Canning Co. since 1957. He and his family plan to move to Connecticut.

Griffin

PHILIP G. GRIFFIN of Novato has been named regional structural engineer for Portland Cement Association. He has been on the association staff in San Francisco since 1967. He will continue to be headquartered there. A registered structural engineer, he previously operated his own engineering firm in Pomona for eight years before joining the association.

R. GRAYLING SMITH of Novato has joined Viscom Associates, Inc., San Rafael as staff photographer. He is also the official photographer for the Marin County Republican Central Committee. He was formerly with Greenwich Graphics in San Francisco.

MISS GEORGIA GEHRKE of San Rafael has been promoted to assistant cashier in the accounts receivable department in San Francisco for United California Bank. She has been with the bank since 1965.

Northrop, Varadyne To Produce AIRS

NORTHBRIDGE, Calif. (BW) — Northrop Corp. and Varadyne Systems Division of Varadyne Inc. have entered into a 10-year agreement for production and marketing of the Airborne Infrared Seeker (AIRS) system.

Developed by Varadyne, the system is capable of passively detecting jet aircraft at ranges of 20 miles at any altitude. It was designed primarily for airborne use in defending against attacking aircraft. In operation, AIRS supplies its information to the aircraft's missile defense system.
